The scarcity of material for sale in the State, and the uncertainty of procuring supplies from abroad, force us to rely on our domestic resources. It is thought that every family can spare one or more Blankets without personal inconvenience, or a pair of Woolen Socks, and it is believed that for such a pur

All contributions of this kind may be boxed and forwarded to the nearest Railroad Depot, and due information thereof sent to the Governor. The Sheriffs are further requested to furnish to the

Candles .- A correspondent sends us the following receipt, which, in our present condition, will be universally useful. Oil of every kind is very scarce, in fact can hardly be obtained at all, and candles too are too high priced for free use. Let every family provide its own light, which can Granville-A. W. Venable, T. L. Hargrove, be done if this receipt is observed, at a greatly reduced expense: Take a half pound of alum and saltpetre, pulverise coarsely, pour on it a quart of boiling water; take from twelve to twenty pounds of tallow, according to its firmness. The former quantity for the oily tallow we get from the fat beef in the summer, or for lard, and the latter for tallow that will stand in a cake; put it in an iron vessel near the fire, and when melted, stir in the dissolved alum and saltpetre, and boil until the water is expelled from the tallow Have wicks made rather smaller and of finer thread than usual for home made candles-and when perfectly dry mould the candles in the usual way. If any one, after giving this receipt a trial, goes in darkness, it is because their deeds are evil .- Iredell Express.

A. H. Douglas, a well known and influential merchant of Bennettsville, had his left foot badly crushed by an accident on the South Carokna Railroad, on Wednesday; the 4th instant, at the Charlotte Junction, two miles below Columbia. He was taken to Hunt's Hotel, where he lingered New Hanover-R. H. Cowan, Robert Strange. in great agony until Monday, the 9th instant, when death put an end to his sufferings. Charleston Courier

Resignations in the Army .- We learn that the War Department has determined to adopt the uniform rule of refusing to accept the resignations of commissioned officers in the army, unless on evidence of disability, furnished in a surgeon's certificate, or for especial reasons within the discretion of the Secretary of war. - Rich. Exam.

Senator Douglas's Children .- The North Carolina relatives of the children of the late Senator Douglas, sent an agent to the North to se cure their emigration South. He has just returned without success, in consequence of the refusal of Mrs. Douglas, to whose care the dying father confided them. It is understood that some months ago she was willing to the removal, the object being to save their large property in the South, which would otherwise come under the operation of the Confederate sequestration law. We understand she now says that the property will soon be saved by the speedy triumphal advance of the "Grand Army," which in a few weeks will have taken possession of North Carolina. By thus adopting the miserable delusion of the Northern braggarts she sacrifices the interests of her step-children .- Rich. Enquirer.

We conversed with the Agent, Capt. Yudy, on his return from Washington. Mrs. D's refusal to permit the children to come South, is to be regretted. It would be hard to deprive these innocent children of their inheritance. Their mother was a Southern woman, and their father was a staunch friend of the South up to within a few months preceding his death. Judge Douglas's Steam Navigation a Pecuniary Failure .- The London Times declares that white steam navigation has been a scientific success, it has been a pecuniary failure, inasmuch as all the lines of ocean steamers require enormous appropriations from the government to keep them affoat.

An Exacting Husband .- Wycherly, the comedian, married a young girl of eighteen when he was verging on eighty. Shortly after, Providence was pleased, in its mercy to the young woman, to call the old man to another and better world. But ere he took his final departure from this, he summoned his young wife to his bedside, and announced to her that he was dying; whereupon she wept bitterly. Wycherly hifted himself up in his bed, and gazing with tender emotions on his young and weeping wife, said: "My dearest love, I have a solemn promise to exact from you before I quit you forever here below. Will you assure me my wishes shall be attended to by you, however great the sacrifice you may be called on to make?" Horrid ideas of suttees, of poor Indian widows being called on to expire on funeral pyres with the bodies of their deceased lords and masters, flashed across the brain of the poor

With a convulsive effort and desperate resolution, old Wycherly's young wife gasped out an adjoining the land belonging to the estate of George assurance that his commands, however dreadful they might be, should be obeyed.
