FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER.

SEMI-WEEKLY.

[VOL. XL.] FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., JUNE 16, 1862. [NO. 1134.]

PRINTED MONDAYS AND THURSDAYS.

EDWARD J. HALE & SONS.

EDITORS AND PROPRIETORS

Price for the Semi-Weekly Observer $3 00 if paid in advance: $3 50 if paid during the year of subscription: or $4 after the year has expired.

For the Weekly Observer $2 00 per annum, if paid in advance; $2 50 if paid during the year of subscription; or $3 00 after the year has expired.

☞ ADVERTISEMENTS inserted for 60 cents per square of 16 lines for the first, and 30 cents for each succeeding publication. Yearly advertisements by special contracts, at reasonable rates. Advertisers are requested to state the number of insertions desired, or they will be continued till forbid, and charged accordingly.

Advertisements to be inserted inside, charged 50 per cent extra.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

From and after this date, no name of a new subscriber will be entered without payment in advance, nor will the paper be sent to such subscribers for a longer time than is paid for.

Such of our old subscribers as desire to take the paper on this system will please notify us when making remittances. Jan'y 1, 1858

☞ TO ADVERTISERS.

Persons out of town who desire advertisements inserted in the Observer, and persons in town with whom we have not regular accounts will please send with the advertisement as much money as they wish to invest in it, according to our advertising rates on the first page. We do not wish to open any more such accounts,—or indeed any accounts. The process of collection is too difficult, and we have to pay cash for every thing we use or sell in these times.

Oct. 2, 1861.

OBITUARY NOTICES.—We have heretofore given notice, repeatedly, that we charge for obituary notices of unreasonable length, and for resolutions of respect, because that kind of reading, we have much occasion to know, is not often more agreeable to readers than to editors of papers. As it generally happens, however, that after charging and paying postage on the account forwarded, we never get paid, we now give notice that we will insert nothing of the sort hereafter unless accompanied by the cash. (Always excepting in the case of deceased volunteers, when we require no pay.) Bear in mind, therefore, that we will insert obituary notices and resolutions, not exceeding 70 words, gratis. For all over 70 words, one cent a word, which must be paid before the notice will be put in type.

A LIST OF THE GENERAL OFFICERS IN THE ARMIES OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES.

The following interesting statistics of the Confederate Army organization are due to one of the Richmond correspondents of the Courier. In the list of Brigadier-Generals in the Provisional Army, the regular order of appointment is perhaps not always observed, but we believe the list is otherwise correct. The dates of graduation from West Point are taken from Gardner's Dictionary of the United States Army:

Generals in the Regular Army.

1 Samuel Cooper, Va, Adjutant General.
2 Albert S Johnston, Texas, commanding in Kentucky.
3 Joseph E Johnston, Va, commanding Northern Virginia.

How to get a Gun.—A Yorktown correspondent of the Iredell Express writes:

One night our pickets were charged upon by pretty heavy squads of both infantry and cavalry; —signal guns were fired, our reserve brought up, and the clatter of musketry began. The signs for a general battle were propitious, but all soon vanished when our heavy cannons on the forts opened on them. The incessant thunder from our guns was really appalling to us, how much more so to those in whose ranks the shells were making such direful havoc. They could not stand it, and in fifteen minutes withdrew, taking their dead and wounded with them, with the exception of one dead man, lying within fifty yards of our rifle pits, who was probably overlooked. There he lay during the balance of our stay at Yorktown, a week or more, and for aught I know may be there yet.

