THE SENTINEL.

JOSIAH TURNER, Jr., EDITOR.

SATURDAY, JUNE 12, 1869.

BOTH IN CONTEMPT.

On Tuesday last when the Supreme Court met, they proceeded to put the bar in contempt, for having, last summer, signed a paper remonstrating and protesting against judicial interference in political matters.

The next step, the Court fell into the pit they had dug for the bar. For several days a fifth of the Court has been demoralized, in fact, "she did not know herself" Three-fifths of the Court, the young and foolish part, went on a special train to the Commencement at the University of North Carolina, where the old Quartermaster, Rodman, ex-military Judge of the Confederacy, was to address John Pool's two little nephews and six village children, styling them the two Literary Societies of the University.

It was published in the Standard that Judge Rodman would deliver the address before the two Literary Societies. This was both falsehood and fraud, intended to deceive the public as to the true condition of things at the University. At the last meeting of the Dialectic Society a Committee was appointed, composed of regular and honorary members, who were to take charge of the papers, property, &c., &c., belonging to the Society, and authorising this Committee to meet when they deemed it proper and re-organize the Society. This Committee have never met. Brewer, Pool, and the little children, have no right to invite the old Quartermaster in the name of the Dialectic Society.

The departure of three fifths of the Court for Chapel Hill, not only scattered, but demoralized the Court. One-fifth of the Court tangled so much "spirits" with his judicial water as to shake the Court from "turret to foundation stone."

On yesterday, John Barleycorn and one-fifth of the Court walked the street hand in hand.

This Court has five-fifths, and we have only accounted for four-fifths. The missing fifth we did not hear of. We suppose it was sober, and had retired to meditate upon and brood over its disappointed defeat for the Confederate Congress, by Hon. Thos. Ashe. It may be, it was thinking of the indecency of its behavior in acting itself up as a Judge of the election and qualification of the members of the Legislature, to requiring certain members to "stand a side," instead of swearing in all as he was judicially bound to do.

One-fifth of the Court on the street harmonized with the ex-communicated members of the Bar. We think the Court should not refuse to harmonize with them in the Court room, in the trial of their causes.

It is bad manners, to say the least of it, to refuse first to hear the Bar in Court, and then on the street to fraternize and hail monies with them; it is rather after the manner of Dr. Gibson, who invited the Penitentiary Committee to dine with him and then refused to sit at the table with his own invited guests, because, as Chesterfield would say, it was a "mixed" company, one being a negro.

Chief Justice Pearson introduced Hon. R. S. Gaither to Billy Henderson as the man charged with stealing Darr's mule and Ben Kittrell's law books. This is some evidence that the Court did not "know herself," but in justice to Billy, we must say, the Judge expatiated upon the length to which party prejudice would go by making such false charges against a gentleman. In further justice to Billy, we will add that the Standard says he was triumphantly acquitted of mule stealing, by a jury of his country.—We never heard from the Standard about Kittrell's books. If Billy should be called by the Grand Jury to answer for the books we will say as the Clerk says to the criminal, "God grant you a safe deliverance," as you had in the mule case. In further justice to Billy as well as to Governor Holden, we should say, that the Sentinel has stated that some ten or twelve good men, in open Court, once swore they would not believe him on oath. Billy called at the Sentinel office to say that the Sentinel had misrepresented him, and that no ten or twelve men had so sworn. We did not see Billy on that visit, Major Gales did, and he was fully satisfied. We make the correction, there was not ten or twelve who impeached Billy's character, but only six good men who would not believe him on oath. Gov. Holden never moves except upon reason; these charges against Billy may account for the Governor's love and admiration of him, and his appointing him Director of the North Carolina Railroad. The introduction of Billy to Col. Gaither, by the Chief Justice, has called us so far from the Court, that we shall not be able to come up to the Court again until sometime next week; when we hope that the Bench and the Bar, loving one another and forgiving one another, may proceed to the business of the Court and the trial of causes, in peace and harmony together.

EXCESS OF SCHOOL MARMS.—On the steamship Wm. P. Clyde yesterday afternoon, six Yankee school marms, who have been teaching the young colored idea how to shoot in "these parts" for some months past, took passage for New York on their way to "Boston." They were accompanied by a body guard of four colored gentlemen, which may not be their good fortune to retain ever near them. Among the crowd who bade them adieu we were unable to distinguish any but colored gallants.—Wil. Jour. June 11th.

