NEW COUNTIES. This is emphatically the era of change as well as of progress. But change is not always progress, and it sometimes happens that change is actual retrogression. There has rarely been a Legisla ture in this State which has not been besieged by propositions for new counties or for changes of county lines. There is sometimes merit in such propositions; but occasionally they are made either in the interest of individuals or from metives of whim, caprice, or partisan influence.

We think it is about time for the Legislature to put a stop to the formation of new counties. There seems to be an unaccountable mania in some sections on the subject.

There are now ninety-three counties in North Carolina, and the increase in the number of counties keep rapidly and disproportionately in advance of the increase of popu-

The constitution provides that the House of Representatives shall be composed of one hundred and twenty Representatives, chosen biennially by ballot, to be elected by the counties respectively, according to their population. Each county shall have at least one Representative, although it may not contain the requisite ratio of representation The General Assembly is directed to make the apportionment; and in making the apportionment for the House, the ratio of representation is ascertained by dividing the amount of population of the State, "exclusive of that comprehended within these counties, which do not severally contain the one hundred and twentieth part of the population of the State, by the number of Representatives, less the number assigned to each county. To each county containing the said ratio, and not twice the said ratio, there shall be assigned one Representative; to each three times the said ratio, there shall be assigned two Representa-

Taking the census of 1870 as a basis of calculation, we had in that year a voting population, including whites and blacks, of two hundred and fourteen thousand one hundred and forty-two. Dividing this number by the number of Representatives in the House, one hundred and twenty, we find that the average number of voters to each Representative is seventeen hundred and eighty-four. Now, if we examine the number of voters in some of the new counties, we find that a large majority of them do not contain anything like the voting population required on the average for a Representative in the House. For instance, Pamlico and Dare in the East, do not together contain enough voters for one Representative; the former having eight hundred and four, and the latter six hundred and forty-seven voters, making a total for the two counties of fourteen hundred and fifty-one votes, or three hundred and thirty-three less than required by the average for each county. Again, if we take the new counties of Swain and Clay in the West, the disproportion will be still more apparent. Swain cast only three hundred and sixty-one votes in the election for Governor in 1872-its voting population is not put down in the census; while Clay could boast in 1870 of only four hundred and ninety-nine voters in all. So that Clay and Swain combined do not contain one-half of the average voting population required for a Representative. But still these counties are each entitled under the Constitution to one Representative, regardless of the fact that they contain less than the ratio of representation. The loss of representation must fall on some of the more populous counties that send two, or three or four members to the House. In a number of the new counties already formed, we understand that no court houses or jails have been | not a paper in the Methodist church erected, and the people are opposed to being taxed for the purpose of | said he believed the meanest rascals building them. The courts are held in the South are in the Methodist in some instances in cabins or out- a Radical of the strongest kind, and | will be soil houses, and great inconvenience and embarrassment are occasioned by the want of snitable public buildings. There are various expenses incident to the formation of new counties which are not taken into consideration by some persons who so clamorously advocate them, and after they have carried the measure through, neglect to make any provision for the maintenance of the rights and privileges of the counties so formed.

We trust the Legislature will consider carefully before it enacts any more bills for the formation of new counties in any section of the State. Surely ninety-three counties are enough for our present population. It will be more becoming in us, by a course of wise legislation, to fill up with immigrants the counties we already have than to add new ones, and thus entail additional expense without any corresponding benefit.

Washington advices indicate that Congress will dodge the Louisiana question entirely-the Republicans have not the nerve to meet the issue, even at the commands of their master in the White House. Says the dispatch

"The Republicans of the House are caucussing over the Louisiana question to-night, and the leaders will move an early adjournment without

And so poor Louisiana is to be left at the mercy of Grant, Belknap and the "banditti" Sheridan. The Republican party has become frightened at the audacity of Grant & Co., and will not openly endorse their actions; but it is none the less cowardly to leave these despotic tools of an unprincipled party to execute their hellish intents, and the Republican party is none the less responsible therefor.