As remarked before, he lay not more than fifty yards from our pits, not further from the yankees, and in full view of both. For these reasons no one ventured out to bury him, and as no flag of truce was sent out he was permitted to stay. As a matter of course there was much conjecturing as to what he might have. Innumerable surmises concerning his gold, silver, pistols, &c., went the rounds of every camp-fire in our regiment. Among all they were sure of but one thing, and that was that he had a gun of some sort which could be seen distinctly, and under the circumstances that gun would certainly be a valuable trophy. This subject was discussed several nights;—the excitement ran high; many fellows boasted that when it came their time to go on picket they would get that gun, that they would sure; perhaps spin out an oath to it. But their turns came, and so came they back to camp without the gun. After all their boasting the risk seemed too great. The dead man was watched with hawk eyes by the yankees, nor could our boys raise their heads, or an arm above the bank of earth that concealed them, but a shower of balls whistled about them. Finally an intimate friend of mine allowed curiosity to become his master; perhaps not so much curiosity either as recklessness, and his "don't care a continental" sort of way; be that as it may, he resolved to get the gun or let the yankees get him in the scrape. For half an hour he watched the yankees with one eye above the parapet; he said they were not so much on the lookout, and taking advantage of the opportunity he got out of his "hoill" as he called it—lay flat on the ground and began "making the trip" snake fashion. He began to think it was half a mile instead of fifty yards, but lay low, lower than he ever lay before, and kept crawling. "Oh," said he, "Nat, you can't imagine how fidgetty I felt about the time I was going to lay hold of my stiff customer. Ay, Yes, and stink—the g-e-e buck." Did you turn him over? "I had no time for inspection; I thought the air was full of yankees, all coming at me with bayonets fixed; so grabbing the gun by the muzzle I began to crawfish. But it would not come—the fellow had hold of it too tight; I had to get back to him and absolutely tear his hands loose. At last I had the gun, and I knew very well that I had no time for footing, but crawling was too slow, and jumping up I made the fastest time on record back to my pit." But were you not fired on, I asked? "O yes," said he, "when I was half way back I was discovered and several balls whistled close to my ears; they only made me git quicker." And he did "make the trip," as he called it, and has for his trouble one of "Colt's five shooter army rifles," in fact a splended gun. It excited considerable wonder in camp, and could be sold at any time for $150—$200 has been offered. He returned his Minnie rifle to the armory and uses "the one wrenched from a dead yankee" altogether. Perhaps you would like to know the name of the fellow who ventured so far? I will give you "the first letters" viz: Reuben S. Lollar of the Saltillo Boys.

Do you want any Eggs?—The following good story is told by the correspondent of the Chicago Post, writing from one of Commodore Foote's gunboats:

"The towboat Alps yesterday dropped down to a position alongside of the Carondelet for the purpose of taking in tow a barge of coal and removing it farther up the stream. It presented a fair mark to the rebels, and they, unable to resist the temptation, blazed away. Some half dozen shells flew around her in a manner not calculated to give those on board assurance of personal safety. A day or two previous the boat had been at Cairo, and a cabin boy on board had purchased several dozen eggs. He then regarded the opportunity as an excellent one to offer the 'hen fruit' for sale to the men on the gunboat. Seizing his basket he boarded the miniature man-of-war. As he reached the spar deck a shot struck close beside the boat. The boy heeded it not, but hailing the first sailor who chanced to be on deck, drawlingly inquired, 'Do you want any eggs?' 'Get out of this,' was the reply, 'don't you see they are shooting at us?' 'Do you want any eggs?' was the only notice the boy gave the timely warning. 'D—n your eggs, I tell you no; don't you see they are shooting at us?' 'Let 'em shoot,' said the imperturbable youth; 'do you want any eggs?' At this critical moment a mortar beside the gunboat was discharged. The concussion broke every egg in the basket. For the first time he was moved. 'Confound their pictures!' he ejaculated, 'there's a dollar and a half gone to smash, anyhow.'"

Bonaparte's Fatalism.—Bonaparte told Dr. O'Meara what sort of fatalist he was. The doctor told him he had heard that he was a fatalist. "In action," (that is, in battle,) "I am," said Napoleon. He then proceeded to exemplify his meaning. At the siege of Toulon, where he commanded the artillery, a young officer of artillery, instead of observing the effect of his battery, skulked down behind the works. The men in consequence fired very wildly. "Come up here, sir," said Bonaparte, "and see the effect of your shot." The young officer rose, but instead of standing out fairly by his side on the parapet, only peeped out under his arm. At that moment a shot passed under the arm, missed Napoleon, and dashed out the officer's brains. "You see," added Napoleon; "if he had stood up fairly, the shot would have passed between us, and he would not have been hurt."