Governor Holden will visit Asheville sometime in July.

COMMENCEMENT AT CHAPEL HILL.

This burlesque upon literary festivities, came off on Thursday last. It seems from the President's report, there is not a single member of the Freshman class, even.—President Pool reported that the session ending June 10th, began March 8th, 1869. During this period there has been in attendance the following students: Walter Guthrie, John Overman, Walter F. Pool, ranking as Sophomores, and G. W. Purefoy, Chas. Suggs, John Tenny and Samuel M. Worth, ranking as Freshmen. From the report they are neither Sophomores or Freshmen, they rank as such; they are so by brevet.

A raid was made upon the Di. and Phi Halls for furniture. Professor Patrick burst open, or caused it to be done, the door of the Phi Hall, and helped himself to the splendid velvet rug belonging to the Society, at least we are so informed. If there is any mistake about it, we shall be glad to correct it; if there is no mistake, then Mennitger should be sent to give him Ipecac till he throw up the velvet rug. The furniture was also taken from the Di. Hall to furnish the houses of the Faculty. This comes from Cebe Harris' bad example of taking possession of the Governor's palace.

The best account of all, is what is said of Judge Dick; looking at President Pool, then at Professor Brewer, who taught the little negro school in this city, and then at his Alma Mater, in her sack cloth and ashes; in her solitude and abnegation, he could not suppress his emotion, but gave vent to his feelings in a flood of tears. Well done for Bob, there is more hope of him than of Holden. We did not go, we are glad of it. We hear that Professor Patrick said, publicly, it was decided to come he would whip us. We tell that pious functionary of the University and the Church, he had better say his prayers and leave that job for the Governor's officials in the Capitol, Joe, Cebe, Farris, Bozier, and Dave's fat son. We were opposed to substitutes in the late war and it will be a departure from our principles now to employ a substitute, if, however, Professor Patrick is spoiling for a fight, we will send Tom Green, a Conservative negro of Hillsboro', as our substitute, who will meet him "next Saturday was a week," in the hollow at the spring, where the boy President, Andrew Johnson, rested and refreshed himself when making his escape from his master, Mr. Selby, to whom he was bound. If that locality does not suit, Tom shall meet him at Walt's old mill, half a mile from the Chapel, be the same more or less. No wonder Bob Dick cried; for shame itself is ashamed to sit on such shameless brows.

From the Courier-Journal.

GRANT AS A LITERATEUR.

I present this saddle, not for any intrinsic value it possesses, but as a mark of friendship and esteem, after continued service with you through the great rebellion, commencing at Cairo, Illinois, in 1861, to the present day, and, I hope, not yet ended.—Yours, truly, U. S. GRANT, Lieutenant General.

This is a copy of a note addressed by Gen. Grant, before his election, to Mr. Markland, of the Post office Department. We have no idea of criticising the General's language, although he was educated at the expense of the country at West Point. But we must say that his note is one of the most laughable specimens of writing that we remember ever to have seen. He could not have written it if there hadn't been a thicker fog upon his brain than ever hung over swamp or fen. What he meant to say every reader can guess for himself.—What he does say is "the great rebellion commenced at Cairo, Illinois," and that he "hopes it is not yet ended." If any of his friends, jealous for his literary reputation, are disposed to swear that he means in good faith exactly this thing, we shall not quarrel with them on that account.

STATE NEWS.

Old Ku Klux Ingram is going to deliver a lecture in Watesboro' shortly. The subject not yet announced, supposed to be "Negro Women's Rights.

APPOINTMENT.—C. S. Morlog, Esq., of Salisbury, has been appointed Route Agent on the Western North Carolina Railroad, from Salisbury to Morganton.—Asheville Planter.

IMMIGRATION.—M. J. McKenna, Esq, of New York, has addressed a letter to Hon. O. H. Dockery, stating that responsible parties in that city have under consideration a plan of Polish colonization, and are looking about for a proper place to establish such a settlement. They prefer North Carolina, and are desirous of purchasing 50,000 acres of land.—Ash. Pioneer.

