WAKE FOREST COLLEGE COM-

BY OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.

Tuesday evening the Alumni Association was addressed by Henry B. Folk, Esq., of Brownsville, Tennessee, who graduated from this Coflege in the class of 1849. Mr. Folk is a native of North Carolina, having been born in Bertie county, but early in life removed to Brownsville Tennessee, where he is now recognized, not only as a Contractors will not be allowed, first-rate lawyer, but a gentleman of under their contracts, to advertise admirable character. He is not a preacher regularly ordained, but sometimes preaches the Gospel.

His topic was "Common Schools and Ministers," and was discussed for nearly an hour in a very interesting and spirited manner, setting forth the basis on which schools are based, giving the history of higher learning from the days of Greece and Rome up to the present time, and developing with force and beauty the great needs of liberal cul

Merrimon, escorted him to the chapel of the college, where a list the names of many of our subscribers large audience was in waiting to hear and after the first of this month, we trust and see this distinguished gentleman.

As he entered the chapel, leaning upmay thus find their papers discontinued, on the arm of Dr. Wingate, the Presi-as we mean no disrespect to any one in dent of the college, he was warmly applauded.

The exercises were opened with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Pritchard, of Raleigh after which, music by the Stanley's City Brass Band.

Dr. Wingate introduced to the audience the speaker in the following to seats, and several visitors came forwords: "It is my pleasure, ladies and gentlemen, to introduce to you the dispresent U. S. Senator) who has been selected to deliver the annual address before the two literary societies, the Philomathesian and the Euzelian, the Hon. A. S. Merrimon, of Raleigh.' (Applause)

Judge Merrimon advanced to the stand amid the deafening applause of the large audience. We could not of course give a synopsis of the excellent address of Judge Merrimon without doing him injustice. We have heard him frequently at the Bar, and often before political assemblages, and his reputation in both of the above capacities is too well known for us to add one word in his praise, but we never saw him more at nome than in his address on education Wednesday, the subject he chose for his theme. We only express the opinion of his large audience, many of whom had heard him often before on other subjects, that his address before the two literary societies of Wake Forrest College was realy the crowning act of his life. As above stated his theme was the subject of education, which, he said, in his preparatory remarks, though generally considered as worn out, was nevertheless not exhausted. In this state ment he fully sustained its truthfulness, that is, if we are to judge by the wrapt attention of the large audience during livened Fayetteville street yesterday the delivery of the lengthy, but truly interesting and entertaining address.

Rev. H. G. Hill, of Fayetteville, was introduced by Rev. Mr. Burwell, Principal, and delivered an address replete with literary polish, humor, instructive counsel and especially hard sense. His subject was Woman's Wrongs, and his earnest and impetuous oratory showed ladies mustered in strong force. On how deeply he felt them and how earnestly he desired to redress them. His assaults on fashion and deceptive compliments of men, defective parental training, and superficial education, and especially the vain and foolish whims of so-called reformers of woman's sphere, were just and severe. The address was fitly closed by referring all true redress to the word of God and allegiance to its teachings.

It was listened to with profound attention by an unwearied audience. The address was followed by an ex-to this subject. Persons who have spoken to the Pres ident lately on the matter say that while he did not declare his intention of making a speedy change in the Treasury Department, they left his presence with the belief that his decision was made to do so. It is also ascertained that the official life of Minister Jay will terminate upon the close of the Vienna Exposition. He has long been marked by the President for removal, and he would have been dispatched several months ago, but for the fact that his long residence at Vienna seems to furnish a sufficient reason to the administration for retaining him for his experience during such an important period.
