THE DAILY NEWS.

VOL. II. RALEIGH, N. C. SUNDAY MORNING, MARCH 30, 1873. NO. 27.

MORNING EDITION. The Raleigh Daily News. SUNDAY, MARCH 30, 1873.

LOCAL MATTER. E. C. WOODSON, City Editor.

LOCAL BRIEFS. N. B. Broughton, Esq., Editor of the Spirit of the Age, has been canvassing Wilmington this week.

A. J. Barton, Esq., has established his law office at Weldon. Success to Andrew.

Wilmington is to have a colored lecturer this week on a subject of a literary character. The lecturer is a graduate of Lincoln University, Pa.

The Georgia papers tell us that arrangements are being made to carry passengers from New York to Savannah, without change of cars, to go into effect next season.

Mrs. R. Koelia announces elsewhere in this morning's issue that she can furnish board with pleasant rooms for gentlemen, at the cottage on Dawson street, nearly opposite the Methodist Church.

Amusing—yesterday, to witness the numberless races that were occurring almost every minute in quest of hats. There is no condition in life in which a man receives so little sympathy as when he is in pursuit of his own hat.

OUR CHURCHES TO-DAY.—Divine services will be held at the following Churches to-day, (Sunday) Strangers and others in the city are earnestly and cordially invited to attend.

St. John's (Catholic) Church, corner Morgan & Wilmington streets. Rev. J. M. Atkinson, D. D. officiating. Services at 11 o'clock A. M. and 7 1/2 o'clock P. M.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH OF A CITIZEN OF NORTHAMPTON.—The Roanoke News of yesterday gives the following account of the accidental death a few days since of Mr. Joseph Copeland, a worthy citizen of Northampton county. Says the News:

THE "CONCORD SUN."—The first number of this weekly, published at Concord, N. C., by Charles F. Harris, Esq., is to hand. It presents a neat appearance, and we welcome it to our exchange list.

THE TORNADO.—The wind was very strong and damaging to fences and trees in all parts of this county yesterday south of Raleigh, and through the Rhamkatt section, the trees suffered severely and the fences are almost completely blown to pieces.

GOOD SMOKING TOBACCO.—We were made the recipients yesterday of some elegant "Mechanic's Smoking Tobacco" that is being manufactured by the Alliance Tobacco Company, at Company Shops, on the line of the N. C. Road. Thanks.

"DRY TIMES AHEAD."—Under the above caption, the Local Editor of the News a few days since humorously referred to the fact that a large number of corporations in the State were voting the "dry ticket," or to prohibit the sale of ardent spirits within such corporate limits.

"This gigantic march of the temperance movement is truly alarming to the thirsty everywhere, and consternation already breaks in upon the ranks of even the moderate drinkers. Desertion is now to be expected of the day, and we are half inclined to hand in our petition to Brother Whitaker as soon as he returns home."

Our friend, Brother Whitaker, Editor of the Friend of Temperance, the organ of that order in the State, takes our article as it was meant, and says: "We copy the above from the Local columns of the DAILY NEWS of this city, for the purpose of stating that Brother Whitaker has returned, and he will take pleasure in recommending Captain Woodson to membership in the Friends of Temperance."

"Come in, brother Woodson; you will be in good company." The Spirit of the Age, of this city, the organ of the Order of Good Templars in this State, sees fit to place the article of the News in a different light. Says that paper:

"We were sorry to see the above article in a late issue of the Raleigh Daily News. It is faulty in taste, faulty in morals, and faulty in credit, either on the man who wrote it, or the paper in which it appeared."

"Is it the deliberate purpose of the Raleigh News to ridicule the cause of Temperance?" "Do its Editors propose to make it the champion of intemperance and the organ of the grog sellers?"

"It is in danger of being so regarded by many of our best citizens." We thank the Editor of the Spirit of the Age, Dr. Prithard, for the kindly sentiments he expresses towards the Editors of the News, and hope we may ever merit his good opinions.

"The News is not nor has ever been an advocate of the temperance cause, nor is it an advocate of intemperance. It is what it professes to be, a political and news journal. Its columns, however, have ever been open and free to those who are advocating the cause in which the Spirit of the Age is engaged, yet we have never felt ourselves under any obligations to become the peculiar champions of the Friends of Temperance or of the most kindly feelings."

"In justice to the Political Editor of the News, to whom reference is made in the above extract, we would state that he is in no respect responsible for any article that may appear in our local columns. He rarely sees any local matter until after it is published."

