TUESDAY MORNING, JAN. 24, 1860.

A Presidential Ticket.

Some friend has sent us a copy of the Pottsville (Pa.) Standard of January 14, 1860, which paper has run up the name of Hon. J. C. Breckinridge for President and Hon. Francis W. Hughes for Vice President, subject to the decision of the Charleston Convention.

We have time and again expressed a desire to see the democrats and old line whigs coalesce in the coming struggle believing that thereby a stronger opposition could be organized against the Black Republicans than in any other way, but we fear that the political leaders will not let such an arrangement be brought about, though it might be the means of elevating the right man to the right place and putting a stop to much of that government plundering which is now going on. By the adoption of this plan and the selection of some one of the best national men in the democratic party for President, and a national, conservative old line whig for Vice President, the strength of the two parties might be secured in the common struggle for law and order against fanaticism and treason, and in the event of the success of the ticket, by selecting the best men from the two parties to fill the federal offices much of the bitterness of party, which now exists much to the detriment of good government, might be abolished, and the affairs of the nation be administered on a surer and safer basis. Speculate as we may we must be finally forced to the conclusion that the contest lies between the nominee of the Charleston Convention and the Abolition ticket. One of these two must triumph, and such being morally certain we say that no Southern patriot can refuse to take sides however much he may depise the intrigues and corruption of parties; and as for ourselves we know no man that could be brought forward better qualified to administer the affairs of the government to the satisfaction of the whole conservative people in every section of the Union than Mr. Breckinridge.

Whatever the nominees in opposition to the Black Republicans may be special reference should be had as to their ability to carry Pennsylvania, for as sure as the day of conflict comes Pennsylvania will decide the battle. She beat Fremont in 1856 and may be the means of defeating Seward in 1860, but so sure as Pennsylvania votes for the Black Republican ticket so sure is its success. It is folly to talk about New York. All the Union meetings that can be held between now and November will not prevent Seward carrying the State by 40,000 votes. The only hope of defeating him then consists in saving Pennsylvania against him, and special reference may be had to this view of the matter in suggesting the name of a distinguished citizen of that State for the office of Vice President. We quote from an article in the paper alluded to:

John C. Breckinridge, our present Vice President, although young in years, is old in public life and services to his country. Not only has he held the high position which he now occupies, but he has a record without a blemish or a stain. He is loved and honored by all who know him. The Legislature of Kentucky, his native State, have already voted to elect him to a second term, and he has been elected by a large majority in the United States. Coming, as he does, from the great Southwest, and bearing with him the confidence of the South, his conservative principles, together with his substantial and brilliant talents, render him an especial favorite with the Northern Democracy. Of the Hon. F. W. Hughes, our candidate for Vice President, it is not necessary for us to speak at large. His character is well known to us all. Although he is, with a very high order of intellect, his ambition was never led him to seek those positions in public life, which his talents would demand, his character would justify, and which his great personal popularity would command. Although he has filled with dignity and ability, the offices of Secretary of the Commonwealth, and Attorney General of the State of Pennsylvania, yet his tastes and habits have induced him in the retirement of private life, to aim at those forensic triumphs, which have given him today, the reputation of one of the first, if not the very first, lawyers of his native State. Although frequently urged to allow his name to be presented as a candidate for the highest honors in the gift of Pennsylvania, he has persistently refused. But the time has arrived when the country needs the services of such a man. His life has been one long scene of labor for the advancement of the party and of his country. While others have reaped the honors of position, he has contentedly taken his share of the rank and file. His nomination we are satisfied, would secure to Pennsylvania, a large Democratic majority, not only from the respect with which he is received by a conservative Democrat, but from the high esteem in which he is held by persons of all parties, on account of his talents and his high-toned benevolence of character.

