FOR GOVERNOR,

JONATHAN WORTH,

OF RANDOLPH.

First of July.

Quite a number of our subscribers have paid up to the 1st. of July. We hope all will renew promptly by that time. Look out for the cross mark.

The True Policy.

The interesting and striking resume of the capabilities of North Carolina, communicated by Gov. Worth to the United States Commissioner of Immigration, and published in this paper on Monday, suggests the proper theatre in which all the energies of our people should be at present employed. Denied their rightful place in the councils of the government, after having done all that, and more than, comported with their manhood, dignity and self-respect to secure it, it only remains for them to acquiesce, with what composure and serenity they may, in the unjust and iniquitous sentence which excludes them from their Constitutional privileges, and devote themselves to the recuperation of their individual fortunes and the development of the multiplied resources of the State. We speak from an intimate knowledge of their character, and especially from an intimate acquaintance with the present condition of popular sentiment, when we say, that they are done with unworthy concessions to an insolent fanaticism, and that they will not voluntarily set their own seals to the verdict which is to degrade them. If it is to come, it will be through no self-agency, and they will bear it with the philosophy of a noble and manly character. They will never commit suicide, though they may steel themselves for the sake of martyrdom. They may continue for a while to be the objects of an unrelenting and vindictive persecution, but after years will reverse the harsh judgments of the present hour, and all will be right in the end.

Meanwhile, undisturbed by threatened political evils and steering entirely clear of the areas of political agitation, our people may find in attention to their internal and industrial condition not only the means of diversion from brooding troubles, but the sure means of wealth and prosperity. It it be true that, even under the ordinary circumstances of life, he is to be esteemed as a public benefactor who makes two blades of grass to grow where but one grew before, he is to be doubly considered so who, at a time like the present, contributes in any degree, however small, to the work of repairing our prostrated condition. And in this work every man, if he will only set about it aright, can lend a helping hand. The diversified capabilities of our soil, in mineral and agricultural production, the resources of our forests, and our manufacturing facilities, afford a thousand avenues of enterprise and of profit, which, while they promise contribution to individual investment and labor, will tend to swell the aggregate wealth of the State. We look, for instance, upon the movement recently organized for the purpose of boring for Petroleum in the carboniferous regions of Rockingham, Chatham and Moore,—where, by the way, we have no doubt it exists; or all geological indications are fallacious,—as likely to be productive of more substantial good to the State than twenty years of unprofitable wrangling over the question of re-construction, as matters stand at present.

With a soil of general unsurpassed fertility, with a climate equal to that of the most favored regions of the globe, with a water-power capable of moving the machinery of the world, with the richest minerals in abundance; coal beds and iron mines equal to those of Pennsylvania; the habitat of that great boon of Providence, the Vine, the indigenous home of the choicest varieties of grapes; with the most extended fisheries South of the extreme Northern Atlantic Coast,—possessing all these advantages, there is no reason why North Carolina should be second to any State in, or out of, the Union. Let us turn our attention to these advantages, and seek in their employment a recuperation for the losses of the war. Whatever fate may befall us in the future, we shall be all the better prepared to meet it. If it is to be, under the pressure of Radical malignity, what we have no good cause to apprehend, our strength will be the more equal to the emergency. If the clouds which now lower above us are to be dissipated, and under the influence of wise counsels and returning reason we are to be restored to our proper position in the galaxy of States, we shall be the better fitted to adorn and illustrate the position, and to reflect credit upon ourselves and the common country.

W. C. HARRIS.—The name of Ex Governor Vance having been connected with the Presidency and Presidency of this Railroad, we are authorized to say that Gov. Vance has positively declined to allow his name to be brought forward as a candidate for either position.

A. R. DAVIS, Esq., of Halifax, in a card addressed to the people of that County, in the Weldon Steam, declines being a candidate for re-election to the House of Commons.

The National Convention.

Our readers have already considered the purport of the telegram in yesterday's issue, proposing, on the part of the Executive Committee of the National Union Club at Washington, the holding of a National Convention of delegates from each Congressional District in all the States and from the States at large, &c., to meet at Philadelphia, on the 2d. Tuesday in August next.

The object we understand to be to combine and organize, for the purpose of meeting the issues now before the country, all the conservative men of all parties, who are truly Constitutional Union men, "who sustain the President's administration in maintaining unbroken the Constitution which our fathers established, and who agree in certain propositions, including the maintenance inviolate of the rights of the States, and especially of the right of each State to order and control its own domestic concerns, according to its own judgment exclusively,—as essential to the balance of power on which the perfection and endurance of our political fabric depend, and the overthrow of that system by the usurpation and centralization of power in Congress, which would be a revolution dangerous to Republican government and destructive of liberty."

