Cotton Yarn for Wool.
HAVING accepted an agency from the Governor of the State, under the direction of Col. H. A. Dowd, A. Q. M., at Raleigh, to assist in procuring a supply of WOOL to provide clothing for our North Carolina Soldiers during the coming Fall and Winter, we are authorized to exchange Cotton Yarn at the rate of 1 bundle of 5 lbs. for 3 lbs. of Wool, and to make a donation, but any person having Wool to spare can greatly aid our State authorities in their laudable efforts to sustain our country, and at the same time contribute (in many cases) to the comfort of their own friends and the army, and by making a donation, but receive a full equivalent for their wool. It is hoped and expected therefore that a prompt response will be made to this notice, as it is important that the Wool should go into the hands of the manufacturer at an early day, to be made ready for use by the early Fall.

Egypt Coal Mine.
THE undersigned were, at the November Term of the Confederate Court, District of North Carolina, appointed Managers of the Egypt Coal Mine property, and have entered into copartnership for the purpose of mining and selling Coal, and solicit orders for the same in any desired quantity. Orders for any amount can be supplied on credit to Messrs. C. B. Mallett, Fayetteville, N. C., or James Browne, Charleston, S. C.

CHARLES B. MALLET,
JAMES BROWNE
Fayetteville, July 20, 1863.

To Cotton Planters.
I HAVE been appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury, Chief Agent for the purchase of Cotton for the Confederate Government within the State of North Carolina, and will pay for the same in 7 per cent. Bonds or Cash.

Sub-Agents visiting the different parts of the State, buying in my name, will have written certificates of appointment.

By order of the Secretary of the Treasury, all Cotton purchased by myself or my agents, on and after the 18th day of March 1863, will be paid for in 7 per cent. Bonds or Cash, and not 8 per cent. Bonds as stated in a former advertisement. Try to this time, however, the 8 per cent. bonds will be furnished as stated.

Patriotic citizens are now offered an opportunity to aid the Government by selling to their Cotton rather than to private speculators.

YANKEE REPORTS FROM VICKSBURG.

Grant has gone to digging, and a letter in the Herald, dated May 31st, says that his forts have been constructed so as to completely command the rebel fortifications, and that "were it not for the rebel pits Vicksburg might now be carried by any movement by assault." The opinion of Grant, however, seems to differ from that of the correspondent, and he still clings to the "shovel and the hoe." According to the correspondent, General Lauman is on the extreme left, Grant in the centre, McPherson on his right, and Sherman on the extreme right. All have their batteries of siege guns so posted as entirely to command Pemberton's work. The opening of the bombardment is thus described:

Orders were received late last evening to be ready at 6 o'clock this morning to bombard the city. Accordingly at that hour every gun along the line was in position, and opened upon the unfortunate city. For full hour a tremendous cannonade was kept up, the object at which it was directed being the Court House and vicinity. It is impossible to convey anything like an adequate idea of the demonstration. It is impossible that one hundred and fifty guns, all ranging the same moment a terrific storm of fire upon the beleaguered garrison, and all concentrating their efforts in one locality, have failed to produce important results. The next intelligence from Vicksburg will be awaited with considerable anxiety.

During the assault of the 22d inst. some thirty of our soldiers were taken prisoners and carried to Vicksburg, where, after remaining in confinement for two or three days, they were paroled and sent across the river to Young's Point under a flag of truce. One of these paroled prisoners returned to his regiment last night by way of Haines's Bluff.

He reports a distressing condition of affairs in Vicksburg. When our army was approaching from Big Black river all the women and children near the environs of Vicksburg were ordered to come within the lines, under the impression that a greater degree of safety could be had there than without. Experience has proved this impression incorrect. The Union shells are no respecters of persons, and when dropping in the vicinity of peaceful dwellings explode as viciously and as destructively as when in the midst of an armed host. Large numbers of women and children have been killed, he says. The very first shot fired by the mortar boats killed a woman and her child. Later the citizens have constructed for themselves caves in the cellars of their dwellings, to which, with their wives and little ones, they retire when the cannonade becomes furious.

The failure of our endeavors to take the city by assault will be succeeded by an effort to reduce the place by means of the spade—to what purpose, or what of this course is economy of life, for even a successful attack upon the city would be attended with an extravagant loss of men.

The strength of Vicksburg towards the land is equally as strong as on the river side. The country is broken to a degree affording excellent defensive positions, and an attacking party must necessarily be exposed to a fire which could not be withstood by any troops. In addition to this the ravines intervening the ridges and knolls, which the enemy has fortified, are covered with a tangled growth of cane, wild grape, &c., making it impossible to move the troops in well defined lines. The attempt of today has exhibited the impossibility of taking the city by storm; but a few weeks of the spade will show that Vicksburg can be taken. Let the people of the North feel assured of this.

General Pemberton was anxious to indicate to General Johnston his exact situation, and sent a trusty fellow, named Douglas—son of a prominent citizen of Illinois, who several years since migrated to Texas, and there joined the rebel service—through his lines, with instructions to make his way by night past the Union pickets, and, seizing the first horse he met, to ride to Gen. Johnston at Jackson. Last Wednesday night, at dark, he started, and, holding a pass from Pemberton, was allowed to leave the enclosure in the rear of Vicksburg. Young Douglas had, unknown to his superiors, for a long time meditated escape, and he could not neglect this golden opportunity. Instead of trying to avoid our pickets, therefore, he marched boldly up to them and surrendered himself a prisoner. General Lamson covered with him long enough to discover that there was meant in that shell, and sent him to General Grant. To him he delivered the message he was instructed to deliver to Johnston: "I have 15,000 men in Vicksburg, and rations for 30 days—no meal a day. Come to my aid with an army of 30,000 men. Attack Grant in his rear. If you cannot do this within ten days you had better retreat. Ammunition is almost exhausted, particularly percussion caps."

This is the substance of the message, although not its exact terms. Douglas, I ventured also other valuable information which leaves no doubt of the ultimate capture of the rebel army.

The Worth of the Bible.—A little boy once asked his father what was the Bible worth? A few days afterwards, his father took him to see a poor and sick woman, who was enduring the severest sufferings of poverty and disease, and yet was cheerful and happy. The little boy was astonished, and whispered to his father, inquiring what it meant. The good woman heard him, and drawing him to her said: "It is this blessed book that makes me so happy. I believe that God is my father, that Jesus Christ is my elder brother, that heaven is my portion and my home, that saints and angels are my companions, and that the promises of God and the Lamb shall be my employment forever; and when I feel that all these are mine, how can I be unhappy?"

Child's Wisdom.—In conversation relating to the recent conflict on the Rappahannock, a gentleman remarked that Lee doubtless had gained a victory but had accomplished nothing by it—there were no important results. A little girl, who was present, quietly asked: "But if Gen. Lee had been defeated, would not the Yankees soon have been in Richmond?"—Sunter Watchman.

Persons who are innocently cheerful and good natured, are very useful in a world of folly and evil; they maintain peace and happiness, and spread a thankful temper among all who live around them.
