D. M. BARRINGER, Chairman. State Dem. Con. Ex. Com. W. S. MASON, Chairman. Lib. Rep. Ex. Com. Raleigh, Sept. 27, 1872.

HORACE GREELEY'S CLOSING SPEECH.

Mr. Greeley's closing speech, upon his return from his late Western tour, was quite brief. He concluded it by saying: "I do not mean to be tortured into saying another word to the end of the canvass. I have explained myself as fully as seems necessary, and I trust that the good work may go on."

GOV. CURTIN. This distinguished gentleman had a brilliant reception in Philadelphia on Saturday. He made a long speech, echoing Horace Greeley in almost every respect, and declaring emphatically for Buckalew. He made no positive declaration regarding national politics beyond denouncing centralization and theft.

Onoos has elected Mitchell, Republican, to the U. S. Senate. He succeeds Corbett.

If the County Executive Committees will do their duty, North Carolina will give a large majority for Greeley.

A GAIN of three votes in each Township will overcome Caldwell's reported majority.

THE TRIANGULAR CANVASS IN TENNESSEE.

The present campaign for Congressman at Large in Tennessee is a singular and exciting one. The regular nominee of the Liberals and Democrats is Gen. B. F. Cheatham, one of the most distinguished Confederate officers. He was regularly chosen as the standard bearer by the State Convention of the party. Immediately after his nomination, Andy Johnson popped up, and declared himself an independent Greeley candidate.

Horace Maynard, who is at present a Representative in Congress, is the regular Radical nominee.

The consequence is, we have three candidates in the field, and they are all stumping the State together.

Of course, both Gen. Cheatham and ex-President Johnson are championing the claims of Greeley for the Presidency, and Maynard's only hope for an election is to so divide the anti-Radical vote in the State as to step into Congress through the dissensions in the ranks of his opponent.

Johnson is considered a very strong man among the masses—but the "questionable shape" in which he comes before them is calculated to impair their confidence and weaken this influence. At this stage of the canvass it is impossible to say what chances Johnson stands of creating a split in the party. In a regular contest, Tennessee would give the Democratic and Liberal nominee from forty to sixty thousand majority.

There are two Greeley tickets in the field, and this will lead to some embarrassment and trouble with our party in that State. We are in hopes, however, the difficulties will be reconciled before November, and that only one set of electors will be voted for by our friends.

It will be a great calamity, if through the dissensions in our party, a State like Tennessee, where we have an overwhelming majority, should be lost to our cause.

Gen. Cheatham is a worthy and popular gentleman, and as the nominee of the party, should receive its unanimous support.

PARDONED OUT TO TESTIFY. The Radicals in Pennsylvania are in a terrible straight.

Their candidate for Governor, Hartranft, is accused of all manner of crimes and corruption. He belongs to what is known as the Cameron Ring, and it was by the personal efforts and influence of Senator Cameron, later, J. C. Gorman, and Perry Stewart, that Hartranft was enabled to escape the domination.

Large numbers of Republicans have repudiated the nomination and have declared open hostility to the nominee. These refractory Radicals are led by John W. Forney, editor of the Philadelphia Press, one of the leading Republican organs of the country. Forney has been exhorting Hartranft, and exposing his connection with thieves and swindlers. His hot shot has thrown the Radical party in Pennsylvania into a great state of confusion and demoralization.

It has now been found out—but alas! too late—that Hartranft's nomination was a fatal blunder.

In order to disprove the truth of the charges against Hartranft, a fellow by the name of Yerkes has been pardoned out of the Penitentiary by the Governor of Pennsylvania to testify in behalf of Hartranft. Yerkes was tried, convicted and sent to the State prison on the charge of embezzling the city funds of Philadelphia. He was at one time a partner of Hartranft. As soon as he is pardoned out of the Penitentiary he makes affidavit that certain charges of corruption against Hartranft are not true.

What will the people think of a political party that is compelled to resort to the Penitentiary to procure evidence to vindicate the character of their candidate for Governor?

The fact that a convict has been pardoned in order that he might testify for Hartranft is good evidence of the latter's corruption.

THE NORFOLK FAIR. We are pleased to learn that the officers of the Virginia and North Carolina Agricultural Society are making extensive preparations for the first exhibition of that Society, which is to be held near Norfolk, commencing on the 22nd inst., and that they have the most flattering prospects. Eastern and Central North Carolina is closely allied to Norfolk, and we have no doubt will contribute largely to this exhibition.

The Japanese girl students in Washington have been studying too hard, and one has been so persistent in her applications as to contract a serious disease of the eye, which threatens her with total blindness. Indeed the difficulty is so serious that the Japanese Minister has informed the unfortunate child that she will have to return to Japan, and another student sent in her place. The name of the sufferer is Rio Yoshie, and she is not only the eldest of the party, but particularly bright in intellect, and noted for her many amiable qualities. When the final decision was made known to her that she must return to Japan she acquiesced without a word of complaint; but her companions were greatly distressed, and manifested their sorrow in the most touching manner.

