As the enforcement of the Cash system will cause us to strike from our list the names of many of our subscribers and after the first of this month, we trust that no offense will be taken by those who may thus find their papers discontinued, as we mean no disrespect to any one in doing so, but only to carry out our determination and the recommendation of the late Press Convention. LOCAL BRIEFS. Notice of new advertisements tomorrow. A second hand four seat rockaway is wanted. See advertisement.

The Board of County Commissioners meet on Saturday.

Yesterday the work of laying brick of the new store of Messrs. Williamson, Upchurch and Thomas began.

The report of the County Treasurer shows that Sheriff Lee owes the county a balance of $38,416.47.

The total amount of claims against the county audited by the County Commissioners from Feb. 1st, 1872, to Feb. 1st, 1873, was $29,405.56.

We received yesterday from our friend Tommy Harrison, a bottle of fine four year old Nectar whiskey, for which he will accept our thanks.

It is rumored that a Melanepes Erythrocephalus was seen in the lower part of the county a few days ago. Our colored informant called it "a red-headed peckerwood."

Gov. Caldwell has received an invitation to attend the Commencement exercises at the Washington Lee University, Lexington, Va.

Mr. Beam, in whose grocery the fire of Monday night commenced, was badly burned on the explosion of the barrel of kerosene. He now lies, suffering considerably, in the hospital of the U. S. Barracks near the premises burned.

We are gratified to learn that Capt. Brain is succeeding with his ice enterprise. Over $1,100 was subscribed by our citizens yesterday, and it is reasonably expected that in a short time the machine will be in operation. The machine in Charlotte is now nearly completed and will soon be in operation.

We are requested by one of the Stockholders of the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad Company, to call the attention of the public to certain legal proceedings already instituted in the Superior Court of Wake county, and brought for the purpose of testing the validity of the mortgage bonds of that Company, which are now proposed to be issued by its President and Directors, under a resolution introduced at a meeting of the stockholders held in Raleigh, during the latter part of 1872, by Major George W. Grice, of Virginia.

LEE DUNLAP.—Last week we inadvertently neglected to mention the fact, in the proceedings of the U. S. Circuit Court, now in session in this city, that Attorney-General Hargrove, on the part of the State, and in obedience to a resolution passed by the present General Assembly at its last session, made a motion that the Court dismise this case for want of jurisdiction, in order that it be remanded to the State Courts. The Court sustained the motion, and an appeal on the part of the defendant was taken to the United States Supreme Court. The history of Dunlap's case has been published too frequently for the public not to be thoroughly conversant with it, and therefore it need not be repeated here.

THE DAILY NEWS.

MISSED THEIR CHANCE.—Old Shakspeare was wise when he wrote "there is a tide in the affairs of men which if taken at the flood, leads on to fortune."

JOHN BEHOLDS RALEIGH. HE FINDS WONDERFUL THINGS IN THE OLD NORTH STATE. The Head of Navigation.—A Good Place for Smacks.—Sir Walter Raleigh's Discoveries.—A Keen Native.—Making Whistles.—An Average Drummer.—Camping Out. (Letter from the New York Sun's Clow.) RALEIGH, N. C., June, 1873. Raleigh is a town, and a capital town, too. It is the capital of North Carolina and Wake county both. Wakes are not more plenty at present in Wake county than in any other county. "Cheap John" and the old "anything on the board for four cents" may be never in Wake county. The Neuse river is six miles west of Raleigh. They built Raleigh six miles from the river to keep the first settlers' young uns from falling overboard. It is 280 miles from here to Washington. If you doubt this you have my consent to measure it. Washington is a good place for measures. Smithfield, 27 miles southeast of Raleigh is the ordinary head of navigation; but in high stages of water vessels come within eight miles of Raleigh. Most of 'em are smaller than the Great Eastern. Smacks get right up into the city. I heard one last night. I guess it was a "Meet me in the moon when the lane strikes nine" that was doing it, it sounded just as if a custard pudding had fallen out a third story window on to the pavement. I heard afterwards they are engaged. It sounded like an engagement.

Raleigh is laid out with great regularity, and is elevated and pleasantly situated in a healthy country. They have all kinds of tar but catarrh. The State House is gorgeous. It is modelled after the Parthenon at Athens. They used to have another one, but in 1831 it was destroyed by fire. It contained a fine statue of George W., by Canova, which not being fire proof, was destroyed too. This shows what great expense amounts to. A wooden statue of George Washington would burn up just as quick as a wooden cigar store Indian.

