BLUE MASS! BLUE MASS!

DESIRE to call the attention of Druggists and Physicians to the superior quality of the BLUE MASS 1st and 2nd new manufacturing by machinery.
The BLUE MASS made by me is warranted to be ONE-THIRD MERCURY, and equal to any made in England, and much superior to most of that now brought into the Confederacy from the United States, (as nearly all that is that deficient in Mercury.)
An evidence of the superiority of the BLUE MASS made by me, I would ask your attention to the analysis of it by Professor E. Emmons, well known as one of the most scientific men in the country; also to the following recommendation from Dr. Edward Warren, late Professor in the University of Maryland, and now Surgeon-General of North Carolina.
BALTIMORE, N. C., Oct. 23, 1862.
Having had the best opportunity for testing the qualities of the Blue Mass manufactured by R. B. Saunders, at Chapel Hill, N. C., I am prepared to say that it is inferior to none in use in any particular. It therefore affords me pleasure to recommend it to the Profession at large as a most valuable and reliable preparation.

Surgeon-General of North Carolina.

North Carolina Readers.
GUILD BOOKS are becoming very scarce, but we have on hand a good supply of the NORTH CAROLINA READERS, Nos. 1 and 2 by Rev. Professor Hubbard of the University of North Carolina, and No. 3 by Rev. C. W. Wiley, Superintendent of Common Schools of North Carolina.
Our customers having long exhausted our stock of Northern Readers on hand when the war commenced, we hope will now turn their attention to these books by home authors, rather than allow their children to do without reading books.
For sale only at the old retail prices of 25 cents, 38 cents, and 70 cents.

Yankee Losses at Fredericksburg.—Gen. Armistead, of the Confederate service, took the precaution to count the dead bodies left on the field by the Yankees, and they were rather more than 3,500. This was on Tuesday, after the Yankees had employed two whole days in burying. At the lowest calculation, then, we must have killed at least 5,000 of their men. The wounded, after a battle, usually stand to the dead in the proportion of five to one, so that 25,000 of the Yankees must have been wounded, and their whole loss, exclusive of 1,300 prisoners, must have been 30,000 men. Any person who saw the field of battle and Fredericksburg after the retreat, would readily credit this estimate. At the place where General Cobb was killed, within the enclosure of a stone fence, a regiment of his brigade was posted. It was assaulted by a whole brigade of Irishmen, who behaved with the most determined bravery, and were repeatedly led to the assault. Only four of this regiment—exclusive of Gen. Cobb himself—were killed, and they killed more than five hundred of their enemy, whose bodies were left on the field. In Fredericksburg across one of the streets, the Yankees dug a trench, and laid beside it five hundred dead bodies piled up. Our informant had no doubt that they intended to make a breastwork of these bodies, as they had placed them on the edge of the ditch and covered them with dirt, as if they had been logs. All about the streets in every direction, dead bodies of the Yankees were lying in piles of two, three and as high as a dozen. In the porch of Mayor Slaughter's house there were no less than five dead Yankees. The night of the battle, the dry grass in a portion of the field took fire, and many of the Yankee wounded were burned. The explosion of their cartridge boxes, as the fire reached them, and the shrieks of the sufferers, were heard all night long by our pickets, who had it not in their power to relieve the sufferers.

That the Yankees were greatly averse to the fight, and that they could be brought to engage in it with great difficulty, is absolutely certain. A section of the 1st Howitzers (Richmond) was placed upon an eminence which commanded a full view of the whole Yankee army. Before the cannon began, on their part, they were of course all busy in looking at the advancing enemy. They distinctly saw large bodies of men marching behind the advancing columns with fixed bayonets, evidently forcing them to battle. On more than one occasion they saw the officers fire on their own men, and repeatedly they saw them riding after and endeavoring to bring them up.

The battles of the war have hitherto been fought in the woods. The battle of Fredericksburg, like European battles, was fought in a clear space which might be taken in at a single glance. It formed the grandest panorama ever witnessed on this continent. It continued after nightfall, and the long line of fire was visible for miles
