Edgecombe and Wilson-W. S. Battle, Geo Correspondence of the London Times. THE ERUPTION OF VESUVIUS. NAPLES, Dec. 10, From Naples little is seen excepting those grand columns of smoke which rise gigantically into the air, and which, according to as close a measurement as could be made. were calculated-that from the lower mouths at 10,000 feet, and that from, the upper crater at 3,000 feet in height. Our streets are free from the dust of the mountain, and though for some time after the sun rose it appeared to be in a state of eclipse, yet to witness all the wonders of the spectacle it is necessary to leave the capital and visit the site of the disaster.

From the confines of the city to Torre del Greco one passes between two lines of a curious population who have turned out to see the crowds who flock down to Torre del Greco. The wind blows off the mountain due North and South, so that, until you get just under the column, you are not exposed to the shower of dust which falls thickly and constantly, almost blinding one and certainly not conducing to easy respiration. On arriving at the devoted little town, which numbers, by-theby, 22,000 souls. I found the place, except at the station, almost deserted. Every house was aban-Mecklenburg-J. W. Osborne, Wm. Johnston. doned, and, as proving how rapid was the flight, melons and other articles still hung suspended outside the windows. At the station there was a vast crowd of persons, some of the last lingering inhabitants, with beds and other articles of furniture, anxious to be off. *

The first thing which strikes the eye is the blackened appearance of every object, the fine dust, which had fallen in heavy showers, lying four and a half inches in depth in the streets and on the tops of the houses. Some of these were cracked horizontally across the flat roofs, and others perpendicularly, but it is not until you turn off to the left, a little beyond the station, that the full point, ascending the mountain, a number of houses are passed which have been most materially injured, from 400 to 500 in all, and rendered to a certain extent unsafe. At one house in particular, a handsome building too, the proprietor, who had returned for some articles which he had left behind, was breaking the windows to get in, entrance by the doorway being impossible.

On the 8th instant, at about a quarter past 11, A. M., a great trembling of the ground was felt at Torre del Greco, which continued at intervals of from five to ten minutes. The population were in great alarm, expecting an earthquake. At Resi this tremulous motion was felt, though not .so strongly, about mid-day. Towards 3 o'clock in the afternoon a large opening was made in the ground above Torre del Greco, and a half a mile lower than the crater of 1774, and the first cone was formed underneath the house of Francesco Cruel. This house was thrown into the air, as were four others, in a Meseria close by. The lava has arrived, on the morning of the 9th, at about a quarter of an hour's walk above the Monastery of the Cappucini, which has been destroyed; and is a half a mile.in breadth. All the Arkansas-Messrs Robert W Johnson, Chas houses in Torre have fissures in them, and the population have fled to Naples. At the time that Florida-Messrs James M Baker, A E Max- the new cones were formed, the top of the mountain was tranquil, but about 2 o'clock in the morning the grand crater at the summit burst Kentucky-Messrs H C Burnett, William E out with a tremendous noise, throwing stones and ashes to a great height. Every effort of this kind is accompanied by a sound as of thunder. One Mississippi-Messrs Albert G Brown, James of the guides, called Genuarino Sannino, while attempting to get a piece of the red hot lava in Missouri-Messrs John B Clark, RS T Peyton. which to put a coin, was killed on the spot by North Carolina-Messrs George Davis, Wil- a stone which fell upon his head. > Pea Nut Oil .-- Messrs. Grant & Tennant have commenced the manufacture of oil in this city from the pea nut. The specimen now before us has a clear, handsome appearance, resembling sperm. It is an enterprise that must pay the energetic manufacturers handsomely for their trouble and outlay. Whale oils have almost entirely disappeared, and but few will use lard oil, t that of the pea nut is accessible .- Pet. Express.
