Attempt to Poison our Army.—The Corinth correspondent of the New Orleans Picayune says that a most diabolical attempt was made by the enemy to poison our army in that vicinity. The following is the way it was done: After our army fell back from Nashviile, and while at Murfreesboro', large quantities of quinine were smuggled through to our lines by persons who had purchased it from Yankee vendors, and which was sold to the medical purveyors of our army. Fortunately there was no occasion to touch this lot of quinine thus purchased and distributed to the different surgeons of commands, for a few days, when Surgeon Lawrence, the medical di rector of General Hardee's division, who is a most thoroughly educated and scientific physician and surgeon, had occasion to examine one of the packages, and discovering a slight discoloration, applied the chemical tests and found that the quinine was mixed with a large quantity of strychnine and morphine. He immediately apprised the surgeons and medical purveyors of the facts, and telegraphed those at a distance.

From Nashville.—The annexed extract from a private letter, dated Nashville, March 19, will be found interesting:

My Dear Friend:-Since you left here, things have changed to a very great extent. Fully twothirds of our best population have gone, and are now scattered over the cotton States. Their places are filled by the very dregs of society from Northern cities. There are thousands of merchants and drummers here from New York, Philadelphia and Cincinnati, and new business houses are being opened here every day by Northern Capital .- Many people are hoarding up what means they have against a rainy day. Is this wise? Would it not be better to invest a portion of the capital now held by our wealthy men, in factories of different kinds, and produce ourselves the articles for which we have been so long dependent upon the North? Soap, candles, leather, edge-tools, farming utensils, shoe-making, saddlery, woollen and cotton goods, cars, buttons, pins, needles, iron-ware, outlery and earthen-ware of all kinds, are all in demand, and their manufacture will doubtless pay, if properly managed, even after the war closes. Why is it that our wealthy men do not embark in every species of manufacture demanded by the times? The neglect to employ their capital in the production of necessary articles, weakens the Confederacy and renders it less able to carry on the war. Such a policy endangers every interest in the land, and may conquer us. If so, what will stocks and promises to pay be worth? Let the people reflect. Raleigh Standard.