If you will read my letters you must learn something, and you have learned that North Carolina is a noble State. She produces piles of tar and chewing gum. It is the stickiest place in creation, and I believe the whole State is made out of black gum mucilage. I saw a dog that sat down in 1806 to scratch his ear and bark; he is there now; he couldn't get up without pulling up ground enough to leave a well. So he stays there, and the bark can be seen yet on the tree directly in front of him. There are lots of pine trees, but pine apples are scarce. In the country they never use saddles. They just put half an ounce of tar on the horse's back, and it was so touching I touched it. It was a man in the woods sitting upon a trunk under a big umbrella. He was eating chewing gum, and his trunk had more locks on it than the Erie Canal.

BRINGING DOWN THE AVERAGE. Says I: What's the matter? Says he: I'm a drummer. Says I: How is trade? Says he: Dull as thunder. There ain't any, and I really believe that if George Washington was alive, and had to sell goods on the road, he'd have to lie or give it up.

Says I: The difference between you and George is, he was a good man, and you are a goods man. But what are you doing here? Says he: I'm bringing down the average. Then he told me his boss allowed him so many dollars a day for traveling expenses, and that he'd spent more than that, and he'd camped out under an umbrella a whole week to bring down the average. I left him, and thought of the old story of the boss who found fault with his commercial traveler because on looking over his expense account buggy rides appeared so often.

The next time the expense account was handed in the boss says: All right, sir; I'm glad to see you have no buggy rides recorded this trip. Yes, replied the fellow, they don't show, that certain; but the buggy rides are all there.

North Carolina is one of the best States in the Union to live in; it's a glorious old State, and I say long may she wave.

THE OXFORD ORPHAN ASYLUM.—We are glad to learn that this Masonic charity continues to prosper. When the proposition was first made to change the Institution from a College, as it was first intended by the Masonic fraternity, to an Orphan School for the protection and education of the orphans of the State, it was predicted that the effort would end in failure. But under the indomitable administration of Mr. Mills, who was made its Superintendent, it bids fair to become an institution in which the whole State can feel a just pride. We learn that over 50 of the destitute orphans of the State have been collected there already, and under the careful attention of teachers, who have their heart in the work, are rapidly improving. Besides, the institution is growing. The liberal-hearted people of the State are responding to the call of Mr. Mills for aid, and it is the devout hope, that, at no distant day, in the future, its roof will shelter hundreds instead of scores of our destitute orphans. Our people should not weary in well-doing, but continue to cherish this praise-worthy charity.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—We return our thanks to Dr. G. D. Rice, the enterprising general agent of the Piedmont and Arlington Life Insurance Company, for a copy of the map of the Central Pacific Railroad with its connections.

Professor E. B. Fairchild, one of our most successful suburban truckers, left at our office, yesterday, a very large white cabbage, being one of nearly an acre of the same sort that he has now ready for delivery. The Professor has undoubtedly taken the lead in the sale of vegetables in our market this season. May his success continue.

INCIDENTS AT THE FIRE ON MONDAY NIGHT.—The colored Bucket Company, by their heroic efforts in saving the adjoining buildings to the fire from destruction, has won a position second to none in the brigade for usefulness and efficiency.

One of the most heartrending scenes witnessed at the fire was the burning of a large fine English bull dog that was chained to a stable near the house of Mr. Beam. His position was not discovered till too late to release him.

The U. S. soldiers at Camp Russell rendered great assistance to the Fire Brigade as water carriers for the Bucket Company and pulling down the burning buildings for the Hook and Ladder.

Editors Daily News.—We were spectators at the fire last night, and witnessed the remarkable tenacity with which three men of the Bucket Company stuck to their post in the intense heat reflected from the building they were endeavoring to save, as well as from the fire in front, and the untiring energy and ingenuity displayed by them in catching the water thrown upon the roof in a pool and returning it over and over against the house.

We think their conduct deserves something more than empty praise, and therefore without disparagement or reflection upon the heroism of many others we hereby subscribe the sum of $3 each and request that enough citizens will join us to make a compensation of $5 for each of the three above mentioned.

Respectfully, A. W. SHAFER, H. T. CLAWSON, JOHN C. BLAKE.

PORTRAITS OF JACKSON AND JOHNSON.—Mr. W. H. Rivers, of Charleston, S. C., an ex-Confederate, is now in the city soliciting subscriptions for life-size steel engraved portraits of Generals Jackson and Johnson, the proceeds of which sale is to be applied to the erection of a monument to the memory of the lamented Jackson.

