Happy New Year's.

The days begin to lengthen now.

Shovels have been tramped the past week.

New Year's turkeys were in demand yesterday.

Bad weather for moving, and yet it must be done to-day.

The merry bells have played out, but the merry bells are still the go.

It is past the time for foretelling a hard winter, it comes in earnest.

There is not enough snow to warrant the anticipation of a New Year's sleigh ride.

Make good resolutions as to your conduct during the new year and stick to them.

The dearest object to a married man should be his wife, but it is not unfrequently her clothes.

A new song is headed "Hark, how the birds sing." Well, they can't be expected to sing very well this weather.

One style of bonnet is called the "Mansard," because it takes a great deal of "man's-hair" earnings to pay for one of 'em.

It is some of the poets in this section don't quit sending us poems we will write some poetry ourselves—and publish it.

Don't hitch your horses under the eaves of a roof covered with snow, unless you desire a smash-up of your team.

The New Year.—Last night when the clock chimed out the hour of 12 the year 1873 was born unto the world. What joys and sorrows it brings in its train we know not—the future must develop them. But we are permitted to hope that it ushers in an era of prosperity and happiness to all our friends and the world generally. Nothing we can write will prove so interesting to the reader as the following description as to how New Year's Eve and the day are looked upon in an observed in different climes, as well as the mention of some ancient customs, so we yield the space.

All civilized and semi-civilized races of mankind appear, as if by natural instinct, to have adopted either ceremonial, religious, or an interchange of social amenities, at the inauguration of a new year.

As the period of the demise of the old and birth of the new year is not arbitrary, but merely marks the completion of the earth's revolution around the sun from any one point to its orbit back to the same point, or nearly so, the times of such so-called New Years vary. Thus the Christian, the Jewish, the Mohammedan, and the Chinese anniversaries, occur at different times.

We have in the United States a sufficient number of the first two and of the last named celebrations brought prominently under our notice; and, speaking generally, these all make it a season of rejoicing and social reunion.

The Jewish New Year, however, is attended by more strictly religious ceremonies, of longer duration than those of other sects, and includes on some days a partial cessation of business. With the Israelites, visits of congratulation and compliment are secondary to the religious observances. It is unnecessary to comment upon the usual manner in which the new year is celebrated by the generality of the American people.

The Chinese, who are so numerous in the State of California, and whose noisy demonstrations involve so heavy an expenditure of gunpowder, are reputed to consider it an absolute necessity to pay all indebtedness on this occasion, and those who are positively unable to discharge their liabilities shall be set free from them. This is the theory, but it is a different opinion. The writer remembers being one of a party which stopped the carriage of Sir Alexander Keith, of Ravelston. As there were four horses, and as the postilions drove very rapidly, the feat was not accomplished without considerable risk, two of the undergraduates being thrown beneath the horses' feet. The carriage was stopped, however, and the old gentleman acknowledged the capture, and counselled the three ladies within to make no fuss about it, but quietly resign themselves to their fate. In this case most of the young gentlemen were personally acquainted with the baronet's family. This habit admitted, however, of much abuse, and was the occasion of many serious broils, so that people began to set their faces against the custom, and it has, consequently, of late years fallen into disuse.—Gordon Greenlaw in Appleton's Journal.

W. A. MONTGOMERY, Esq.—W. A. Montgomery and family, of Warrenton, N. C., passed through this city yesterday afternoon, en route to Memphis, Tennessee, which is to be their future home.

Mr. Montgomery is the law partner of the distinguished William Eaton, a gentleman well known as one of the ablest lawyers and purest citizens of North Carolina.

Mr. Montgomery is a young man of fine attainments and excellent promise, and will no doubt make his mark at the Memphis bar. We regret that North Carolina must lose the services of such a talented and gifted young gentleman, but our best wishes and the wishes of numerous and devoted friends attend Mr. Montgomery wherever he may go.

ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION.—To-day is the 10th Anniversary of the Proclamation of Emancipation, and will be observed generally by the freedmen of the city.

The exercises will commence at 10:30 A. M., at Metropolitan Hall. Charles N. Ott is the orator of the occasion, and Miss Louisa Warwick is announced to read a poem. Col. I. J. Young and Stewart Ellison are announced as speakers.

All the Marshals, a large number being appointed, are requested to be promptly at the Hall at 9 o'clock.

We return our thanks to C. N. Hunter, President of the day, and W. Rufus Davis, Secretary, for an invitation to be present.

IN ERROR.—We were in error yesterday in giving the particulars of the painful accident which befell Mrs. W. J. Edwards on Monday afternoon. She did not have a spasm and fall into the fire as we stated. We learn, from one in a position to know, that the unfortunate lady fainted and in falling overturned a kettle of boiling water and was very badly scalded. We were glad to learn last evening that though suffering a good deal, her condition had decidedly improved. We trust but a few days will elapse ere we have the pleasure of announcing her complete recovery.

