THE SENTINEL.

Saturday, March 24, 1866.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Davis & Jones have on hand a fine lot of superior cotton seed, and a quantity of tar in excellent order.

J. J. Litchford commences business again as Auction and Commission Merchant. Mr. L. is a gentleman of excellent business capacity, and all matters entrusted to him will be well and promptly attended to.

HORSE THIEVES.—The Winston Sentinel says that there is not the slightest doubt but that there are one or more regularly organized gangs of horse thieves in Forsythe and surrounding counties, and that there will be no security for the property of citizens until all the rascals are ferreted out, and brought to the punishment due their crimes. There are cases in which "a long rope and a short shrift" is the sole remedy, and this is one of the cases.

WILMINGTON MARKETS.—Sales of 24 bales Cotton, on the 22nd., at 23c. per lb for re-packed. Crude Turpentine, $4.10. Tar, $1.50.

NEWBERN MARKETS.—Cotton 32@33 cents for good middling, and 28@30 cents for ordinary.

WILMINGTON POLICE.—Mr. R. J. Jones has been appointed Assistant Marshal of Wilmington, with a salary of $1200. Mr. Jones was one of the recently elected aldermen.

The police force of the city consists of three captains, with salary of $75 per month each; six sergeants at $60 per month each; and sixty-five privates at $50 each.

PETERSBURG MARKETS.—Cotton, sales at 35 cents. Corn, 85@90 cents. Wheat, prime white, $1.50@$2. Gold bought at $1.25 and sold at $1.90.

THE CHARLOTTE papers are urging the adoption of the new Charter. On the first Thursday in April, the citizens will have an opportunity of deciding whether the town shall be a City, or whether it shall be reduced back to a "village." The Guardian is confident of the ratification of the Charter.

The Supply of Cotton.

Those dealers who based their operations in cotton and cotton goods upon the reports that were extensively circulated soon after the surrender of the rebel armies, have been somewhat disappointed. It was stated that the supply in the Southern States would not exceed one million bales, and that was all that could possibly be obtained until after another crop was gathered.—These reports were no doubt circulated for an object, and to keep the price up as long as possible. At any rate it had that effect, and while it deceived many it kept the cost of the manufactured goods to the consumer at an exorbitantly high figure, and has nearly ruined a number of cotton speculators. We see from a cotton circular just issued in this city, that the number of bales already received at the different shipping ports since the close of the war is one million nine hundred and seventy thousand bales, or double that which was generally reported when hostilities were suspended. The same circular gives the amount still held back at some three hundred thousand bales. But we imagine that it will be found that this amount will exceed rather than fall below half million of bales.—While the supply in this country exceeds the general expectations, it is also stated that the recent shipments from India have been on an enormous scale, and that the quantity already afloat from that country is such as to justify the expectations of an excess in Europe from that source.

These facts reveal the danger that exists to our merchants engaged in the dry goods trade, and the general fall in prices which must of necessity follow. All who have based their calculations and made their purchases on the idea of a short supply in the cotton staple must suffer in consequence. This great supply of cotton is sufficient of itself to cause a further decline in gold, and is bringing us every day nearer a specie basis. That point is coming now as fast as the country can stand it, and if we add to that legislation to force immediate specie payments we shall be plunged headlong into a general crash. Instead of legislating on the finance question, Congress should forthwith secure the restoration of the South, and thus open a market for goods by giving confidence to the public everywhere.—N. Y. Herald.

GENERAL NEWS.

The New York Post, the 22nd., says:

Prices of goods of all descriptions are falling. The decline was great yesterday, though some kinds of merchandise were held by owners with considerable firmness. So much effort to make sales has rarely been put forth, and the disposition was everywhere manifest to close transactions and to "realize." The concession in dress goods is large—it extends to prints and all fine fabrics; on standards and woollens it is lightest. The fall in one month, on the basis of some of the prices of goods sold at auction yesterday, is reported to be fully one hundred per cent, but this is, of course, no criterion whatever of the market. The average decline may not exceed twenty or twenty-five per cent in that time.

There is a very general feeling of insecurity in business circles, amounting almost to a panic in some quarters, and this adds to the depression. Nobody questions the policy of selling, but the public, and particularly the men in business, do not readily buy.

TALL DANCING.—The New Orleans Star describes a ball given in that city by the milliners and modistes, during which the dress of one of the dancers caught fire. The Star adds:

"Some idea of her style of dancing may be gathered, when it is further stated that the dress caught from one of the chandeliers overhead."

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE OF STERLING KING.—A Louisville telegram of March 21st states that Sterling King, who confessed himself guilty of the attempted assassination of Secretary Seward, endeavored to commit suicide this morning by severing a blood-vessel of his arm. His recovery is considered doubtful.

John Van Buren, who has been down at Charleston looking around, having returned home, says if there are any rebels left in that city, he could not see or hear of them. Everybody was in favor of the President and the President's policy.

A Dublin journal observed that a handbill announcing a public meeting in that city states, with boundless liberality, that "the ladies, without distinction of sex, are invited to attend."

The death of a Mormon Bishop is thus announced. He was thirty-seven years old, and leaves an interesting family of eleven wives and forty-seven small children to mourn his death.

Hardee has, at the request of Generals Grant and Sherman, received from President Johnson an assurance that he may continue in the pursuits of civil life without fear of molestation by the United States authorities.

The Democratic candidate for the Governorship of Connecticut has just been to Washington, where, says the Intelligencer, "he had several cordial and pleasant interviews with the President, who appreciates the friendship of Mr. English, and who, we have every reason to believe, would be highly pleased to hear of his success on the first Monday of April."

William B. Astor owns 1,800 houses in New York, and is charged with the responsibility of the recent large advance in rents. One little house, which two years ago he rented for $300, was put up at $1,500 last year, and this year he charges $2,500.

A correspondent states that the standard library of the late John W. Syms, of Petersburg, was sold at auction recently, and that the finest works sold for twenty-five cents a volume, and the rest at five cents a pound.

The death of a German veteran, who served under the great Frederick in the seven years' war, is announced. He died at the respectable age of one hundred and twenty, at the hamlet of Sisude, in Upper Silesia. His name was Laurence Halach.