In a word, the object is to concentrate and unite, for a temporary, but vital purpose, all conservative men of all parties, who heartily support President Johnson's policy against the policy of the Radicals, in order, if possible, in the coming elections, to defeat their plans and the plans of all who are opposed to an early constitutional Union of all the States in harmony and concord.

We understand that this proposition does not contemplate the organization of a complete, perfect and lasting party, but it is for the specific work of accomplishing the restoration of the Union on President Johnson's platform, leaving every one free to act, after that object is accomplished, with whatever party he may elect.

As we are at present advised, we are entirely favorable to the proposition. It is desirable on many accounts. First, in order to bring Northern and Southern conservatives into closer bonds, to interchange views and to effect mutual co-operation and friendship. Secondly, to enable both North and South to understand each other better. Thirdly, because out of this may grow up a party truly conservative, made up of the best men of all parties, for the future defence and maintenance of the government framed by our fathers.

We, therefore, urge the people of North Carolina to hold County meetings throughout the State, to make arrangements for their own County candidates for the approaching election, and for District Conventions for the selection of two delegates from each Congressional District, and the appointment of delegates from the State at large, to represent North Carolina in said Convention, at Philadelphia.

Board of Internal Improvement.

This Board met to-day. Present: Governor Worth, President ex-officio, P. H. Winston, Esq., and Dr. J. G. Ramsay. The following appointments were made:

N. C. and Atlantic Road.

W. G. Morrissey, of Wayne, State proxy.

State Directors:—Isaac Ramsay and Wm. Murdoch, for Carteret; A. T. Jerkins, C. C. Clark and John D. Flanner, Craven; Lewis C. Desmond and James H. Parrott, for Lenoir; and Council Best, for Wayne.

Texas Scheme of the Radicals.

(Correspondence of the N. Y. Herald.)

WASHINGTON, June 24, 1866.

The arrival in town a few days since of Provisional Governor Hamilton, of Texas, was not in itself a remarkable event. Provisional Governors have come to and departed from Washington during the past year with almost as much regularity as the sun. Nor is Provisional Governor Hamilton in any sense a very remarkable man. During the rebellion he remained true to the Union, as did many others who were not rewarded for their fidelity with place and power. In Hamilton's case, however, it would seem that the President, while seeking in his appointment to reward and encourage loyalty, made the not uncommon mistake of fostering treachery and disloyalty.

Governor Hamilton, on his arrival here, called upon the President, and was admitted to a long and confidential interview. He called a second time, and was received in like manner, as his pretensions demanded, he claiming to be a warm and devoted friend to the President, and an admirer of his administration. But it does not appear at all likely that he will call again, or that, if he shall call, he will meet with so cordial a reception. And the reason why his reception will be different from that he has hitherto met, will be gathered from a perusal of the following letter from a prominent gentleman in Texas, as indisputably loyal man, well known throughout the country. This letter was received here a day or two since, and has been laid before the President. The writer and recipient are alike well known, and the information conveyed in the letter is beyond doubt. The letter runs as follows:—

GALVESTON, Texas, June 6, 1866.

DEAR ——:—

Governor Hamilton leaves here to-morrow for Washington. From sources, no doubt perfectly reliable, I learn that he goes on at the invitation of Mr. Speaker Colfax, Senator Trumbull and others, who regard him, as one of his admirers tells me, as the great man of the Union party South of the Potomac.

His programme, I believe, will be to produce an accept a rupture with the President. He will then be associated by the Radicals, and will lay before the public the condition of the Union men in Texas and the South, alleging that the army alone protects them from being driven out of the country and exposed to every insult and outrage; and that if the Governor who this month will be elected by the people of Texas—Throckmorton—is permitted to be installed, he will consign the twenty-five thousand Union white men of this State and the sixty thousand Union black men of the State to precisely the mad minority which appose and oppress them. An insurrection will be encouraged and they believe the President will not be prejudiced to see the army against the white and black Union men of the State in behalf of the white rebels. The President will be denounced in the strongest and bitterest terms as having betrayed the Union men of the South, and given them, bound hand and foot, into the power of the enemies of the country.

His speech will be the signal for a more virulent and vindictive crusade against the President and the South than has heretofore been waged; and the plan is to summon whites and blacks to the polls to exercise the divinely conferred and inalienable rights of participation in the government.

My information is direct and unquestionable.

W.

THE PLOT THICKENS.

