Sad Affair.

From the Wilmington Journal of yes-terday we glean the following particulars of a very unfortunate occurrence: "We regret to learn of a sad affair that occurred near Flemington, on the Wilmington, Columbia & Augusta Railroad, last Saturday night. A freight train had run off the track near that place, one of the cars tearing up the track so that it needed repairing. Capt. B. W. Wilkins, the section-master, was therefore at work there with his hands until after nightfall. Being anxious to finish the work as soon as possible, he had a spade and was himself shoveling the dirt. As they had nearly finished, he spoke to one of the hands and told him to hurry up, and at the same time struck him with the spade, not, it is said, at all in anger, but, unfortunately, the blow fell on the back part of the neck and the man fell dead.