Speaking of Father Hyacinth's marriage, the Astor National says: "We are in a position to affirm that Mrs. Meriman, the widow to whom he has united, possesses a fortune of $75,000."

GRATZ BROWN IN INDIANA.

We have already alluded to the fact that Gov. Brown, of Missouri, has been making able and telling speeches in Indiana. We have before us his speech made at Logansport, Ind., on the 27th ult., which is one of the most able addresses we have read in this campaign; we cannot refrain from laying the following extracts therefrom before our readers. The speaker, after reviewing the carpet-bag rule in the South, and the villainous way in which the negroes were compelled to vote by the carpet-baggers, said:

"But enough of this. My object has been to bring before you simple facts, facts sworn to, facts reported to the Congress of the nation, from which you can form an intelligent judgment for yourselves in regard to the whole matter. It thus appears that the troubles of the whole Southern country came of bad government; from the close of the war up to 1867 affairs there were perfectly quiet, with no occurrence of violence; that the attempt to band the colored population together in secret leagues against the white population engendered bitterness and barbarities where kindness had before reigned; that public opinion reasserted itself there, and put an end to counter organization under the Ku Klux regime before the United States authorities intervened, and that while the Ku Klux have disappeared, the carpet-baggers still wage their infamous war on all society with impunity. In this connection it is a matter deserving grave consideration that public opinion should still have declined power, in all save a few contracted localities, to quell such a development of the worst elements of society. If the Ku Klux Klan was, as many assert, a great conspiracy against all law and order, extending over nine great States and 700,000 square miles of territory, is not its sudden suppression in them all, if you choose to except a few counties in North Carolina, strikingly illustrative of the fact that there is a public sentiment there which may be relied on to uphold the ends of good government if justly dealt with, and hatred? Does it not demonstrate that the ultimate peace of the country can never be on the animosity of race? And, on the other hand, does it not prove even more conclusively still that the existing administration there, under the manipulation of the carpet-baggers and the pupillage of the President and his party, does not rest on any foundation in public opinion that can restore just laws or public virtue? With all the corruptions emanating from it at the south, when has it ever in like manner aroused itself and bid them and? With States in the very agony of spoliation; with every morality set at naught; with a department of the Government, with a colored vote, as is claimed, what expression do we hear from such a constituency solicitous to impose purity and detestable rascality? Does its following give any promise of a reform, or any sign of capacity to rid them of the evils under which they are waiting away? This Ku Klux are dissolved, gone back into the domain of alienation and animosity—but the secret league of the carpet-baggers—moulding the colored race into a caste organization, ply their hateful work and plunder, plunder, plunder! What hope have you from an educational system thus teaching three millions of black men to hate the white man? What faith have you in that idea of government which values it only as an instrument to rob capital, to assail property, to confiscate all ownership through taxation? What expectation have you that the putrid pool into which corruption which slime and swirl round offices there will turn to wholesome, living waters? I do not say one word that shall invite repulsion and hostility to the freedmen of the South. Their deliverance has been our work, their ignorance and incapacities are results of slavery, their natures have many amiable traits and easy confidences; but I do desire to urge in the strongest language the men of the North to come forward now and aid in delivering them from a bondage which threatens, in the hands where it has fallen, to be the death of the nation. Far less do they portray that social force, impotent to correct its own headlong career—that pestilence of fraud and vice which must be stamped out if contagion is to stop."

Latest advices received from different quarters of Virginia show that the canvass for Greeley and Brown is warming up in this State. Clubs are being formed in every direction, and the spirit of the people is all that could be desired. After the 1st of October the political campaign will be enlivened by the efforts of all the leading speakers of the State, among whom we may mention Judge Ould, Judge Crump, Lieutenant Governor Marye, Colonel Baldwin, Colonel Gilman, Mr. Bocock, and others of like ability.

The letter of Governor Curtin breaks the back of Cameronism and corruption in Pennsylvania, and so in the nation. It is received by the people with the same ardor and enthusiasm which marks the progress of Horace Greeley through the West. These are the only sentiments to which the popular mind is now responsive. The call is an audible one everywhere for reform, and the right men, like Greeley, Buckalew, and Curtin, are demanded as leaders in a cause whose ultimate triumph is certain.

THE WAGES OF SIN.—The New York papers are full of the sad story of Maude Virginia Carlton, of New Orleans, sent by wealthy and respectable parents to school in 1862, at Xavier's Academy, Chicago, under the care of the Sisters of Mercy. She went in 1862, at the age of twelve years, and after her schooling was over, her parents being dead, married, became the widow of a suicide, went to New York, led a fast life, became an ill-treater, kept mistress, and finally died at Bayonne, N. J., of consumption and neglect, her paramour taking the rings off her dead fingers to a pawnbroker. "The wages of sin is death."
