North Carolina did her tall part in the Revolutionary war, and was as much entitled to rejoice over the completion of a century from the date of the declaration of Independence as any other State. But aside from the commemorative features of the occasion, it was proposed that all the States have on exhibition at the Centennial, specimens of their natural resources and development, and also the evidences of their progress in the useful arts, in order to show to the world the greatness and wealth of our country, and the advancement she has made in the arts and sciences in the course of one hundred

This is all well enough and highly commendable. But the Centennial Committee having the matter in charge, are now soliciting pecuniary aid from Congress. This of itself is a little suspicious, but if we investigate the plans and purposes of the Committee we are inclined to think the whole affair is a money-making project, to make patriotism tributary to the schemes of Yankee enterprise and cunning and to enrich certain individuals while the world is wonderful exhibition of American progress, power and glory!

The Centennial Exhibition is an incorporated joint stock company, and the object of the corporators seems to be to so manage the affair as to make the stock pay handsome dividends. The bonds to the amount of ten millions of dollars are to be issued in shares of ten dollars. This amount is to be used in providing suitable buildings and grounds for the exhibition, and to defray other expenses incident thereto, and the stock-holders are to receive the dividends, if any, to be derived from the proceeds of every source of profit connected with the celebration. Of course the principal revenue would be derived from the admission and entrance fees, but numberless schemes will be invented to yield money to the managers and to compel the patriotic visitors from all sections of the Union to contribute their mite, in some form cash receipts, so as to not remy of indemnify the stock holders against all loss, but to make the investment a profitable onc.

From the lights before us, we incline to the opinion that the Centennial Exhibition is somewhat after the style of Gilmore's grand musical concert at Boston, intended for individual emolument and profit. In this view, the patriotic object is subordinated to mercenary motive, and the desire for gain supplants and over-rides all; noble impulses.

We do not know whether Congress will make an appropriation or not in behalf of the Centennial, but we think the people who pay the taxes of the country will object very seriously to contributing the public treasure in aid of an individual enterprise, where the profits go into the pockets of the shareholders. With greater propriety, Congress might donate large sums to build Railroads for the benefit of private stockholders, because Railroads are beneficial to the sections through which they pass, and are great conveniences to the traveling public.

We are in hopes that the suspicions managers of the Centennial Exhibition may prove unfounded, and that after all, the United States may have an exhibi

PRESIDENT LINCOLN'S POSI-

TION ON EMANCIPATION. The colored men of this city celepolitan Hall yesterday.

It is natural that those who were formerly slaves should rejoice that they are now free, and that they should commemorate the day of their liberation. .

On the first day of January, 1863, the emancipation proclamation of Abraham Lincoln, then President of the United set type in the office of the Dedham, States, went into effect. It is right and proper that those upon whom the boon | in editing a newspaper. of freedom was conferred by that remarkable proclamation take part in the ceremonies of the emancipation anni-

In referring yesterday to Mr. Welles' History of Emancipation, we incldentally alluded to the circumstances attending the first Cabinet discussion on the subject of issuing the proclamation, and | thirty seven widows will mourn his loss, gave the views of some of the members who attended the meeting and participated in the discussion. We stated that Mr. Bates, of Missouri, favored the proclamation provided it was coupled with deportation-that is, that the colored men should be sent from the coun-black races could not live and thrive in social proximity.

According to Mr. Welles, who attended the meeting and who was at that time Secretary of the Navy, President Lincoln concurred in Mr. Bates' views in regard to the incompatibility of the races. We presume no one will doubt Mr. Welles' statement. He s a Republican after the straightest sect, and can have no motive in misrepresenting the views of Mr. Lincoln. In corroboration of Mr. Welles' statement that Lincoln desired a separation of the races, our attention has been called to the following speech to the negroes, made by him, on the fourteenth of July, 1862, several weeks preceding his proclamation: "I hold that the white and black races cannot dwell together," "I urge all intelligent colored men to exert themselves for colonization. I suggest Central America as the place. Many people. Even when slavery ceases you will still be far from being on an equality with the white man. The aspiration of men is to enjoy equality with the best when free, but on this broad continent not a single man of your race is made the equal of a single man of ours. Go where you are freated best, and

[From the Homeward Mail, of India,] Astounding Mesmeric Power.

A curious case of mesmerism is recorded by a civil surgeon of Hoshungabad. A young woman named Nunnee, aged twenty four, was married some 12 | SALT. years ago; she, however, did not go to her husband's house for two years afterward. After staying with him for eight days, she suddenly became insensible, and remained so for two or three days. She was taken back to her mother, and soon got well. Then tollows a very remarkable history. During the next four or five years she never entered her husband's house without falling insensible and remaining so. He was very kind and attentive to her; she liked him, but whenever he came into her presence she at at once sank into this state .-This went on till she became emaciated and exhausted, and at last the parents applied to the court for a separate maintenance for her.

While she was in court the husband entered, and she instantly became insensible, and was carried to the hospital, where the case was carefully attended to by Dr. Cullen, in March this year. of you are free. Your race are suffering | While in this state her pulse was even, the greatest wrong ever inflicted on any | breathing soft, her body pliant, but she could eat nothing. Experiments were carefully made to see if there was no trick about it. While she was in bed, her husband was muffled up, and made to walk through the ward. She said she felt he was near her, and she was by no means well, but had not seen him anywhere about. Next day this experi ment was repeated, and she actually this as a fact, with which we have to became insensible, as before. When the deal. It is better for both of us that husband left the place she recovered. The experiment as to the influence of the husband's presence was tried in all sorts of ways. He was made to pass behind her, and to be near her in a separate ward, but this had no effect, but whenever he was brought to look on her face, though muffled up, or disguised as a policeman, as a sepoy, and so forth, she was at once influenced .-The experiments continued for about a month, and the conclusion was that the husband unconsciously mesmerized her. The court came to the conclusion that it was impossible that she could live with him, and a separate allowance was race and be regarded as a monster of ordered. The husband was asked to try if he could not remove the effect, seeing that he had the power to cause it, but he was quite frightened at the Our exchanges, North and South, are idea of having the power, and could not control it in any way.