On Monday last, some 800 acres of finely timbered mountain land in this county, belonging to Mr. John Garrett, was sold at Sheriff's sale and bid off by Mr. E. Pinder for $295 cash. About 76 acres in an adjoining tract was bid off by Mr. Ferguson, of Haywood, for $45.—Ash. News.

At Henderson Superior Court last week the case of the States. W. D. Whitted, Jr., as principal and Robert Pearson, as abettor, charged with the murder of A. M. Hawkins, came up before Judge Cannon. They were put upon trial separately and both were acquitted.

FROM BELOW.—Captain Harper, of the tug Oldham, reports the steamship Pioneer, schooners Richard Vaux and Union Fing, and another small schooner and one brig (names unknown,) as having gone to sea Wednesday.—Wil. Jour.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—A young child of the late Jesse G. Drew, of Brunswick, a boy about ten years of age, fell into a well upon the premises of the family in Smithville on Tuesday last, and was quite badly injured. Fortunately there was not sufficient water in the well to draw him, and a younger brother giving the alarm, the little fellow was rescued, having boldly clung to the bucket which was lowered to him. His bruises are quite serious, he having had a fall of about thirty feet.—Wil. Jour.

Since October fourteen vessels which left England for the United States have never been heard from.

COMMENCEMENT AT CHAPEL HILL.

N. C. R. R. Friday 11th.

MR. TURNER:—Dear Sir: The "Commencement" has taken place and I congratulate you, and every other friend of the University, and North Carolina in general, upon the fact that there has been no "Installation" of the drunkenness. Faculty who are hanging on with such desperate grip to our dear old Alma Mater's petticoats. No "Installation!" Good. The Governor of the State, and the Trustees assembled, assisted at no such farce as that would have been, and I, world without end, a visitor at the Hill,—short as this day—shall forever promiscuously, and on the street, may say that I enjoyed the occasion as a rural accounts; though I confess to some tears unbidden and unrepressed as I walked around the University grounds; paid a visit to my old room in College, and recalled the face of my venerated instructors and class mates, and the dreams of my youth. Yes, sir, on the whole I enjoyed it.

The attendance of distinguished strangers, ladies and all, numbered just seventeen. The Trustees were ten in number, as follows: Superintendent Ashley, Governor Holden, Judge Buxton, Mr. Lassiter, Judge Rodman, Judge Dick, Judge Settle, Mr. Bynum, Judge Thomas, Judge Watts. Besides these were Prof. Kerr, State Geologist, Col. Wm. A. Moore, of Chowan, and one or two others, like myself, "looking on in Vienna"

The Company arrived on Thursday morning, 10th inst., from Durham's, an extra train having been placed at their service from Raleigh. Commencement exercises, however, opened on Wednesday, the 9th, by an exhibition of declamation in the College Chapel.

Revd. Mr. Ashley, of Massachusetts, introduced by his Excellency, Revd. Mr. Marling, of Mississippi. (Quere, who introduced Mr. Marling.) Exercises opened with prayer. Mr. Marling then rose and with much suavity of manner announced that Lord Chatham's speech on withdrawal of troops from Boston would now be heard, and Mr. Chas. M. Stuart, of Chapel Hill, would speak on it. Next Mr. Walter F. Guthrie, of Chapel Hill, gave us the "Iron Alicon." Mr. — Overman (Mr. Pool's nephew) "Rienzi to the Romans," and Mr. Walter F. Pool (another nephew) "Pitt's Speech." Of these succeeding, I shall say nothing, as I was not present. The audience numbered 28, all told and all, by actual count.

