FOURTH DAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

[BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.]

RICHMOND, May 31, 1873.

DEAR NEWS: The interest of to-day's proceedings began with a speech from the Rev. A. Yeager, Rabbi of the Jewish Synagogue of Mobile, and a recent convert to Christianity. Mr. Yeager is a large and splendid looking man, and has a reputation for great learning and piety. He speaks broken English, but is very fluent and interesting, and his experience given in a book of thrilling power, entitled "Mind and Heart in Religion," forcibly reminding one of John Bunyan's Grace Abounding to the Chief of Sinners.

The order of the morning having arrived, Dr. A. B. Brown, of Halifax, Va., proceeded to deliver an address on the history of Baptist efforts in the cause of education. Dr. Brown is a singularly homely and awkward man, but is one of the most learned and able ministers of Virginia. He was educated at Richmond College and the University of Virginia, and is one of the most vigorous and profound thinkers in his denomination. His paper gave a full account of the history of the cause of education during the last hundred years, tracing especially the history of Brown University, Rhode Island, Columbia College, District of Columbia, and Richmond College.

At the conclusion of Dr. Burrows' address, Dr. John A. Broadus asked leave to introduce some resolutions adopted by the American Baptist Educational Commission, of which there is a branch in Richmond, looking to the improvement of the great National Centennial in 1876, by raising from three to five millions of dollars for Baptist Schools and Colleges over the whole land. He was followed by Dr. L. L. Cutting, the Secretary of this Commission and Dr. Barnes Sears, the Agent of the Peabody Fund, both setting forth the urgent need of higher and more universal education, and urging the importance of united efforts to endow our Colleges. Dr. Cutting mentioned the Theological Seminary at Chicago, the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Greenville, South Carolina, and the Columbian College at Washington, D. C., as institutions which should be encouraged.

Dr. J. W. Williams of Baltimore, said that the name of Columbian College had been changed to "Columbian University," that the institution was now in the possession of property which would cost them $4,000,000, if they had to purchase it, that W. W. Corcoran, the President of the Board of Trustees, had recently given the College property worth $200,000, and it was the purpose of the managers of that institution to make it a University indeed, by utilizing the Patent Office, Smithsonian Institute, Agricultural and other departments of the government for the promotion of science and learning.

The report on Foreign Missions read to-day, showed that the receipts of the Southern Baptist Convention had been over $50,000 for the year—the China mission is doing well—the African mission has been partially suspended, owing to the prevalence of war among the tribes, but that which elicited most interest was the Italian mission, which, though only three years old, has seven churches and 277 communicants. The pledge of the South is not been fully redeemed, $22,363.10 had been given, of which $3,165.96 were contributed by the North; $1,240.29 in Great Britain, and about $18,000 in the South. Drs. Jeter and G. B. Taylor addressed the body on the Italian mission, being gracefully introduced by Dr. H. A. Tupper, Secretary of the Foreign Mission Board. Dr. Jeter gave an account of his visit to Rome. He would have had larger success in England in raising money, but for the fact that the English Baptists were themselves collecting funds to build a church in Rome. He detailed the difficulties in securing a building in Rome, difficulties in securing a good title, difficulties in getting a secure foundation, modern Rome is built upon the ruins of ancient Rome, and a foundation costs sometimes enormously. He had advertised and hunted in vain; at one time he thought he had purchased a suitable house, but before the deed was signed, the owner insisted in putting in a clause forbidding the property to be used for a Protestant school or church. The Baptist church at Rome had had a wonderful success, notwithstanding its difficulties, and made decided progress while he was there. He gave a deeply interesting account of his visit to Bari; his ordination of a most promising young man, and the affection manifested for him, to the extent that some of the brethren "saluted him with a holy kiss." The other churches are in a hopeful condition, but brethren should not be too sanguine about this mission, the converts are generally poor, the Italian character was, in the main, very sincere, and it would require great prudence and wisdom to bring the work there to a state of permanent prosperity. If any one could do this, he thought Dr. George B. Taylor could, who was to take the place he has just left at Rome.