A NOVEL FEATURE IN NORTH CAROLINA HISTORY.—The county of Randolph, though Radical, is gifted with a most efficient set of officers, and all elected upon a young man's platform. For instance, the Clerk of the Supreme Court, A. M. Diffie, is 26 years of age; The Sheriff, W. R. Ashworth, 26; Geo. W. Reid, representative, 26; H. J. Page, register of deeds, 22, and Daniel Burrow, coroner 22.

Episcopal clergymen, of some of the districts where other denominations are gaining ground, have adopted a "Watch Night Service," probably from motives of policy, but the movement is not general with that body in England—most of the clergy of the Established Church being opposed to it on the ground that the status of the Church demands that it should be the inaugurator of any additional observances, not the follower of such as may be introduced by other sects.

The celebration of New Year's eve and day is much more marked in Scotland than in England, and its greater prominence may be in some sort attributed to there being no Christmas festival permissible by the Calvinistic regime. In this connection it may be observed that, to the same cause, operating upon the Puritan settlers of New England, may be traced the more notable celebration of the day in America.

Till within a very few years the drinking from the wassail bowl, at the passing away of the old year, prevailed in Scotland. In that country, as in some others which shall be nameless, excesses are too much the order of the day, and so general is the custom of indulging freely, on the plea that it comes but once a year, that by mid-day persons of standing and position even may not unfrequently be seen in the streets of the larger cities, whose unceremonious gait betrays the depth of their intoxication. Nor are these cases entirely confined to the stronger sex. The police have instructions, it is presumed, to be conveniently blind, so long as the peace is preserved, so that few arrests for intoxication are made.

The custom of "the wassailing" is generally prevalent in the "Land of Cakes." Parties, generally consisting of men only, with an abundant supply of whiskey, visit the homes of their friends, as soon after midnight as may be, to wish them the compliments of the season; and the person who first enters a house for that purpose is denominated "first-foot." The toast most in vogue, is, "A gude New Year to ye, and may many a year ye see."

Forty years ago a rule obtained in some sort, that all ladies found out of doors after 12 o'clock were liable to pay the forfeit of a kiss. As many parties were given on New Year's eve, of course numerous of the fair sex were out after that hour, and none would venture to take their departure except in carriages, and even these were stopped frequently by parties of young men, and the inmates compelled to submit to the inevitable New Year salute. As the melancholy prince says, "It is a custom more honored in the breach than in the observance," but young men of that day were not to be fussed about it, but quietly resign themselves to their fate. In this case most of the young gentlemen were personally acquainted with the baronet's family. This habit admitted, however, of much abuse, and was the occasion of many serious broils, so that people began to set their faces against the custom, and it has, consequently, of late years fallen into disuse.—Gordon Greenlaw in Appleton's Journal.

OUR NEW YEAR'S TURKEY.—"Tis better to be born lucky than rich" said some one, whose name we do not now recollect, neither do we care, so long as we have enjoyed the privilege of the saying.

After some rascal purloined from our coop our Christmas turkey, we got mad and fell back on our relations in Petersburg, where more than one turkey went the way of all (turkey) flesh. Having made this much, on our return home we felt able to invest in a turkey for a New Year's dinner, and accordingly transferred from Paul Lincke's stall in the market, a fifteen pound gobler to our coop at home. Tuesday night, while all in the house was still, likewise the turkey in the coop, probably while we were dreaming of the second choice of our New Year's dish, (we are a married man) some rascal, without the fear of our dog Jack before his eyes, invaded the premises and stole therefrom our New Year's turkey. Sadly we gazed upon the vacant roost the next morning, and with a heavy heart came to our office where we recited our misfortune to a few condoling friends. The large-hearted Dr. Blackhall of the Yarborough House was one of the number; brushing a tear from his eye as we ended our sad tale, he hurriedly left the office and in a few minutes returned with a dressed gobler that weighed just one and a quarter pounds more than the one we lost, adding a few remarks that we did not hear, (after we got our hand on the turkey) something about poor local Editors, happy New Year, &c. We got the turkey—will eat him to day, smile and thank of the big-hearted doctor.

PERSONAL.—Maj. R. W. York, of Chatham, is in the city, stopping at the Barbours.

Gen. T. L. Clingman and N. W. Woodin, Esq., registered at the Yarborough House yesterday.

F. C. Robbins, Esq., of Randolph, member of the Senate of the last General Assembly, was in the city yesterday morning, but left for home on the evening train.

Rev. J. R. Griffith arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and left this morning en route for Oxford to officiate in the M. E. Church of that place, to which charge he was assigned by the recent Conference.

Theo. N. Ramsay, Esq., the Temperance Apostle of this locality, is now on a visit to New York and will return in a few days accompanied by Hon. J. J. Hickman, of Ky., and will then continue his crusade throughout the State against rum and rum-sellers.

We were glad to shake the hand of Capt. J. G. Phillips, of Norfolk, last evening. The Captain represents that well known wholesale and retail clothing house of W. G. Jones, No. 124 Main Street, Norfolk, Va.

