Is it here, and the voice of whole-souled women o'er all our sunny clime gives back from the depths of each fond pure heart-not here, not here.

Mothers, wives and sisters of the Confederacy, we plead not for you a place in the political arena! $10 00 nor yet amid the serried ranks of war, or the busy 5 00 mart of commerce. But we call upon you to forget not in this hour of your country's need the soldier's claim upon your time, your talents and your resources. With vacant chairs at the board $5 00 and at the hearth; what is home but walls and 50 pictures and gildings? Does this present a sphere 3 50 high and pure and noble for the women of the 4 00 Confederacy? Can the melting strains of poetry 5 00 and romance drown the wild clash of arms, and $10 00 the pleading voices of dear ones from a hundred bloody fields-can the bright colors of embroidery 50 bloody fields—can the bright colors 5 50 blind the eyes and fetter the hands that should press forward to the work for country and for friends?

For God and our soldiers then, let women take the place for which by the tenderness and unself-2 00 ishness of her character, she is so eminently 4 00 qualified. Let ber postpone to a more fitting period her poetry and her music, her walks and drives, the countiess busy nothings that occupy her day, and go forth a ministering angel upon her bright eareer. Nor may her beautiful devotion be confined to our soldiers alone. "The poor ye have always with you." In the humble abodes of poverty and misfortune then let the women of our land find an ample field for benevolence,there let them comfort the bereaved-bind up the stricken heart -sustain the wavering faith, unseal for the fainting spirit the fountains of living water, and point the despairing mourner to the never failing soluce of a Redeemer's love.

Such is the course open to our women -engaged in such pursues the ear, filled with the blessings of the poor and of "him that was ready to perish," is deaf to the whispers of unsought fame, and the idle voice of popular adulation. Yet will she live in the pages of History, in the memory of a grateful country, the youth of ages yet to ome will point to her virtues with reverential pride, "her emittren arise and call her biessed. er husband also and he praiseth her."

Women of the Confederacy! you cannot stand aloof from the work that is before you; wrapped in the comforts and luxuries of your homes, deem not your task there ended. Lay not the flattering unction to your souls that your duties are circumscribed by the narrow limits of your homes, -but come forward, for it is your work. Let the women of position and means and high mental endowners," go onward and prove by her womanly eignity and tenderness that she merits the place she occupies in society; let the hamblest momer join in the good work for the sake of her lair haired boy and his comrades on the far off tonted ti-ld; and let her who clasps her household treasures ale unharmed, give gratefully, tearluly of her time and energies to the cause of the noble and the brave who have given to our country a place and the nations of the earth. And so shall she make her "light shine that all may see her good works and glorify our father which is in Heaven." "VESTIGATOR."

> Georgia Buttons - We have before us a liberal sample of bone and wooden buttons, from the Macon Button Factory, which has sprung into existence and is prospering under Mr. C. W. Brunner. He had no machinery, models, tools or other implements except of his own invention, to commence with, and not a man connected with the establishment has ever before been inside of a button factory. The company have now six machines in operation, which turn out from 30,-000 to 40,000 buttons per day. The specimens on our table are strong and excellent in every . respect, a slight polish being all that is necessary to make them complete.
