PRESIDENT OF THE MEDICAL CON-VENTION .- It is with pleasure we learn that our lownsman, Dr. P. E. Hines, was elected President of the State Medical Association, which met in Wilson this week. The proceedings of the Convention will be found in another column. ATTEMPT TO BUY.-Will Mr. Turner explain about the charge made by our Orange correspondent in yesterdays issue that last Summer he (Mr. T.) attempted to buy off Mr. Mathew Atwater from running for the Legislature, by offering to pay him the per diem? Does Mr. Turner say this is untrue? No dodging-but an answer.

TRINITY COLLEGE. - A correspondent desires us to correct some errors which were made in some "Trinity" items given to the NEWS a few days

Our correspondent says the following names were omitted from the Freshman class: J. P. Gibson, J. E. Field and M. Bradshaw. From the Sophomore class, W. C. Barringer, and P. L. Groom. The Junior Orators will speak Tuesday night instead of Wednesday night.

We gladly comply with the request of our correspondent to correct these errors which are not our own.

There is much feeling here on the subject of the painful and calamitous accidents to two of the members of the Raleigh Artillery at Charlotte. It is charged that the guns furnished by the War Department were condemned pieces, and were turned over to a Southern Company because no other use could be made of them. If so, the Head of the Department deserves himself to be blown from the mouth of the gun for so wantonly er. dangering the lives of others.

Reports after such occurrences are very easly circulated and find ready credence. Perhaps injustice is done, but the Company will sift the matter to the bottom.

PERSON STREET CHURCH.-The series of meetings which have been interrupted by the progress of work on the building at Person Street Church, will be resumed to-day .-Divine services will be held this morning at 11 o'clock and at night, Rev. J. B. Bobbitt officiating at both hours. Sunday-school at nine

The work on the church building is about completed, the scaffolding removed, the house cleaned and the seats arranged, so that those who atend church to-day will find pleasant and comfortable accomodations. The church building is now one of the handsomest in the city and reflects much credit to those who have directed the improvements.

JOURNALISTTIC ENTERPRISE .-The daily Raleigh News has recently exhibited much enterprise. As the steamer Raleigh left the city of Wilmington on the excursion given to the Press, on last Wednesdry, the DAILY NEWS made its appearance in great numbers, with a splendid cut of Wilmington, with distance to all important points. This was enterprise. Success to you, brethren.

We are indebted to brother Malone of the Asheville Expositor, for the above compliment. We shall endeavor to keep fully up with the times, and we are thankful to our brethren of the press who give us a good cheer in this effort.

THE CITY SCRIP AND THE NEW BOARD.-Much comment has been occasioned by the order of the Board of Aldermen declining to receive city scrip in payment for taxes, as such has hitherto been done. We have inquired into the reasons actuating the new Board in taking this step. The city finances are by no means in a healthy condition-indeed, it is thought there is enough floating scrip out to absorb all the taxes that may be levied the present year, which if taken up will leave the Board without the means to commence the work of reform, and this step is taken in order to give them a breathing spell and to give the Finance Committee an opportunity to ascertain the full indebtedness of the city, to arrange for its adjustment by being funded or otherwise, and thus to place the credit of the city once again at par. It is the intention of the Committee to go to work at once in the matter of arranging the floating debt of our city, and we know the people of Raleigh will sustain them in this ef-

GOV. BROGDEN IN CHARLOTTE .-Gov. Brogden was a participant in the Mecklenburg Centennial celebration, and on Wednesday, at the hoisting of the centennial flag, he responded to a call upon him. We make the following extract from the closing remarks of his speech:

In contemplating the object of the occasion for which we are assembled, we may appropriately allude to the growth and progress of our country under the benign influence of the great principles of civil and religious iberty then proclaimed. Our country has increased in population, wealth and power beyond all precedent or example. One hundred years ago there were but four or five postoffices in the whole State of North Carolina, now there are nearly nine hundred, One hundred years ago there was no application of steam to the useful and industrial arts and sciences, now steam is used to run nearly all kinds of Machinery. One hundred years ago there were no railroads in this State or in the whole country, now there are nearly twelve hundred miles of railroads in successful operation in our State alone. One hundred years ago the profound and useful benefits we now derive from the magic use of the magnetic telegraph slept securely in the bosom of nature, and it was reserved to human ingenuity in the century in which we live to discover and utilize the electricity which, until our time, had no applied use. The principle proclaimed from the steps of the little log corthouse on this spot one hundred years ago, still live in all their original strength and power, while the illustrious patriots who proclaimed them have long since passed away, and of her generations have succeeded them, thus testifying that while principles are eternal the flight of time is increasing. Alas! how swift the moments fly! How flash the years along, &c. It is my pleasure as the highest executive officer in the State of North Carolina to extend a sincere and cordial invitation to all citizens of other States who have come here to join with us in commemorating the memory of the patriots of Mecklenburg, who proclaimed the liberty and independence which we now enjoy. The flag of our country which floats proudly over us is the emblem of our appreciation of those principles which secure protection to every American citizen at home and abroad, on land and at sea, and in every country throughout the world. If we are true to the principles proclaimed by our forefathers and which we have met here to celebrate, which guarantees the rights of people and rights of the individual States, they will stand as some Tall cliff that reared its awful form, Swells from the base and midway leaves the storm. Tough round its base the rolling clouds are s read. Eternal sunshine setties on its head.