Here, then, is a scheme that would have done credit to the Jacobins of France in the palmiest days of their famous revolution, but which hardly seems credible in this day and generation. The names of Trumbull and Colfax being associated with the scheme would seem to cast the shadow of a doubt about it, as we have been led to look upon these two men as rather inclined, while participating with the Radicals, to counsel more conservative and moderate measures. But doubtless their associations have corrupted them to such a degree that, with Chandler, Sumner, Wade, Stevens and the rest of the holy-patriotism party, they rather like the shedding of blood. It will be remembered that just before the first gun of the late war was fired, Chandler, of Michigan, wrote to his friend Governor Blair, of that State, that "some of our New England friends think a war would be awful; but in my opinion without a little blood-letting this Union will not be worth a rush." The premature publication of this elegant and Christian sentiment caused the honorable Zachariah some little confusion and embarrassment; but in the subsequent blaze of patriotic fervor that spread over the land, on the announcement of the attack on Sumter, the blood-letting letter was a trump card, and its lofty author strutted through the country with all the pomp and ceremony of a Sir Oracle. So now his associates and confreres may plot insurrection and violence that appear very horrible and fearful in anticipation, but which by manipulation may be made to appear a holy struggle and its authors subjects of acclaim and preferment.

And so, indeed, it is that in this advanced age of the world, we find men, claiming to be enlightened, intelligent, Christian gentlemen and wise legislators, deliberately plotting revolution and bloodshed. The greed of power must be great in men who will so deliberately sacrifice all loyal instincts, all fraternal affection, all Christian principle, all enlightened judgment, for the sake of breeding crime, misery, desolation, death and ruin, that through such agencies they may govern an empire.

THAD STEVENS REVIEWED BY MONTGOMERY BLAIR.—One week ago to-day ex-Postmaster General Blair delivered a speech at Frederick, Maryland, on the "Issue of the time," in which he took occasion to point out the results that must follow the present system of legislation in Congress in regard to the reconstruction of the South. In the first place he showed that it was contrary to the avowed object of the war and that Stevens and his faction are trying to secure subjugation instead of restoration. The historical points raised in this speech are very opportune and forcibly stated. Mr. Blair clearly shows that the policy of the radicals towards the Southern States is without a parallel in the history of the world and directly in opposition to the policy of our own government in suppressing former rebellions, and, by way of illustration, recalled the conspiracies in New England against the Union at the time of the second war with England, the Hartford Convention, also the Buckshot war in Pennsylvania, where Thad Stevens advised all his associates "to throw their conscience to the devil" and carry out their scheme at all hazards.

The action of Congress since the commencement of the present session is thoroughly exposed, from the adoption of the Freedmen's Bureau bill down to the numerous constitutional amendments. The working of the Freedmen's Bureau, under the management of the New England agents, is also shown up, and the declaration made that we are fast drifting in our policy into the system practised by England towards Ireland, the result being that New England soldiers will be sent there to collect taxes in violation of the great principle involved in the revolt of the colonies from the rule of England, "taxation without representation." All this is being done that a few radicals may retain power and force upon the country negro equality, negro suffrage and a negro bureau. Mr. Blair was unusually pointed in his remarks on this occasion, and indicated in unmistakable terms the revolution which is now ruling in Congress.—N. Y. World.

For the Sentinel.

The Lieutenant Governorship.

Messrs. Editors:—The Radical organ of this city is much concerned about the position of Gov. Worth and the Lieut. Governor. It professes to know exactly what Gov. Worth wishes and what is the programme of his friends. Perhaps a few weeks more will better determine that matter. It is not yet settled, whether we shall have a new constitution or a Lieutenant Governor. That must first be determined. And then we advertise the Radical organ, that whether it be Col. D. D. Ferebee or Wm. Eaton Jr., S. F. Phillips or Robert Strange, Gen. Patterson or P. H. Winston, J. G. Ramsay or W. A. Wright or Burgess S. Gaither, all of whom have been named for the position, or whether it be some other good Andrew Johnson conservative, he will be elected.

The people of the State are determined to reelect Jonathan Worth and they will select the right man for Lieut. Governor. That man will be forthcoming at the right time and in the right place, to the discomfiture of the Radicals.

JOHN.

For the Sentinel.

OLIN, N. C. June 25, 1866.

Messrs. Editors:—As you are interested in every improvement in society, and the special advocates of the education of the youth of the "good old North State," allow me to give you a short account of the examination of Olin High School, now under the direction of that experienced and excellent instructor, Mr. James Southgate.

The exercises commenced on Tuesday the 19th inst., and continued through Thursday 7th.

The attendance was good. The pupils acquitted themselves well and showed that they had been properly instructed. It was manifest that particular attention had been given to the rudiments and fundamental principles of the various studies. A good foundation is thus laid for future permanent advancement and improvement.

On Wednesday night, Rev. O. J. Brent, of Salisbury, delivered the sermon. It was sound, sensible and practical.

On Thursday, at 11 A. M., Dr. Ramsey, of Rowan, delivered the annual address, showing the necessity of education to all at all times, and especially now to us in our present condition. The address was well conceived and full of instruction.

The declamations by the young gentlemen evinced judgment and taste in the selection, and tact and talent in the delivery.

The composition of the young ladies indicated refined views, elevated thoughts and pure spirits.

The list of distinctions in the several studies show a commendable ambition and progress among the students.

I trust a bright future is before Olin. The prospect for the coming session is fine.
