The people of Mississip-ni and Alabama have not even tasted the cur pi and Alabama have not even tasted the cup which Virginia has drained to the bitter dregs. And still her people have not been able, by oaths of allegiance extorted in dungeons and under the gallows, nor by submission to the woes of slavery, nor by quictly yielding up all they possess, to obtain permission of their implacable masters to drag out the remnant of a miserable existence by the graves of their forefathers. Large and populous districts have been converted into deserts, and the people, old and young, male and female, driven into exile. But the thought of yielding has never once entered their minds. On the contrary, the brave men and women of this proud old Commonwealth are more resolved than ever, never to ground their arms as long as a man is left to wield a musket or a woman to ply a needle and offer up a prayer. They have tried the enemy and know him well. They know he will keep no pledge, however sacred, and observe no oath, however solemn. The war cry of the great apostle of the elder revolution is still the rallying call of his undaunted descendants:

"No, let the people of the Southwest dismiss all thought of-compromise. Victory, or all the horrors of a hell on earth, are the only alternatives left them. If they fail on the field, or sue for peace and torgiveness at the footstool of Federal power, their fate will be alike the same; in either event, they will be stript of their possessions, and by hostile legislation reduced to the condition of serfs or driven into banishment. Of all the tyrants known to history, the Puritan is the most implacable. More cruel than the Spaniard, more treacherous than the Italian, more blood-thirsty than the Turk, there is no wrong or humiliation however atrocious, that his malignant ingenuity would not devise, and in which his savage nature would not find a diabolical pleasure."

Shameful .- Is it not a shame for a man who sells his flour for $35 and $40 a barrel, corn and ON the first Monday in September next, I will sell at Auction, at the Market House, in the town of Fayetteville, a good COOK and WASHERWOMAN, and acproducts in proportion, to be found growling bemeal for $3 and $5 per bushel, and all other farm cause he has to pay to the Government a tax in kind—one-tenth of his wheat, corn, &c.? Those who have held meetings and denounced the tith-Wanted to Rent from 1st October, ing feature of the tax law, and used their influa commodious DWELLING HOUSE in town or vicinity. ence to array public feeling against the Government, ought to be the last ones to be heard grumbling and growling. If they are not satisfied with the immense profits they are now realizing, North Carolina Institution for the Deaf and not willing to give a small proportion to help support their Government, they are certainly un-deserving of freedom. If those who have provisions to sell are determined to squeeze every cent mencement of the session. For information as to the they can out of those whose necessities compel method of admission, &c., address them to buy, they ought to have patriotism and them to buy, they ought to have patriotism and sense of justice enough to induce them to pay a small tax t help support the Government and feed the soldiers.

Could the yankee robbers get possession of the country, these grumblers and mischief-makers would see cause to regret that they did not exert themselves to unite the Southern people, instead of producing divisions and opposition to the authorities of the Confederacy. If they want to become the slaves of Abe Lincola and see their farms and property confiscated to the use of Northern vagabonds and fanatics, let them continue to hold "public meetings" and denounce Jeff Davis and others who are working to achieve our independence. But if they want peace and independence and freedom from yankee confiscation, let them give the Government a cordial and liberal support, and encourage harmony and peace among our own people at home. The grumblers and fault-finders may rest assured of one thing, there never can be peace until the independence of the Confederate States is established. Those who produce divisions and opposition to the Government among Southern people, are helping to prolong the war, and therefore ought not to be tole rated in Southern society .- Charlotte Democrat.
