[NO. 1211.]

"We publish in another column the bill which passed the Senate on Tuesday for annulling and declaring void the Constitution of the United States. It is the most high-handed, bare-faced and infamous affront that has yet been offered to the great charter of our liberties, even by the false and perjured party that now control the government. Every Senator who voted for this detestable bill is sworn to support the Constitution of which it is an open and confessed repudiation. The bill, if it passes the House (which it will) and receives the signature of the President (which it will,) is nothing less than an act for the establishment of a despotism in these once free and happy United States, and taking from the people the protection of the Constitution. It authorizes and justifies arbitrary arrests at the will of the Executive, in defiance of explicit provisions of the Constitution forbidding such arrests. It puts every man's liberty and property out of the protection of the fundamental law; it annihilates the power of the State governments to protect cheir citizens against illegal violence; it tells the Presi dent and his minions that they may with impunity perpetrate ail these acts of despotism by which the most odious tyrants in the worst ages have earned the execration of mankind. This may be deemed strong language, but it is no more than adequate to characterize the infamous act of combined perjury and despotism which we print this morning, and which challenges the attention and must provoke the indignation of every man who is not base enough to confess himself a cowering slave. The proceedings in connection with the passage of this bill prove that every Senator who voted for it committed conscious perjury; that he knowingly and willfully violated the solemn oath he had taken to support the Constitution of the United States

The Yankee Dictator .- The following sketch of Old Abe, as he appeared at a grand entertainment in the White House, is by Russell of the London Times:-

"Soon afterwards there entered, with a shambling, irregular, almost unsteady gait, a tall, lank, lean man, considerably over six feet in height. with stooping shoulders, long pendulous arms, terminating in hands of extraordinary dimensions, which, however, were far exceeded in proportion by his feet. He was dressed in ill-fitting wrinkled suit of black, which put one in mind of anundertaker's uniform at a funeral; round his neck a rope of black silk was knotted in a large bulb, with flying ends projecting beyond the collar of his coat; his turned down shirt-collar disclosed a sinewy, muscular yellow neck, and above that, nestling in a great mass of black hair, bristling and compact like a ruff of mourning pins, rose the strange quaint face and head, covered with its thatch of wild republican hair, of Lincoln. The impression produced by the size of his extremities, and by his flapping and wide-projecting ears, may be removed by the appearance of kindliness, sagacity, and the awkward bonhommie of his face; the mouth is absolutely prodigious; the lips straggling and extending almost from one line of black beard to the other, are only kept in order by two deep furrows from the nostril to the chin; the nose itself-a prominent organ-stands out from the face, with an inquiring, anxious air, as though it were sniffling some good thing in the wind; the eyes dark and deeply set, are penetrating, but full of an expression which almost amounts to tenderness; and above them projects the shaggy brow, running into the small hard frontal space, the development of which can scarcely be estimated accurately, owing to the irregular flocks of thick hair carelessly brushed across it." Flunt Corn .- A circular of Gov. Milton, the present Chief-Magistrate of Florida, addressed to the planters of that State, affectionately warns them against planting this year a full cotton crop. He concludes with this solemn warning: "If full crops [of provisions] shall not be made, the Confederate States may possibly be subjugated, your slaves freed and all other property you may have (including cotton) taken from you, and yourselves and families dishonored and disgraced.