"As we have made no war upon the temperance papers, as some of our State contemporaries have done, but have rather given them aid whenever desired, we think the attack of the Spirit of the Age is both uncalled for and unjust. We copy the following article, without endorsing it, from a late number of the Piedmont Press, only to show how some of our contemporaries have attacked the position of that paper."

"The Spirit of the Age, a temperance paper published at Raleigh, advocates making liquor selling or drinking a cause of non-eligibility to church membership, says an Ex."

"Yes, and we always set such fellows down as fanatics, and regard them as dangerous to the morals of society as rum-sellers and tipplers." In conclusion, we must be permitted to express our regret, that the Spirit of the Age did not take the same view of our article which was not intended as any slur upon the temperance cause, but written in the usual good-humored style of our Local Editor.

THE SPRING TRADE.—We failed to invite attention yesterday to the advertisements of Messrs. Davis, Drake & Co., of Petersburg, Va. This is one of the largest dry goods houses in the South, and offer as many inducements to the trade as can be found elsewhere.

ONE HUNDRED AGENTS WANTED.—Prof. P. S. Hicks, of this city, advertises elsewhere this morning that he wants one hundred agents. See his notice.

OUR CAPITOL AND THE OLDEN TIME LEGISLATORS.—A Convention of the people of this State met at Hillsboro, on the 21st of July 1788, to take into consideration the Constitution of the United States, and to fix on a place for holding the future meetings of the General Assembly, and place of residence of the Chief Officers of the State.

A ballot was taken, and a majority voted for the location whereon Isaac Hunter now resides in the county of Wake, and the General Assembly was authorized to meet elsewhere until convenient buildings could be erected. In 1789 and 1790 the General Assembly met in Fayetteville, and in 1791 in Newbern. At the latter session, the above selection was confirmed, and Frederick Hargett, Willie Jones, Joseph McDowell, Thomas Blount, William Johnston Dawson and James Martin, Esqs., Commissioners, purchased on the 5th day of April, 1792, of Joel Lane, Senator of the State, the site of the Court House, for the use of the public.

The "city" was called RALEIGH, in honor of Sir Walter Raleigh, who in 1584 fitted out the first expedition that landed on the shores of North Carolina, and who in 1587 despatched a number of colonists to Roanoke Island in this State under the charge of John White, who was duly commissioned "Governor of the city of Raleigh," which "city" was laid out on the Northern end of Roanoke Island.

The corner stone of the first Capitol was laid early in 1792, and the Legislature met in Raleigh for the first time on the 31st of December, 1794. Unlike our present Capitol, there was no provision in the first for the public offices. The offices of the Secretary of State and Comptroller were in a building on the northern boundary of the Capitol Square, immediately in front of the present National Hotel, while the Governor's office was at the left of the Washington Monument as you enter from the south gate, and immediately opposite was the Treasurer's and Adjutant General's offices. The records, being stored in the outer buildings, were not destroyed with the Capitol when it was burned on the 21st of June, 1831.

An amusing incident has been related to us in connection with the burning of the Capitol: William Hill, (father of Dr. Wm. G. Hill) was Secretary of State, and while the Capitol was in flames, being exceedingly solicitous to preserve the invaluable records of his office, he packed the records and removed his books and papers to the square on which the Deaf and Dumb Institution now stands, where they were dumped out in great confusion. After the fire was over, he had them carried back to his office (which had not been burned), and began the tedious task of re-arranging them. The late Judge Badger came in and finding Secretary Hill hard at work, remarked that he would "straighten out those papers for $5,000." By great exertion, however, the Secretary succeeded in re-arranging them, and at the close of the session, a resolution was introduced proposing to pay Mr. Hill $500 for his extra work. The resolution was rejected, and a resolution censuring Mr. Hill for "endangering the State's papers," was adopted in its stead!

At this date, when the systematic and careful manner in which Mr. Hill kept his papers is known and appreciated by all who have had occasion to examine records of his office during his extended term, the late censorious remarks of the General Assembly are certainly a most extraordinary and undeserved reflection on one of the most faithful officers who ever served the State.

