

The Semi-Weekly Sentinel.

VOL. 3.

RALEIGH, N. C. WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1868.

NO. 1.

THE SENTINEL.

W. L. F. F. PROPRIETOR.

THE TRUE DOCTRINE.
The New York Herald says: "The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government."

THE RECONSTRUCTION.
The tardiness of Congress to remove the disabilities of those who have been re-elected to the Senate, as well as to approve the new Constitution, and admit to representation those Southern States which have complied with the Reconstruction Act, produces anything but satisfaction with those among the Southern States who have been greedy enough to be re-elected. It is a matter of course that Congress will do its duty, but we have not heard of any such thing. Whether the Reconstruction Act is a violation of the Federal Government's contract, or whether it is a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government, is a matter of course that Congress will do its duty, but we have not heard of any such thing.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

LOUISBURG FEMALE COLLEGE.

While the newspapers of the State and of the South ordinarily term, at this season of the year, with some of the closing exercises of our Male Colleges, Academies and Schools, it is a matter of regret that a secondary consequence should have been bestowed on those for the education of the daughters of the South. Public schools, in the virtue of society, the healthfulness and conservatism of public sentiment, and the character of our public institutions, depends upon the intellectual cultivation and judicious mental and moral training of the female sex upon those of the male youth of the country.

The recent Commencement exercises of the large and flourishing Female College, in the intelligent and well-attended village of Louisa, under the supervision of that excellent scholar and learned Divine, the Rev. T. M. Jones, evinced, in a most pleasing degree, the progress which has been made in this State, in the cause of female education. Such exhibitions and we would think, if they are numerous in the South, are not only a laudable and necessary step towards the intellectual and moral improvement of the female youth of the South, but they are also a powerful means of promoting the general civilization of the whole community. It is a matter of course that Congress will do its duty, but we have not heard of any such thing.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

STATE SUMMARY.

MAE UPON WOMEN.
A SCORNFUL WIFE EXPOSED.
The following is a summary of the proceedings in the case of Mrs. Stanton, who was charged with the murder of her husband, Mr. Philip. The case was heard in the Superior Court of the State of New York, and the jury returned a verdict of guilty. The court sentenced her to be confined in the State Prison for a term of three years. The case was widely reported in the press, and the public opinion was divided. Some people believed that Mrs. Stanton was innocent, while others believed that she was guilty. The case was a subject of much discussion in the State of New York.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

RELIGIOUS EXERCISES.

Chorus by the Class—When the Summer Rain is over.
Salutatory Address—Miss Sarah E. Jasper, Louisa.
Musical: Quaker Song—Sweet Music, etc., Miss Alexander and others.
Life's Changes—Miss M. A. Armstrong, New Hanover.
Musical: Do they think of me at home, Piano Solo—Miss B. Gray.
The Fall of a Leaf is a Whimper to the Living—Miss Prudence Person, Louisa.
Musical: Piano Solo—Falling Leaves—Miss A. Pullen.
The World is all Before me—Where is the Cause, and Providence my Guide—Miss E. A. Walker, Louisa.
Musical: Kiss Waltz—Piano Duet, Misses Littlejohn and Bobbitt.
The Living Strive: The Dead Alone are Glorious—Miss E. E. Spencer, Hyde.
Musical: Dole Concerto—Piano and Violin, Misses V. Vleck and Southall and Professor H.
Music: Written and Unwritten—Miss S. E. Jasper, Louisa.
Musical: Music of the Birds—Vocal Duet, Miss Walker and others.
Night Brings out Stars—Miss N. S. Vines, Edgemont.
Musical: Piano Trio—Overture, Caliph of Bagdad, Misses Joyner, Macco and Wright. Science in a Sun Beam—Miss E. E. Macco, Franklin.
Musical: Ladies' Own Waltz—Misses V. Vleck and Southall and Professor H.
The Mission of Southern Daughters, With the Voluntary Addresses—Miss A. E. Joyner, Franklin.
Musical: Farewell Song.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

REMOVAL OF RANDOLPH MAON COLLEGE.

A meeting was held a few evenings since in the Board street Methodist church to consider the removal of Randolph Maon College to Asheville. The meeting was attended by a large number of the friends of the college, and the subject was discussed at length. It was decided to send a committee to Asheville to investigate the matter. The committee will report to the board of trustees at their next meeting. The removal of the college to Asheville is a subject of much interest to the people of the State, and it is hoped that the committee will be able to make a report which will be satisfactory to all concerned.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

REMOVAL OF RANDOLPH MAON COLLEGE.

A meeting was held a few evenings since in the Board street Methodist church to consider the removal of Randolph Maon College to Asheville. The meeting was attended by a large number of the friends of the college, and the subject was discussed at length. It was decided to send a committee to Asheville to investigate the matter. The committee will report to the board of trustees at their next meeting. The removal of the college to Asheville is a subject of much interest to the people of the State, and it is hoped that the committee will be able to make a report which will be satisfactory to all concerned.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

REMOVAL OF RANDOLPH MAON COLLEGE.

A meeting was held a few evenings since in the Board street Methodist church to consider the removal of Randolph Maon College to Asheville. The meeting was attended by a large number of the friends of the college, and the subject was discussed at length. It was decided to send a committee to Asheville to investigate the matter. The committee will report to the board of trustees at their next meeting. The removal of the college to Asheville is a subject of much interest to the people of the State, and it is hoped that the committee will be able to make a report which will be satisfactory to all concerned.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

REMOVAL OF RANDOLPH MAON COLLEGE.

A meeting was held a few evenings since in the Board street Methodist church to consider the removal of Randolph Maon College to Asheville. The meeting was attended by a large number of the friends of the college, and the subject was discussed at length. It was decided to send a committee to Asheville to investigate the matter. The committee will report to the board of trustees at their next meeting. The removal of the college to Asheville is a subject of much interest to the people of the State, and it is hoped that the committee will be able to make a report which will be satisfactory to all concerned.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.

THE SOUTHERN PEOPLE.
The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government. The Southern people are entitled to a right to exclude any man from the ballot box, as they had the right to do so before the war. Even if the Constitution is amended so that it would give the vote to all men, it would not be a violation of the Federal Government's contract, but a violation of the contract between the States and the Federal Government.