the newspapers to hold an Immigration Convention, or Industrial Congress of the Southern States, at Memphis, Tennessee, about the first of May.

The suggestion is endorsed by the Memphis Appeal and other leading papers. The Wilmington Star, after publishing the comments of the Appea in favor of immigration, puts in a plea also to stop emigration. The Star says truly, that as long as our people flee their homes, others cannot be in duced to come here to live.

A correspondent of the RALEIGH NEWS, writing from Liverpool, whose letter we published and commented on a few days since, gave some of the causes which tended to impede Eu ropean immigration to the South These causes may be summed up in few words: The want of united effort on the part of the Southern States, the want of information in regard to our resources, climate, social and agricultural advantages, the want of active and reliable agents in Europe, to represent our claims, and to remove the prejudices which have poisoned the minds of foreigners against us, and the want of any regular system to turn the tide of European immigration which has been constantly flowing to the States of the North and North West.

We have never known much practical good to result from Industrial Congresses or Immigration Conventions. No doubt the one proposed to be held at Memphis has a worthy and patriotic object in view, but we cannot say we have any hopes that its deliberations will result in any impetus to the cause it is called to foster and promote. Such occasions generally give rise to extended discussions, and usually end in smoke and the letting off a little superfluous gas by wordy delegates.

We have almost despaired of any concert of action by the Southern States on the immigration question.

We think North Carolina should now strike out for herself, inaugurate a system of her own, and, as far as she may be able to dc so, carry it into effect.

The first step in this direction should be to give reliable information to foreigners touching our soil, climate, productions, agricultural advantages, mineral resources, together with such other information as may be deemed necessary and pertinent. To this end, carefully prepared statistical tables should be arranged, and a full and thorough statement compiled, constituting an accurate physical history of the State, and embracing all needful information on subjects relating to the wants and interests of foreign immigrants. Until our advantages are thoroughly known, we cannot hope for a regular in flux of foreign settlers. But our advantages cannot be known abroad unti-they are promulgated abroad.

This brings us to the next step in ou proposed system. The Northern and Western States, and Canada, have active enterprising, zealous agents in Liverpool and other European cities, armed with pamplets, maps, &c., setting forth, in the most attractive language and glowing colors, every inducement offered to immigrants by their respective sections, in many instances decrying and misreprepresenting the Southern States, and prejudicing the minds of strangers againts our climate, society and institutions. It is necessary that we should also have representatives on the spot not only to answer the charges made by our competitors, but to place immigrants in possession of official information con cerning our State and people, of which otherwise they would be kept in gross ignorance. We must have agents abroad, to compete with the agents of other States and sections, in disseming. ting knowledge of our material resources, and publishing the advantages which North Carolina presents to foreigners in search of desirable homes in America.

payment of the [pollstax a necessary | business; and the General Assembly qualification for a voter.

This ought to be done by all means. The principle is right. Such a measure is demanded by the exigency of the times. Thousands of able-bodied men in the State refuse to pay the poll-tax. If they were required to do so before being atlowed to vote, many of them would pay the tax rather than be deprived of their votes. The depleted treasury of the State would, to that ex-tent, be benefited. Subject to appropriation by the General Assembly. The bureau is empowered

There is no good reason why such law should not be passed by the Legis lature. Look to Georgia! There the whole State Government is overwhelmingly in the hands of the true men of the State and the representatives of the tax payers. Adopt the Georgia law in North Carolina, and we will behold the same desirable condition of affairs.

MR. POOL SAYS SO. Senator Pool's friends are very sanguine that he will receive a Cabinet appointment. They now assert that President Grant has intimated to Mr. Pool that he would, after the fourth of March, offer him the portfolio of either the Interior or Post Office Department. This statement is published as coming from Senator Pool himself.

Pool loses his claims upon the services he has rendered the Administration in North Carolina. He says Grant is indebted to North Carolina than to any other State in the Union for the overwhelming vote he received in the electoral college-that the August election in this State turned the tide against Liberalism and decided, virtually, the Presidential election in November; and that his individual plans and exertions carried the State for Caldwell and the Radical ticket.

It is said that President Grant acknowledges the force of this reasoning, and is determined to reward Pool at all hazards. At any rate Pool says so, we presume he is speaking the truth.

PRIVILEGE.

We are glad that the House of Congress has concurred in the Senate amendment abolishing the Franking

The bill passed the House originally, but was amended in the Senate for the purpose, it is thought, of defeating it. The impression seemed to prevail that the House would not concur in the Senate amendments, and thus the bill would hang fire and its defeat be in-

But our telegrams yesterday gave the gratifying intelligence, that the Senate's amendment passed the House by a vote of one hundred and forty-three to forty eight, and goes to the President. Of cours; he will not veto the act, as the Philadelphia platform upon which Grant was nominated, favors the abolition of the Franking Privilege.

THE NATIONAL DISGRACE.

The papers continue to be filled with accounts of the Credit Mobilier investigation; Ames is making full disclosures, and the developments, in face of the denials of the parties implicated, are astounding and damning. Wilson, now Vice President elect of the United States and the smiling Colfax, whose term as Vice President expires on the fourth of March, have both been caught in the net, as well as prominent members of both Houses of Congress.

The nation should hang its head in shame and weep at the disgraceful spectacle!

GOV. WISE'S INSURANCE SCHEME.

We publish below a draft of the bill on State insurance, which is now under consideration before the Virginia Legislature, which proposes to take insurance in the State out of the hands of all in surance companies and to place the subject entirely in the hands of the State Government, so that the State can share in the profits to be derived from the

The following gives the main features of the bill reported by a Committee to the Virginia Legislature:

The board shall have in charge the insurance of all tobacco and other agricultural products and implements, and the warehousing t the same for the farmers and planers, and of all stock and the transportation of the same to market for stockraisers and drovers of the State. It is further provided that no person or corporation, private or public, in or out of the State, than the bureau shall hereafter negotiate a policy of insurance, or make insurance in any form on life or property in this State. But this act is not to be construed to impair any existing contract or policy of insurance now made, but such contracts or policies shall not be renewed. Citizens insuring shall be credited with the

The scheme eems to meet with favor, but whether meritorious or not it proposes such radical measures that it must meet with violent opposition, if indeed it ever becomes a law. The section debarring existing insurance companies from engaging in business will of course array great and powerful interest against it.