Each portrait of Jackson bears the following inscription: "Sold by authority of the Jackson Monument Association for the purpose of erecting a monument to the memory of General Thomas J. Jackson, at the Virginia Military Institute, Lexington, Virginia."

Col. S. BASSETT FRENCH, Sec'y. Gov. JOHN LETCHER, of Lexington, Va., of Executive Committee.

In regard to the character of the engraving Mrs. Jackson, in a letter to the publisher, says: "Gentlemen.—The portrait of my husband, which you so kindly sent me, was so much admired by a friend that I was induced to give it away, and if you could spare me another like it I should be extremely obliged. It is the best engraving of him I have seen."

The portrait of Gen. Johnson is by far the best we ever saw.

The Gen. in a letter to the publisher, says: "The Picture, both as a likeness and an engraving, is in my opinion far superior to any other that has been published, and my friends who have seen it concur fully in this opinion."

Mr. Rivers comes to our city with the highest testimonials of his standing and character, and we bespeak for him success in his praiseworthy enterprise.

THE PETER SCHOOL.—We call attention to the advertisement of this excellent institution of learning. The school is located near Kittrell depot, on the Raleigh & Gaston Railroad, 85 miles from this city, and 63 from Weldon. The location is remarkable for its healthfulness and morality, and offers decided advantages to persons living in the eastern part of the State. The Principal, Fred A. Fetter, A. M., was a member of the Faculty of the University of North Carolina in its palmiest days, and is a scholar of polish and great erudition. The Associate Principal, Chas. Fetter, A. M., graduated at Chapel Hill with distinction in 1868, and has been engaged in teaching ever since. Both of these gentlemen are highly qualified as instructors, and we take pleasure in recommending their school to the notice of parents and guardians.

SUPREME COURT.—Yesterday the Court met at the usual hour.

Chief Justice Pearson and Associate Justice Boyden were absent on account of sickness.

The following cases were argued: Daniel Cogdell, assignee vs W. J. Exum, from Wayne. W. F. Faircloth for plaintiff and Smith & Strong for defendant.

James C. Bryan vs William Foy, from Craven. H. R. Bryan and Battle & Son for plaintiff and J. H. Haughton for defendant.

Susan F. Stanley vs W. S. Mason, administrator, from Craven. Battle & Son and H. R. Bryan for plaintiff and Geo. Green for defendant.

The Court adjourned to meet again this morning at the usual hour.

FOUND HER.—R. M. Furman, Esq., editor of the Asheville Citizen, after a long search, has found his "cousin" at last. We saw him en route for Tarboro yesterday, to take her home.

The above piece of information we clip from Brother Whitaker's Friend of Temperance. "This true, his pity and his lingering look" as he passed in the cars, knowing we would "ne'er look upon his like again." Farewell Robert—you shall have the prayers of the congregation.

NORTH CAROLINA SPECIAL TAX BONDS.—From the New York Tribune of the 10th, we clip the following: "The holders of North Carolina Special Tax bonds will hold a meeting Wednesday, June 18, at 2 p. m., at the banking office No. 39 Wall st., to listen to the reading of the opinion of Reverend Johnson, as to the obligations of the State, and to make arrangements for joining suit against the State under his direction."

Ho! For LIVERPOOL.—The St. Louis and Memphis, of the Allam Line of Steamers will leave Norfolk, Va., on the 33rd inst., direct for Liverpool. Cabin passage $70 in gold.

REV. CHAS. E. TAYLOR.—The pulpit of the Baptist Church, in this city, was occupied by this gentleman on Sabbath forenoon last. A friend who heard him, suggests that his sermon on the occasion is worthy of more than a passing notice. His text was from the 8th Psalm, verses 3d and 4th: "When I consider thy heavens, the works of thy fingers; and the moon and the stars which thou hast ordained; what is man, that thou art mindful of him? Or the son of man, that thou visitest him?"

The sermon evinced much research and knowledge, and the views presented were, in some respects, new and striking. His descriptions of the heavens, drawn from modern discoveries by the use of the telescope, were very nice and impressive.

Prof. Taylor is evidently a patient student. He gives to fervid simplicity a large knowledge of nature, science and history. His style is perspicuous and dignified, and never fails to arrest and hold the attention of his hearers throughout his discourse. He is a young man of much more than ordinary promise, and if his life should be prolonged to a good old age, he will be very useful in his day. Such young men, whether Ministers of the Gospel or not, are invaluable members of society.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.—Capt. J. A. Graham and E. S. Parker, of Graham, W. T. Faircloth, of Goldsboro, and J. H. Haughton, of Newbern, arrived in the city yesterday, and are in attendance upon the sessions of the Supreme and Federal Courts.