Harpers Magazine—McRae's Lecture. We invite the attention of the admirers and patrons of Harpers Magazine and Harpers Weekly herabouts to the action of Judge Saunders in reference to these "incendiary" publications in the vicinity of Raleigh. We take the following from the Raleigh correspondence of the Petersburg Express:

I was present when Judge Saunders told Mr. Pender, proprietor of the Raleigh Express, in this place, to stop Harpers's Weekly and Monthly Magazine on account of the fact that G. W. Curtis one of the editors is an Abolitionist and that one of the Harpers has been contributing money for the relief of escaped slaves in Canada. This is a noble example and should be promptly followed by every Southern man and woman. In conclusion, I am happy to inform you that we had a real literary treat last evening in the Lecture of D. K. McRae. The Common's Hall was crowded and all seemed delighted. The proceeds are to be applied for the relief of the poor in this city. The Lecture was a commentary on an address delivered by Hon. William Gaston at Chapel Hill several years since, and was truly sublime in some portions. I will not attempt to give analysis of the Lecture, as I presume it will be delivered at other places; but suffice it to say that Mr. McRae is the most attractive orator in this State.

WRONG.—Whatever may be the opinions entertained by different persons as to the propriety of the change in our State Constitution asked for by the "Wake County Working Men's Association," no one has a right to question their sincerity or to doubt their loyalty to the South and her institutions. We know most of the gentlemen whose names appear in connection with that address and we know that there are no truer or better men in North Carolina and none that are more firm in their opposition to abolitionism.—We can only look upon any attempt then to involve them in the "irrepressible conflict" as unfeeling and as despicable. This is not a time for the loyalty of true North Carolinians to be questioned and those who are making a party of war upon the met. engaged in this movement are not elevating themselves thereby. We should have published the Address had it not been too long for our limited space.

The Nigger! The Nigger!!

Some of our people, not content with the troubles that now prevail in consequence of the recently immortalized negro, and not being satisfied with domestic agitation, want to stir up a little rumpus with Jonny Bull on the woolly head subject. Well, pitch in, we don't care. We find the following in the Wilmington Journal of Friday:

WILMINGTON, Jan. 13, 1860. SIR:—I ask leave to call your attention, in consultation with the two honorable Senators named, to the subject of those 45 or 50,000 stolen Southern negroes in Canada, which, at $800 a head, average, amounts to thirty million dollars of Southern stolen property, accumulated in years past and secreted in Canada.

I think there must be in the law of nations a right, hanging dormant in Congress, to call on Parliament to deliver up those stolen Southern negroes in Canada, to Southern American vessels at Quebec, in the course of the ensuing Summer season, and I cannot see how Parliament can refuse to comply with such a demand without violating the comity of the law of nations. [We comply with the request made of us and publish the following proceedings of a meeting held in Newbern on Thursday the 12th inst. We could have published them on the morning of the 12th, twelve hours after the meeting, just as well and would have preferred to have done so, but for reasons not explained it was ordered that they should come to us second handed, 12 days after. At first we thought we would not publish them at all, after the lapse of such a length of time, but after calmly considering the matter we felt sure that many persons interested in the Convention would never see the proceedings of this meeting at all if not published in our paper. When the District Convention meets on the fourth Thursday in March either our Reporter or ourself will be present to report the proceedings for the Progress.—Ed. Progress.]

DEMOCRATIC MEETING. The Delegates of the Democratic party of the Counties of Craven, Onslow, Jones and Lenoir convened on the 12th January at the Washington Hotel in the town of Newbern.

On motion of H. C. Jones, Esq., a temporary organization was had by calling Bryan Southwark, Esq., to the chair, and requesting Jas. C. McRae and D. T. Turner to act as secretaries. The roll of Counties being called, the following gentlemen appeared as delegates: CRAVEN—L. Phillips, H. C. Jones, I. Disoway, Jas. C. McRae, A. D. Tumbro, H. Whitford, A. Latham, J. J. Robinson, and S. G. Barrington. Onslow—Wm. Humphrey, Col. L. W. Humphrey, David Simmons, Bryan Southwark, F. D. Koonce, Josiah Smith, Jr., Calvin D. Morton. LENOIR—Col. J. W. Morris and Council Wooten. JONES—A. E. Rhodes, Thos. J. Whitaker, and Freeman Hinds.