correspondent of the New York Herald, in his account of the Charlotte celebration, pays the following tribute to the character of a Southern growd. It confirms fully what we have already asserted on the subject: "The complete good order and sobriety maintained by this immense assemblage strikes me as something remarkable in a country which is supposed to require the presence of troops to keep the peace. I saw but few policemen, constables or similar officers, and no arrests. This voluntary good behavior on the part of so great a body of people, of all sorts and conditions and of both races, is a significant exhibition of that peculiariy American trait of self-government which may be said to constitute the noblest feature of our democratic-republican autonomy. Such a people need no rulers but themselves. They realize the greatness which, we are told, is superior to him that "taketh a city." No disturbance or affray or other untoward incident has marred the pacific current of the observance."

The State Medical Convention. The N. C. State Medical Convention convened at the Court House in this place on Tuesday last at 41 o'clock P. M. Quite a number of the medical profession were present at the hour named, and were formally welcomed to Wilson in an address of some length by Dr. Hooper. The address of Dr. Hooper was very interesting and humorous and was enloved by all present, including a large number of citizens. The President of the society, Dr. J. W. In addition to the members of the society present on Tuesday the following gentlemen were present on Wednesday, namely, Drs. Hicks, Duffy, Porter, J. K. Hall, Pierce,

RESPECT AND GOOD ORDER .- The few appropriate and well received remarks. Dr. J. W. Jones, of Tarboro, the retiring President, then delivered an address of considerable length with regard to the origin of man, beginning at the garden of Eden. This address displayed great research and learning and was highly interesting. We were pleased therefore to hear a motion introduced and passed to have the address published. The following gentlemen were admitted to membership in the society, namely: Drs. Speight, Grimes, Sill, L. Juhan Picot, H. G. Land, Bullock, Eagles, Taylor, Whitehead, Cook, Thorp, Murphy. These gentlemen have recently received diplomas from Medical Colleges, but we are informed that in consideration of the thoroughness of their more recent examination they regard their certificate from the Examiners of the N. C. Medical Society as of more value, that is affording better evidence of their being qualified to practice medicine, than their Diplomas received from the learned Professors of Medical Colleges.

Interesting papers concerning cases treated were read by Drs. Wood Duffy, Ennett and others. Fayetteville was selected as the next place for the meeting of the Society on the first Wednesday in May, 1876, and Society adjourned. MORAL PRINCIPLE AND INTEGRI-TY IN BUSINESS REQUIRED AND EN-FORCED BY JUDICIAL DECISION .-

The practice of manufacturing and palming off upon the public by means of false labels and trade marks a spurious imitation of some deservedly popular article of general consumption, successfully practiced by many persons who claim to be reputable business men, has been judiciaily held by the Supreme Court of this State to be a fraud, and coming within the category of "false and fraudulent representations." This class of frauds is very common in this country, and should not go unpunished. We are pleased to know that the courts of this State have, by a decision in the case of Lea & Perrins vs. Julius Wolf and another, put a restraint upon that class of frauds. The plaintiffs are the manufacturers of the well-known "Worcestershire Sauce ;" the defendants were the makers of a spurious imitation of the same, and to which they also gave the name "Worcestershire Sauce" as a trade mark. The Subreme Court have decided that the adoption of that name is a fraud upon the public, and have restrained the defendants, by injuuction from its use. The firm of John Duncan's Son's of this city, who are the agents of Messrs Lea & Perrins in the United States, certainly deserve public commendation for their persistent and finally successful effort in procuring from our court a decision which will, if vigorously enforced, protect the public from this as also from a variety of similar fraudulent impositions. In some of the States this rule of morality is enforced by express statute, and punished as such. The principal so enunciated, however, is sustained by the "common law," which prevails in all the States of the Union, with one or two exceptions .- New York

WHAT THE NERVOUS REQUIRE.-What the nervous require more than anything else is invigoration. Schalives alone will not cure nervousness. The reason that the nerves are so sus ceptible is that they are weak. Compensate for this deficiency of strength, and over-scu'e nervous sensibili-ty disappears. The most rational, wholesome, and agreeable tonic is Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Medical men recommend its use for the cure of general debili ty, knowing it to 1088888 strength-giving properties of the highest order, and at the same time to be a means of reforming those bodily irregularities which induce nerconsness and loss of vigor. It is the best known remedy for dyspepsis, whether nervous or billious, and is powerfully censervative of a regular habit of body. As it is notorious that those wno areafflicted with weak nerves, bi liousness or constipation, are peculiarly liable to the influence of malaria, it is invaluable to such persons on acc unt of its preventive efficacy. It endows the body with health, and the mind with cheerfulness. April 30-D&W lw,