Thursday at 12 M. were assembled in the Chapel room seventy five whites, (negroes and all) and perhaps, as many negroes in the galleries. Exercises opened with a prayer by Rev. Wm. F. Brewer, of Conn., late Professor in the negro school at Raleigh, now, by the grace of revolution, Professor of Greek at Chapel Hill, successor to our hearty old Professor, M. Fetter. A prayer in which he prayed ardently for more students to come to Chapel Hill—Selah. Next followed a speech by the Rev. Mr. Ashley, which was mainly an earnest appeal to the people to come up to the support of their "beloved University," at all hazards. Then came Gov. Holden, who announced that the University should be maintained, that the people must be taxed for its support. He is reported to have said in the "social circle," that if those people who can afford to send their sons here won't do it, they shall be taxed for the support of those here who cannot afford it.—However I am willing to believe that the Governor said no such thing. He did say some good things and made some good points. He paid the old Faculty high and well merited compliments. In one thing, however, he was mistaken. He was arguing against the prejudice manifested against foreigners as teachers, and stated that Dr. Caldwell, Dr. Mitchell and Dr. Phillips, were all foreigners and had to live down a great deal of prejudice, as the present Faculty would also do. A white haired man sitting by me whispered "I have lived to Chapel Hill forty one years and this is the first time I ever heard of any prejudice against these old men."

Gov. Holden must know what to be "from the North" was always, in the old time and down to the war, a sufficient passport to Southern favor for everything, from teachers down to bonnets. If Gov. Holden sees no difference between the coming and the attitude, of such men as he named, and the swarm of carpet-baggers, who now infest the South, and force themselves upon a servile people, if he will acknowledge no difference, he must at least know that the vast majority of us (we I &) fellow citizens do.

We were next entertained by a long, and very solemn, and exceedingly dull, and nearly inaudible oration by Mr. President Pool, the whole gist of which was an heart felt appeal to the Trustees to support "me and my Faculty," in their several chairs.—Mr. Pool's voice is feeble and his enunciation indistinct and weak, so that even if the matter had been worth attending to, his manner would have made it hard work to listen. Education is a fine thing. Education at the University of North Carolina is a finer. Education by me, Sothe, and my adjuncts is the finest of all.

Mr. Pool's address fell flat,—almost as flat as he is himself, and it he could have heard the whispered commentaries, among some of the Trustees, as he proceeded, he would have ceased from troubling sooner than he did.

I looked over the audience, remembering the former days,—say 17 years ago. Oh, ye comrades of my youth, classmates of that golden day, if you could have seen that audience! Mrs. Ashley and her daughter, and Mrs. Judge Boxton, were the ladies from abroad, (excepting the Faculty ladies.) There were but two or three of the Chapel Hill ladies present. The people from the surrounding country,—Lloyds, Strowds, Cates, with the foreigners and colored, made up about 75. Chapel Hill people, I was told, feared there was to be an "installation" of the man who have been sitting on top of them for the past five months. So they hid themselves, closed their blinds, and held their heads down. Late in the evening, hearing what was not done at the Chapel in the morning they ventured out. I was told there was but one Chapel Hill woman, proper, out to hear Judge Rodman, in the afternoon; deliver his address—certainly not before two Literary Societies, nor even before one. If they had known what the Judge was going to say, they would all have come, I dare say.

Judge Rodman gave us a calm, conciliatory and rational speech, taking the only true and strong ground, namely, that the resuscitation of the University depended on the Alumni. To them alone, and to their influence it must look. He reminded his audience, emphatically, that the present appointments were "temporary and provisional." I glanced round at these words. Yes "PROVISIONAL."

What a pity now that Mr. Pool has so far committed himself as to announce that he was here for life, and no power could uncast him or his faculty. And a pity, too, for Professor Brewer's fine corps, stated from the "University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill." A pity! A pity!

Well, sir, Judge Rodman's speech did much good. He deserves our thanks, and I hereby tender him mine. Calm and considerate words, and he told the truth besides. A Chapel Hillite said to me, "I feel as if I could breathe better after hearing that."

Never in all my life have I heard any one man so decried in the course of 2 hours as President Solomon Pool; or "Sollie" as they seem to prefer it at Chapel Hill. I don't know how he can live in such an atmosphere of odium and contempt. One of the Trustees said: "Why, I thought Brewer was the main objection up here, but I find it is Pool."

The only pretty woman in the Chapel was Mrs. Judge Buxton. As she is married she will excuse my naming her out loud in meeting.

Mr Turner, Chapel Hill is looking beautifully, beautifully! A lovely spot, Sir. Yes, we who graduated there do love it. Let the Trustees give us men we can support there, and see if we don't rush to the rescue. 1852.