Robt. M. Furman, the unmarried editor of the Asheville Citizen, is at the Yarrowburgh House.

Maj. J. C. McCrae, of Fayetteville, is stopping at the Boarding House of Mrs. W. D. Haywood.

Hon. George Howard, Hon. W. A. Graham and Capt. R. B. Peebles are in the city.

Col. McLeod Turner, one of the efficient clerks of the North Carolina Senate, is on a visit to his friends and relatives in this city.

TELEGRAPHIC NEWS. NOON DISPATCHES.

MacKenzie's Raid into Mexico Endorsed. WASHINGTON, June 17.—The report of MacKenzie's exploit into Mexico bears the following endorsement from Sheridan: "I take pleasure in heartily approving the conduct of Col MacKenzie as an gallant act. The only course for security of life and property on one side of the Rio Grande, is to do as Col. MacKenzie has done. I do not believe that any boundary should exist between the United States and Mexico when we are defending the lives of our citizens, and protecting their property against a merciless band, to whom the name of murderer, robber or thief applies as covering their deeds. The gallant act of Col. MacKenzie is best recorded in his plain narrative of the event. I can only add that the Government ought to stand by MacKenzie." The report and Sheridan's endorsement were forwarded to Gen. Sherman, and the latter endorsed it as follows: "The conduct of Colonel Mackenzie is fully approved. If the attack was made on Mexican soil, as the report does not indicate, it is clearly the duty of the Mexican Government to complain. Until then the War Department has no official knowledge that such is the fact, and need not take any action. It is my opinion that when the band of freebooters, murderers, robbers and outlaws make a recognized boundary line between the nations at peace a safeguard for their crimes, there can be no just cause for dissension if the local forces of either nation pursue them for the purpose of capturing or ending their deeds of violence."

A New Phase in Slavery in the North. NEW YORK, June 17.—A morning paper says that at the present time there are between 700 and 800 children kidnapped from Italy, and held in slavery in large cities of the United States. This city being the great central entre port, the children are brought here and sold daily at private auction, prices varying from a hundred dollars to four hundred for boys, and a hundred to five hundred for girls. Where girls are exceptionally pretty, prices will be higher. Two little girls, who together play their violins in Wall street, are said to have been bought by the present owners for sixteen hundred dollars. Since the first of April last, 317 of these children have arrived at this port.

WEDNESDAY DISPATCHES. Polish Report of the Secretary to be Ready Tomorrow. WASHINGTON, June 17.—The President is expected in Washington some time during the present week.

Robert J. Falcon has been appointed U. S. Marshal, and Felix Brannon U. S. Attorney for the Southern District of Mississippi.

Secretary Robinson has been hard at work all day preparing his report of the Polish castaways. The report will not be ready for the press until tomorrow.

The Secretary has the Times to perform a special duty when the Department fully determines to search for Poland. When it became evident that he had no vessel in our navy suited for a trip to the Arctic regions, the Secretary concluded first, to purchase a suitable vessel when he was met with the objection that there was no appropriation obtainable for such a purpose. Negotiations were subsequently entered into with the owners of the English Seal Ship Tippers, to lease her to the United States for a specified sum not yet made public. The terms were accepted and she is now en route to New York, where she is expected to arrive next Tuesday.

The Legislature of Texas, in view of Mexican depredations on the border, has provided for the employing of a volunteer force for the purpose of protection.

Mrs. Hall, the widow of Capt. Hall, who is still in this city, did not come here to represent her needy condition to the Secretary of the Navy, as has been stated, but to see the Esquimaux Joe and Hans, to learn from their lips the sad particulars of her husband's death, but in this she was disappointed, as they had been sent away.

On his previous exploration Mrs. Hall always confidently looked for his safe return, but on his last voyage she had a presentiment that he would never come back.

The Evening Star says the following statement may be relied on as strictly true: Captain Hall himself was sanguine not only of accomplishing glorious results in behalf of science and of reaching the North Pole, but seemed to be confident of a safe return. He was especially pleased with the selection of Captain Buddington as his sailing master in 1860, twelve years before, and he seemed to have great confidence in his ability and experience as a seaman, especially in the northern latitudes.

He had manuscript sufficient to make several large volumes, and he told his friends that when he returned he intended to set forth in detail several years of the careful preparation for publication of the data he had obtained in his various polar expeditions. It may be mentioned as a matter of rumor that while Captain Hall was pleased with the selection of Buddington, he disliked Tyson the mate, but it does not appear if such was the case that he ever formally protested his occupying an official position on the Polar.
