INFANTICIDE - A case of infanticide has just come to light near Hillsbere. A young negro woman and her mother, living on the premises of Major Geo. Collins, the son-in-law of Mr. Paul Cameron, were the guilty parties. The Sectorel of yesterday evening gives the following particulars of this crime: "A young negro woman was found in her cabin, her neck tied with a rope to the bed post, and the only words she said were, "Take me out quick, or mammy will kill me." She died soon after she was removed, but her death is thought to have occurred more from the effects of childbirth than from strangulation. Major Collins immediately had search made to find the child, the woman's mother declaring there had been no child born, and there was no use in looking for it. A barrel of ashes stood at is a hea's nest on top and

> PERSONALS .- The following answers to correspondents convey much general information : Durham -- No fencing or boxing master here.

Burlington, Vt-You can buy the 200 acres of land. Price depends on locality, improvements, etc., but you cannot get twenty boys to learn farming-tco much work and too little immediate pay. Wilmington .- The Usury bill has now become a law, and our banks are fully obeying its requirements. If odious and detrimental to the interests of your people, it must be borne as best it can, as there is now no remedy for it.

Belleville, Canada - Yes sir, Raleigh is rapidly increasing in population. No better evidence wanted than the hundreds of baby carriages to be found for sale in our variety stores. Apex.-Be more liberal in your views. Cheap things are generally worthless.

Marion .- Look at our columns and judge for yourself as to whether advertising in the NEWS pays.

Tarboro .- There is no law that we know of to punish persons for cruelty to animals. If your neighbor is cruel to his mules, shame him out of it. All dumb beasts are kindly disposed and are entitled to kindly treatment. Lynchburg, Va,-Would not advise you to come to Raleigh. Mrs. Slater and son are here, and seem to give general satisfaction.

Millon,-A large tobacco factory would do well here. Many things to recommend this locality. Thank you for your favors, and we will render you what assistance we can.

Ceford .- We can tell something of the past but nothing of the future. All prophecies fail. Read the DATLY NEWS, and you will keep about up to the times.

Magnolia .- Your article is too long for a Daily. Send it to the State Agricultural Journal. Cotton is King, and has become the master of every one who has undertaken to cultivate it to the exclusion of all other crops. You cannot deprecate too severe y his office in the morning and says invited guests, orators and reader, "T'll do at least one good and charistable act to-day." Forthwith he writes: "John Smith is by far the ablest man in the entire northwestern section of this great country and there he stops ; but it is enough. The street takes John up, where clips the paragraph and reproduces it, and the editor's exchanges come pouring in upon him with it, and his "ablest man" is a made man. Thus is greatness manufactured and the world filled with mediscrity through the good nature and good breakfast of some poor, plodding and unknown journalist, who has perhaps, never seen "John Smith," and never will see him, or if he should happen to meet the min he has boosted into place, ten to one he would pass him by unnoticed. with a lofty contempt for the very insignificant and vulgar source of his success. This is the way, however, we thrust greatness and buckle fortune on the backs of the unworthy and the worthy alike."

> THE PRISS CONVENTION .- The State Press Association will meet in Withington this year on the 11th of May. The Wilmington Journal has this to say of the approaching session f this body : The third around Convention of the North Carolina Press Association will assemble in this city during the second week in May. We suppose two-thirds of the whole editorial fraternity of the State will visit Wilmington on that occasion. Representing, as they do, the entire North Carolina reading population, and being themselves a body of intelligent and influential gentlemen, we know they will receive a warm welcome to our city. "We feel quite sure that their reception and treatment while here will be such as to insure a favorable inipression of Wilmington. There are prejudices existing in some portions of the State to our city, which have too frequently exhibited themselves to our injury, in the legislation of our General Assembly. We will probably never have so good an opportunity to be introduced to the copie of the whole State, and make friends throughout the length and breadth of North Carolina."

WAKE SUPERIOR COURT-OPEN-ING DAY .- The Spring term of Wake Superior Court, Judge Watts presiding, opened yesterday in this city. His Honor delivered his "usual ness of the session, only one case being heard, that of Geo. Mass-nburg, col., charged with lar-chy. He was acquitted. There are some 2,900 cases on the different dockets, 260) of which are what is known as the poll tax indictments, or parties indicted for failing to list their poll. These latter cases will come up for hearing next Monday. The Court will to-day continue the consideration of the juil cases, and on Thur-day the only capital case, that of Balaam Green, col., charged with breaking into the resi dence of Col. L. .). Stephenson, will be heard. The bastardy cases, some this babit of making cotton an ex- | thirty in number, have been set for Thursday week.

friends of this gentleman will be pleased to learn that his condition is such as to admit of his removal to Wiimington, the residence of his parents. He will probably leave this morning, special arrangements being made for his going through without having to change cars at Goldsboro.

EVERY ONE REQUIRED TO REGIS-TER.-In consequence of the change of the Wards of the city by the new charter, an entirely new registration is required. Let every Conservative in the city be certain that he is registered by the 23rd inst.

A New York Herald correspondent has recently visited the old mansion in Philadelphia formerly occupied by the dead tragedian Edwin Forrest. It is now offered for sale and has been partly dismantled. Here, in his old library, are two large photographs, life size-one of Forrest in citizen's dress, the other as Lear, holding his sceptre of straw, and saying, "Aye, every inch a king !" Around the wal, there is a collection of Plotographs of Forrest, in all of his characters, imperial size. He took a great deal of pride in these, and when the Photographs were printed he persisted in buying the negative, so that they could not be reproduced. Here he is in all his characters-Lear, Hamlet,-Othello, Rolla, Claude Melnotte, Jack Cade, Metamora, Spartacus, the Broker of Rogota, and so on down the list. Here, on a table is the glass case in which he kept his acting swords; for they are a noted collection. The first is Richard the third's sword, with the monoram "J. P. K." engraved upon it, for John Philip Kemble, to whom it originally belonged. Then there is a Roman sword, with "Talma" engraved upon it. This was the properz of Talma, thegreat tragedian. and, who wore it in his Roman parts and the tradition is that he received it from the Emperor Napoleon, his friend. And her also is a bowie knife, the first ever made, and presented to Forrest by Colonel Bowie, the inventor of that interesting emblem of American civilization. Here is a case that belonged to George Washington, and another signifying that it had been presented to Forrest by the artists of the Broadway

Theatre, New York, on the sixtyninth night of his performance in that city, April 30, 1852. An immense array of personal relics of the great actor are her stored away.

It is rumored that Whitelaw Reid will retire from the Tribune and Rufus Hatch take his place.