In those days there were no railroads, and but few members of the General Assembly could reach Raleigh by the old stages, so most of them came on horseback, on the day preceding the meeting of the General Assembly, and some of the main roads leading into the city presented very much the appearance of a holiday. The people bringing their horses to the city, and to see the members of the Assembly, and as they passed on the members resembled detachments of cavalry. On their arrival in the city, they found many country people who came in for the purpose of making arrangements for taking care of the horses during the session. The horses were brought in every Saturday, so that the owners could see how they were being cared for, and Dr. Miller, of Cleveland, informed us at the last session (1872-'73) that it was quite exciting to witness the horse-racings on Hillsboro and Newbern streets, between the Legislators on Saturdays.

AN OLD LANDMARK GONE.—Yesterday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, the alarm of fire was given by the bell at the Metropolitan Market House. It was occasioned by the burning of what was known as the old "Sewell Place" on Newbern Avenue. It seems that the building caught from sparks from the chimney, and the roof being like an old tinder box, the building was soon wrapped in flames. The building was occupied by C. W. Lambeth, Esq., and we were glad to know that all the furniture was saved except that of two rooms. We suppose that this house was one of the oldest in the city, as the date of its erection goes back some sixty years, and around it clusters the many memories dear to the heart of many old inhabitants of this place. This old dwelling was once the centre of hospitality and fashion, and its rooms have been adorned by the presence of North Carolina's most distinguished sennators. Would that we had the necessary data to give a sketch of the history of this building, and its destination destroys one of the links in the chain connecting the present with the past. We learn that the property is owned by Wm. Beach, Esq., of Philadelphia, who purchased it from Gen. B. Grimes.

THE STATE FAIR.—Says the Asheville Citizen of a recent date: "It seems that the citizens of Raleigh display a lamentable carelessness towards the interests of the State Fair. They refuse to subscribe enough to even fit up, in a suitable manner, grounds for the annual exhibition. Charlotte offers inviting inducements, and it would not surprise us if the society holds its future fairs at that point. Let those most liberally disposed receive the benefit."

LOST VOLUME.—The Editor of the Roanoke News says that on Wednesday morning last he placed upon the Raleigh train, in charge of a friend, a bundle containing the first volume of that paper, to be conveyed to Mr. Armstrong of this city by the train. The said bundle was lost and the Editor is anxious to recover it. Any one finding the same will confer a favor upon him by delivering it to Mr. Armstrong.

RETURNED.—Our Managing Editor returned home yesterday, after an absence of some ten days on a tour through several of the more Southern States. He will give in our next a review of many things which he saw and learned during his trip.

GENUINE MARCH WEATHER.—March was upon us yesterday in earnest, and the howling of the winds through the day rendered it thoroughly disagreeable for those who were compelled to be upon the streets.

A HAPPY MAN.—One might tell without knowing it, that the Editor of the Rocky Mount Mail is a newly married man. His editorials, his selections, his local items, his poetical quotations, all gush with happiness—delight, ecstasy.

The roseate hue of bliss tinges every thought and breathes through every line of his last issue. He talks about wives as angels, marriage as the consummation of earthly joys, divine benedictions, &c., &c., &c.

But this is the honeymoon, you know, and a few blissful expletives may be pardoned.

Perhaps brother Thorp is like the fox, and wants to get all the editorial fox in the same category with himself. (Thorpe—Woodson is absent in Granville.) Brother Thorp advises all the young men to get married. He wants to congratulate 'em all—the does—on the realization of some of the happiness he now feels. Happy man!

Still Another.—Since writing the above, we have seen McSwen, of the Fayetteville Eagle, who is en route to his home in Fayetteville, from a bridal tour to New York, and is stopping at the Barbours.

McSwen can endorse the advice of the Editor of the Rocky Mount Mail—that he would be glad to see all of his young friends married—for he thinks married life a great improvement on single cussedness.

Mc looks happy and we doubt not he is sincere—but we "can't see it" now. (Woodson is in Granville.)

SEMI-WEEKLY GAZETTE.—We received yesterday the first issue of the Semi-Weekly Kinston Gazette. We are glad to see this evidence of prosperity on the part of its worthy and clever Editor—Mr. Wilson.

If the paper of Kinston and Lenoir will sustain the Gazette as they ought, it will do more than any other means to advance the material interests of their town and county.

We like the tone of the Gazette. Its enterprising Editor deserves to be sustained.

MUSICAL AND LITERARY ENTERTAINMENT.—Friday evening there was a most charming musical and literary entertainment at the Peace Institute. The audience was large but select, as it was invited. Both in their musical performances and literary recitations, the young ladies acquitted themselves admirably, and the hearers left at the end of the entertainment with the impression that the course at Peace Institute was adapted in every way to fit young ladies to become useful members of society.