The chairman announced that a majority of the counties in the district were not represented. Col. L. W. Humphrey introduced the following preamble and resolutions, which were unanimously adopted: WHEREAS, In obedience with the recommendation of the Democratic State Executive Committee, that the Democratic party of the several Congressional Districts of the State should hold Conventions to elect delegates to attend the National Democratic Convention, and in pursuance of the same, the 23rd April next, several of the counties of this the 1st day of January, and whereas, that time having arrived and the delegates from the aforesaid counties, having convened in Newbern accordingly, and by resolution of the Convention in Newbern, we, the undersigned, do hereby certify that some misadvised standing signs in regard to the time of the meeting of said Convention, therefore, Resolved, That we will not proceed to further business at the present time. Resolved, That when this meeting adjourn it will adjourn to meet,—Left blank—see a subsequent issue.

Resolved, That we suggest to our brethren of the counties which are not represented and to those which have held no meetings for that purpose, that they reconvene to meet our Convention at our adjourned meeting. On motion of H. C. Jones, Esq., the blank in the second resolution was filled by inserting in Newbern on the 4th Thursday in March next. I. Disoway, Esq., in the following: Resolved, That we have heard with much gratification the fact that a Democratic paper, entitled the Newbern Enquirer, will be issued on Tuesday the 17th inst., and we, the undersigned, do hereby congratulate the editor of said paper on the Democracy for their support. On motion of Col. James W. Morris, the Newbern Enquirer was requested to publish the proceedings of this meeting, and the following progress of the Democratic papers of the District and the North Carolina Standard and Wilmington Journal be requested to copy.

ENERGETIC.—By last night's mail we received another letter from our energetic friend at Salisbury enclosing the money for four more new subscribers, accompanied by the gratifying intelligence that he had obtained a promise from a talented lady of that place to favor the Progress with an occasional letter hereafter. We do not ask the public to give us an extensive patronage that we may make a good paper—we mean to make a good paper, patronage or no patronage, and depend upon the incoming of "the sinews of war." So far we have abundant cause to rejoice.

CAN'T SEE WHY.—We see that nearly all our neighboring exchanges are complaining that they can get no mails from Washington, and they are greatly put out in consequence. Well now for the life of us we can't see why, for owing to the nature of the intelligence received from that quarter when it does come to hand we should be perfectly willing to be without Washington mails until the next fourth of July. We have a good mind to say that we won't notice Congress again during the present session any way. No mails from Washington, indeed! What do you get when they do come to hand?

THE RIGHT SPIRIT.—The Cavalry company formed in Onslow a few days ago resolved, on motion of Col. L. W. Humphrey, to have their uniform made of North Carolina manufactured cloth. Col. Humphrey is a true Southerner and a most useful citizen. He has served the people of Onslow in both branches of the Legislature greatly to their satisfaction, and will, we doubt not, continue to serve them in the same capacity.

CORRECTION.—We have been requested to say that "Frank" our Snow Hill correspondent, was in error in stating that Mr. and Mrs. McDugald were going to take charge of a school at Snow Hill. They have entertained no such idea.

NEW DRESS.—The Petersburg Express, one of the best newspapers in the United States, appeared in an entire new dress on Saturday last. The Express deserves its prosperity.

CONCERTING.—Madame Anne Bishop was singing in Washington City last week.

MARRIED.—On Thursday night last, at the Methodist Church, by Rev. Jas. Suydam, Mr. Jas. E. Berry to Miss R. E. daughter of J. W. Hancock, all of Newbern.

MARRIED.—In Swainsboro', Onslow county, on the 19th inst., by James H. Brent, Rev. John Matlock, to Miss Anna M. of Lenoir.