COL. L. C. EDWARDS.—This gentleman arrived in this city on yesterday. The Colonel has associated himself with Messrs. J. B. Batchelor & Son, in a law co-partnership, and will, in future, reside here. We are exceedingly gratified at this, as it is a most valuable acquisition to this community and a brilliant addition to the Raleigh Bar. Col. Edwards is well known to the people of this section as an urbane and polished gentleman, and a lawyer of much talent and learning. We feel assured his success will be commensurate with his merit.

DEER HUNT IN RANDOLPH.—Judge Tourge, Col. John A. Gilmer, of Greensboro, Sheriff Ashworth and Messrs. Diffie and Page, of Ashboro', had a deer hunt in Randolph county Christmas. They succeeded in killing four or five bucks, which was pretty good hunting for that section.

A colored woman residing in the Western Ward had both of her feet severely scalded by the accidental upsetting of a tub of hot water while engaged in washing clothes.

Wild ducks, canvas-back and other varieties received this day at Miller & Nelson's.

Discussion Among the Methodist Ministers—Pigeon Match—Fire About the Ice—The Greeley Will Case.

New York, Dec. 31.—The Methodist preachers, at their meeting yesterday, had a warm discussion on the annihilation of the wicked. Many deprecated the introduction of topics for discussion not in accordance with the doctrines of the Methodist Church. A committee was appointed to settle the subject for discussion.

A pigeon match, between Paine and Baker, resulted $7 each. It was agreed to shoot off at five pair each, when Paine won by three birds.

Two inches of snow fell last night. A heavy fog, interfered with the ferries.

The ice at Hell Gate is very severe, and steamers have great difficulty in working through it.

The ice on the North river, above the city, has entirely stopped navigation.

The wrecked brig, C. Y. Clone, has gone to pieces.

Another phase of the Greeley will case came up before the Surrogate yesterday, by which the contestants served notice upon Miss Greeley to show cause why the Greeley will of 1871 should not be admitted to probate. Evidence will be offered in support of that will on the 13th, 14th and 15th of January. The Surrogate has appointed J. P. Williams and W. M. Skinner appraisers of the personal estate in the case in which J. P. Cleveland was previously appointed administrator, pending litigation, and Mr. Skinner also is appointed special guardian of Miss Gabrielle Greeley under the will of 1871.

The Sultan of Zanzibar on the Slavery Question—Opposition of the Citizens to King Amadeus—Fatal Wreck at Sea, &c.

ZANZIBAR, Dec. 18.—The United States steamer Yantic arrived on the 17th. They were received by troops and met by Sultan in front of the palace. Capt. Wilson represented to Sultan the sentiment of the American people in regard to slavery and requested the abrogation of the clause of the treaty with England, which permits slavery to Zanzibar and to British Dominion Territory, contained in the treaty made with England in 1840. The Sultan's reply was received on 17th. He says, "thirty-three years ago I was forbidden by my father to export slaves to Muscat." The slaves now carried there and by Arabs and tribes from Persian Gulf. I will make strong efforts in the future to prevent the kidnapping these slaves. I will make every effort.

MADRID, Dec. 31.—A rising of the Apollonists is expected. The government is prepared to suppress it. The citizens of Madrid are opposed to Amadeus, who is greatly excited.

HALIFAX, Dec. 31.—The schooner Lord of the Isles, from St. Martin, was wrecked on Iron bound Islands. The Captain, Mate and four of the crew perished.

MURDER OF A FAMILY BY INDIANS—Gens. Schofield and Alexander on a Secret Mission, &c.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—The Lee family of circus performers, eight persons, were murdered by the Apaches while travelling through Arizona today. The California sailed for Honolulu today. Gens. Schofield and Alexander were aboard. Their mission is unknown, but is supposed to have some connection with the critical situation in the Sandwich Islands.

FROM ST. LOUIS—Snow Disappearing—A Bride and Groom—St. Louis, Dec. 31.—Drizzling rain. The snow is disappearing. The gorge above the bridge is broken by the rain which continues. The bridge will not be used for fear of a momentary break which may demolish the bridge.

LARGE FIRE IN ALEXANDRIA.
ALEXANDRIA, VA., Dec. 31.—A block of five brick warehouses on Union street has been burned. Loss $100,000.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

New York Affairs.
New York, Dec. 31.—The remains of Hattie Adams, drowned a few days ago, by the carriage in which she was riding being dragged into the river by runaway horses, was placed in the receiving vault of Greenwood Cemetery today. They will probably be removed to Cleveland.

The funeral of Jane Stewart, burned in the Centre street fire a week ago, took place to day from St. John's Episcopal Church.

The laborers continue digging in the ruins for the remains of the other missing girls.

The Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting Thursday will take action on the bills pending in Congress in reference to emigration. The commissioners of emigration will memorialize Congress in opposition to the bill in the House to promote emigration to the United States.
