> MR. MCRAE'S ADDRESS .- The address of D. K. McRae, Esq., for the benefit of the Mount Vernon Association, was delivered last evening in the Fayetteville Hall, to a crowded house. We confess that we have never listened to a more brilliant, instructive and intelligent address. It was composed of the choicest of scholastic learning, the brightest conceptions of his superior mind, which with the fascinating charm of his free, natural and expressive manner of delivery, made his ing realties. Mr. McRae is an orator of no common mould; he has naturally within him all the requisites to entitle him to that distinction, which added to the polish of a splendid intellectual training, places him among the great men of his native State.-Fay, Carolinian.

Gov. Chase tells the story that when Lieut. Lord Brougham and the veterans of the old Anti-Slavery Society (says the editor) do not share our delight at this great increase in the employment of our home population. Their minds are still seared by those horrible stories which were burnt in upon them in their youth, when England was not only a slaveowning but a slave-trading State. Their remorse is licans. Lord Brougham sees only the and by a ball and supper in the evening. black laborers who on the other side of the Atlantic, pick the cotton pods in slavery. Lord Brougham leplores that in this tremendous importation of a thousand million of pounds of cotton, the lion's share of the profits goes to the United States, and has been produced by slave labor. Instead of twentythree millions the United States now send us eight hundred and thirty millions, and this is all cultivated by slaves. It is very sad that this should be so, but we do not see our way to a remedy. There seems to be rather a chance of its becoming worse. If France, who is already moving onwards in a restless is visible at low water. purblind state, should open her eyes wide, should wholesome competition, should take to manufacturing upon a large scale, then these three millions will not be enough. France will be competing with us in the foreign cotton markets, stimulating still further the produce of Georgia and South Carolina. The jump which the consumption of cotton in England has just made is but a single leap, which may be repeated indefinitely. There are a thousand mil-lions of mankind upon the globe, all of whom can be were standing, but by 10 A M all had gone by the most comfortably clad in cotton.