MARRIED.—On Broad Creek, on Tuesday 17th inst., by Rev. Wm. B. Fulcher, Mr. David Everington to Miss Annie Lane.

MARRIED.—On the 19th inst., by Richard W. King, Esq., Mr. George Carmon, of Fayetteville, to Miss Louisa A. of Lenoir.

DEATH OF LORD MACAULAY.

The literary world will be pained to hear of the decease of Lord Macaulay, the eminent literature and historian, whose writings are found in every library, and form a standard for imitation in all our institutions of learning. Only last year he was troubled for his eminence as a man of letters and historian, no other, or modern, times having so greatly influenced the style of English literature. Thomas Babington Macaulay was born in 1800, and is therefore cut off at the meridian of usefulness. Pursuing his studies at Cambridge, England, he obtained some of his highest honors, and in 1826 was admitted to the bar.

In the same year his essay on Milton appeared in the Edinburgh Review, the first of the series which have rendered him one of the most distinguished supporters and ornaments of that work. By the whig government he was made a commissioner of bankrupts, and shortly did good service to his party in the House of Commons, to which he was returned by the constituency of Calne, Wiltshire, in the reformed Parliament of 1832.— In 1834 he was elected member for Leeds, at which time he was secretary to the India Board. In the same year he resigned his appointment with his seat, to proceed to India, as a member of the Supreme Council of Calcutta a lucrative post which he held for three years. In 1838 he returned to England, and shortly afterwards was elected member for Edinburgh.— In the general election of 1847 Mr Macaulay was rejected by that constituency in favor of Mr Cowan, whose theological leanings were more distinctly marked than those of his rival. Mr Macaulay's high literary capacity made itself apparent during his collegiate days, when he had already written that spirited manual, "The War of the League." His "Lays of Ancient Rome," founded on the heroic and romantic incidents related by Livy, are remarkable for their striking pictures of life and manners, the abrupt energy of their style, and the rapid progress of their narrative.

Macaulay is, however, best known by his critical and historical essays, contributed to the "Edinburgh Review," which have been collected in several forms both in this country and in England, and have enjoyed a high degree of popularity. They have made familiar to all a popularly least stranger his success is, however, most marked in the field of literary and historical criticism. Here his vast erudition, his command of details, and brilliant style, place him above every rival.— Mr Macaulay's "History of England" is marked by all the peculiarities of his writing, which the laity have made familiar. It has had a popularity far beyond any publication of modern times, having in a few weeks run through several large editions.

MR. MEMMINGER'S SPEECH. The speech of this distinguished gentleman, Commissioner from the State of South Carolina to Virginia, addressed both Houses of the General Assembly yesterday, was an effort of marked ability and statesmanship. He was listened to with marked interest. The hall of the House of Delegates was crowded, as were both the galleries, which were appropriated to the ladies.— He traced with great clearness the steady inroads from the North upon the rights of the South, and the rise and progress of abolition fanaticism. His picture of the present attitude of our relations with the North, was glowing enough, but not at all overdrawn. He proved very conclusively that the guarantees of the Constitution have been utterly unavailing to protect the South. He argued that if the Union must be continued the South must demand other and more efficient guarantees, or must secede after conference, until she has lost all influence, all consideration and all rights in the Confederacy. He urged with great force the propriety of a Convention of the Southern States to consider the questions growing out of our relations to the Northern States.— We have presented in our paper this morning, elsewhere, as comprehensive a synopsis of Mr. Memminger's speech as our space will admit. He occupied near four hours in delivering it, but the attention of his hearers did not flag. Among them were a number of prominent gentlemen of the bench and the bar and public councils. Richmond Dispatch.

The New London Star says that Neal Dow, of Portland, the father of the "Maine Law," has been censured by the terrible body, which it has been of late the effort of his life publicly to reform. If this be so, it affords another melancholy example of the inefficiency of legal restraints to preserve the purity or to correct the vicious practices of individual life.