Dr. Taylor then spoke. He is a son of the late Dr. James B. Taylor of Va., was educated at Richmond College, and the Virginia University—has been chaplain of the University, is the author of the life of his father and a number of other valuable and popular books, and remarkable for his wisdom, and purity. In ten days he and his family expect to sail for Europe. The Association seemed much moved by the patriotic address of this good man. H. K. Ellyson read the report on State missions, which showed that 38 missionaries had been at work in different parts of the State with the most gratifying results. He was sorry to report that there was a debt of about $4,000, due the Missionaries, whereupon after considerable discussion, the deficit was then and there raised in subscribers to be paid in 30 days.

On Friday night Dr. Jeter delivered an historical address of thrilling interest on the rise and progress of the General Association of Virginia, after which, another call for money was made, when $18,000 were subscribed, which makes about $40,000 subscribed during the session of the body. The State of the Memorial Fund, as stated by Dr. Biting, is now as follows: Raised in Virginia $24,000. Raised of Virginia, $20,000, leaving $40,000 yet to be secured to reach the full sum of $300,000—the sum originally proposed. Of this amount, the first Baptist Church of Richmond gave $40,000, and one of its members, James Thomas, gave over $10,000. Mr. Thomas has given to this College altogether $23,000.

There were many other items which would interest your readers, but I have not time now to mention them. I will say, however, that of the most pleasing features of this most extraordinary meeting, was the presence of forty or fifty prominent men from the North, and the utter forgetfulness which seemed to prevail in regard to the late war. There was another thing which pleased your reporter, which was that in the appointments for the Sabbath, North Carolina seemed to have been honored. Rev. C. T. Baily was selected to preach in the Third Presbyterian Church, Rev. S. G. Mason, of Yanceyville, in one of the Methodist churches, and Dr. Pritchard to occupy the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church. The Hebrew Christian, Mr. Teegu, was to relate his experience at the First Baptist church at 9:30 A. M.

The next session of the Association will be held, probably, at Winchester, though Frederickburg and other places have petitioned for it. Monday will be occupied with the consideration of Sunday Schools, the Educational Board, which supports young ministers at college, and the Virginia Beth Society. Not before Monday night will the body adjourn, but as your reporter is compelled to leave to-night, he must refer your readers to the Virginia press for the further chronicles of this able body of Christians.

the country until its career of usefulness was for a time arrested by the war.

From Hagerstown, Dr. Lyman was called to Trinity Church, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, the principal Parish of that city, and here he labored with great energy and acceptability. He has always shown a zealous missionary spirit, and while in Pittsburgh, he sent out a colony from his Parish and built the beautiful St. Peters Church. About the year 1861, Dr. Lyman, feeling the need of rest, after many years of arduous labor, and desiring to give his children the advantages of study and traveling abroad, went to Europe. Here he remained for some years, and during most of the time, was the Pastor of congregations of our Church in Florence and in Rome.

In this capacity he was very useful, and rendered valuable service to the Church.

Shortly before he returned to this country, Dr. Lyman was chosen with great unanimity by the Trustees of the General Theological Seminary, a body composed of the Bishops and of clergy and laity from all parts of the United States, to the Deanship or Presidency of that Institution. But he declined this appointment, and soon afterwards became Rector of Trinity Church, the principal Church of San Francisco. Dr. Lyman was a delegate from California to our last General Convention, and he distinguished himself by a very happy speech made in advocacy of resolutions presented by him, on the subject of Ritual, which were promptly adopted by both houses of the General Convention and harmonized the Convention when it seemed impossible to come to an agreement after weeks of exciting debate.

The choice of Dr. Lyman to our Assistant Bishopric is believed by those who know him well, to be a very happy one. He is a man of high christian character; able, learned and judicious; firm in matters of principle, but always most kindly and genial in manners. He is an excellent and attractive preacher, and a fluent and ready speaker. He is a man of great energy, and we may hope for the extension of the Church from the missionary zeal which he has always manifested. Working as he will, in perfect harmony with the revered and beloved Bishop Atkinson, we may anticipate the best results to the Episcopal Diocese of this State.