It would seem that Pinchback has again come to grief, for the time being at least. His new credentials, from the present bogus Legislature of Louisiana, it was thought would immediately seat him in the present mood of the Radical members of the U.S. Senate. But a Washington dispatch states that his credentials were referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections, "where they will sleep." Can it be that the Republican Senators are not prepared to endorse the Kellogg government, in obedience to the demands of Dictator

THERE is a proposition before Congress to reduce the expenses of the Navy Department by abolishing several useless naxy yards. This naturally raises a howl from the towns which are likely to lose the manufacture of Administration voters. New London and Pensacola are crying aloud in their anguish at county containing twice, but not this proposition, and demand to be

> THE Beecher-Tilton-Moulton trial is dragging its weary length along, and serves to gratify the morbid ouriosity of the thousands who read the reports thereof published in the New York dailies. Monday, by which resolutions were adopted endorsing Grant and Sheridan in Louisiana. Since those comments were made we have received from some unknown friend a marked copy of the Boston Herald, which contains a full report of the pious exercises of that occasion. As matter of singular, though melancholy and morbid interest, we copy the following extract from the Herald. We refrain from all remarks on the occasion; there is no language at our command that rises to the dignity of the theme, or that could do it justice

From the Boston Herald, Jan. 19. At the regular weekly meeting of the Methodist preachers of Boston and vicinity, held at Wesleyan Hall this forenoon, the recent difficulties in Louisiana were discussed at considerable length. Bishop Bowman gave an account of what he knew about the treatment of colored people in Louisiana, narrating a number instances in which they had been hamefully abused and deprived of life even. By invitation Rev. B. I. Ives, of New York, addressed the meeting and his speech was of the Radical kind. He declared there is altogether too much toadyism on the part of Northern people in their treatment of the South He said we are undertaking now to coax the devil out of the miserable whelps down South, when nothing but strychnine and cannon ought to be used. He rather agreed with Phil Sheridan's declaration during the war, "that if he had owned hell and Texas he would leas out Texas and live in the other place." Mr. Eves administered a castigation to the church, declaring that there is that dares discuss the civil rights bill, and ask that it be enforced. He church South. He declared himself more he loved God. He declared he believed that the spirit now rampant in the South has got to be crushed out by another war. and he longed for the appearance of some colored man able to become a leader among his people, wielding the sword and torch. He said the bishops ought to come out publicly and declare the whole truth about the treatment of the colored people in the South, but he didn't believe they would. If they did, he knew they couldn't return to the South, for if they did they would be hung; but he intimated that it was no worse to hang a bishop than a minister, but he suggested if it was done it might wake up the people quicker than anything else. He thought the bishops were too tender hearted and they reminded him of the man who wanted to cut off his dog's tail but he was too tender hearted to cut it off where it ought to be, so he cut off an inch at a time. The speech of Mr. Ives was received with frequent demonstrations of approval; some of his most erable applause, mingled with laugh-

BEALTHFUL SIMULATION .- Diffusible stimulants, provided they be absoluted pure, are among the most useful medic nal agents employed by physicians. When the tone of the system is lowered by the depressing influences of disease, or there is an inherent want of vigor in the con-stitution, they serve to counteract weak stitution, they serve 16 counteract weak-ening tendencies, and cheer the mind of the desponding invalid. But when, in the case of Hostetters Hitters, they p ssess tonic and alterative properties, their effects are rendered permanent, and they accom-plish a rebly beneficial result. The Bit-ters not only relieve nervous debility and mental depression by their healthfully stimulative action, but infuse asiding vizor into the depleted system, and rectify those internal disturbances, which are the real causes of weakness. The purity and the wholesomeness of the alcoholic base of the Bitters greatly increases the efficacy of their botanic ingredients, a best which ufficiently demonstrates. jan 22-D&W1w