THE STATE FAIR.—Says the Asheville Citizen of a recent date: "It seems that the citizens of Raleigh display a lamentable carelessness towards the interests of the State Fair. They refuse to subscribe enough to even fit up, in a suitable manner, grounds for the annual exhibition. Charlotte offers inviting inducements, and it would not surprise us if the society holds its future fairs at that point. Let those most liberally disposed receive the benefit."

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS. NOON DISPATCHES.

General Intelligence. A San Francisco dispatch says that the bark Lark, from Pandiego for Escondos, has been lost with all on board.

A mob at Chillicothe recently hung a negro man who had committed rape upon a respectable white woman. A Baltimore dispatch says that John Thompson, Mason, Secretary of State, has died of paralysis.

A bill has passed both Houses of the Kentucky Legislature providing for two homopathic professors in the Medical department of the State University. The house of Thos. Swain, at Guilford Village, N. H., was burned yesterday morning. Mrs. Swain, aged 82, was burned to death, and Mr. Swain was severely burned trying to save her.

Philadelphia has already subscribed nearly $200,000 for the Centennial celebration. F. Hahn, a Virginia drover, was robbed and murdered here last night. Heavy rains at Washington yesterday interrupted the telegraphs.

Racing Between the Oxford and Cambridge Boat Crews. LONDON, March 29.—The race between the Oxford and Cambridge boat crews on the Thames took place on this afternoon. The banks of the river were lined with spectators, and the most intense interest was manifested in the scene, business almost entirely suspended in the city. Betting was two to one on the Cambridge crew before the race commenced. The race was won by the Cambridge crew by three lengths.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES. New York Affairs.—The Severe Gale, &c. New York, March 28.—The steamships "Celtic," "City of Paris" and "Rhein" have $160,000 in specie for Europe. Three steamships and several others, bound to sea to-day, will not sail until the tremendous easterly gale now prevailing subsides.

The bank statement shows a loss in the reserve of $504,425. The gale is increasing and the rain pouring in torrents. A wing and street signs have been blown down. About one hundred feet of the Postoffice fence in Park Row has just blown down, no one hurt. All out-door labor to-day is suspended. No vessels left for sea to-day.

The Postal Car and Railway Conference is still in session. No result known as yet. Joseph A. Jackson, a wealthy pawn broker, died last night from wounds received from robbers three years ago. His assailants are serving long terms in prison. Nothing new in the Goodrich murder case to-day.

Washington Affairs. WASHINGTON, March 29.—It is proper to say that the motion to reconsider the confirmation of Col. Scruggs, as Minister to Bogota, was carried, but the second vote was not taken and Colonel Scruggs was not rejected by the Senate. His friends claim that he had no knowledge or connection with any Georgia ring. The award of $268,000 to Farragut for forcing fleets and the way to New Orleans was confirmed. The government resisted the claim.

The Postmaster General thinks the best railroads will appeal to Congress, but hardly dare withdraw the postal cars in the meanwhile. Arrest of an Indian Officer for Taking a False Census of the North Carolina Indians. WASHINGTON, March 29.—Captain D. F. Joeknack, of the Indian office, was arrested to-day under a bench warrant issued by Judge Carter, on the indictment found in United States Court for the Western District of North Carolina, against several parties for conspiring to defraud the government by the alleged making of a false census of the eastern band of Cherokees. He was delivered into the hands of the Marshal and afterwards gave bail for his appearance when wanted.

The Hurricane in Mississippi. CANTON, March 29th.—A hurricane swept through this city last night. A large number of houses were destroyed and several persons reported killed. Two loaded cars were lifted from the railroad track and one of them badly wrecked.

The Philadelphia Wife Murderer. PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—The wife murderer, Chas. J. Cloak, upon habeas corpus for bail, on plea of insanity. The court declined to hear the evidence and remanded the prisoner without bail.

The Condition of James Brooks and George Curtis. NEW YORK, March 29.—Jas. Brooks is worse. His disease is chronic dysentery. George W. Curtis improves steadily.

The English Boat Race. LONDON, March 29.—4:30 p. m.—The Oxford crew rowed from 39 to 43 strokes per minute, and the Cantans from 38 to 42 strokes. The time of race was 20 minutes 35 seconds.

The Perils of the Rail. BALTIMORE, March 29.—In a collision on the Northern Central Railroad, near Liverpool, the freight train was wrecked and burned and two persons killed.