P. S.—I forgot to mention that "Degrees were conferred!" The honorary degree of A B on Abner Nader Finney, clerk in Williams & Haywoods Drug Store, and on —— Mason, Mr. Pool's brother-in-law.—Also the Degree of D. D on Rev. Neill McKay, of Harnett, (N. MK.) of the N. C. Presbyterian has got his reward. I wonder can he relish it? Also D. D upon some equally obscure "Rev." in Baltimore.—Here's an Academical body corporate for you.

TRINITY COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

The Commencement of this flourishing and popular institution came off on the 10th.

On the previous Sabbath, Rev. S. D. Adams, of the North Carolina Conference, preached an able and instructive sermon before the Theological Class.

On Wednesday, 9th, at 11 o'clock, Bishop Wightman preached the Commencement Sermon, before a large and appreciative audience, from Proverbs 1, 10; "My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not." He alluded, in the first place, to the various methods of sinners; secondly, the adroit manner in which these enticements are brought to bear upon the young; and, thirdly, dwelt upon the many and strong reasons why the young should not consent. The sermon was distinguished for close reasoning, bold metaphor and strong appeals to the heart and judgment, and was made the more impressive by many passages of sublime eloquence.

At 3 o'clock of the same day, the Literary Address was delivered by C. I. Walker, Esq., of Rockingham. His theme was, "Fidelity to the interests of the Old North State," which he treated in an able and pleasing manner, he alluded to the great natural resources of the State, and showed what were the qualifications necessary in our young men to fit them for the great task of developing these resources, and for rebuilding the prostrate fortunes of the country. The address was replete with vigorous thought, ardent patriotism and valuable instruction to the young.

THURSDAY, TENTH COMMENCEMENT-DAY.

The exercises opened with vocal music, followed by prayer.

3. Latin Oration,—Salutatory,—by Thos Richard Pearse, of Wilmington.

4 Old Paths are Dangerous—Richard Gee, Franklin, of Mississippi.

5. The Word of Mouth is open to All—John Alexander Simpson, of Raleigh.

6 Unwritten Literature—Eugene Thomas Jones, Kittrell's.

7. Dare be Right—Joseph Lewis Keene, Wilmington.

8. "I dare do all that may become a man. Who dares do more is none"—William Abner Webster, Madison.

9. The noblest knows no Nationality—Chimmuos Franklin Siler, Franklinsville.

10. Fun Oratio—William Kelley Gibbs, Davie County.

11. Report of the President and Degrees Conferred.

12. Reminiscences and Adieus—John Richard Webster, Madison.

13. Presentation of Bibles.

14. Representatives from the Literary Societies—R. S. Swann, Caswell County, W. A. Flynt, Forsythe County.

15. Medals Presented, by Bishop Wightman.

16. Benediction.

The intervals between the orations was filled with music by the band.

The speeches of the graduating class were marked by originality of thought and evinced closeness of investigation, and afforded evidence of fine mental training and a thorough preparedness to enter successfully into the stern conflicts of practical life.

Mr J. A. Simpson, of Raleigh, one of the graduates, who is totally blind, was educated in the Deaf and Dumb and Blind Institution in Raleigh. His speech was very good and touched the hearts of the audience, even to tears.

The Address before the Alumni was delivered on Thursday afternoon, by Rev. Marcus L. Wood, which, our reporter says he had not the pleasure of hearing, but heard it highly spoken of.

The day's exercises was closed by a conversazione party at night, at which young and middle aged, citizens and visitors, young men and maidens, enjoyed themselves in jovial and rational converse, to a proper hour for retiring.

The prospects of Trinity College are brightening. The catalogue shows an average attendance, during the scholastic year, of 125 students, and a larger number is expected next session.

The Faculty, headed by the indomitable and highly gifted President, assisted by the ripe scholarship of Professors Dant, Ganaway and Carr, is a standing guarantee of continued and increased prosperity of this valuable institution of learning.

At a meeting of the Trustees the degree of A. M. was conferred on the following gentlemen: A. S. Peace, of Wake; J. S. Hill, of Mount Airy; and Rev. R. L. Abernathy, of Burke.

The Board of Trustees authorized the executive Committee to fill the chair of Mathematics.

REMARKABLE ANAGRAMS.—An anagram is a word or sentence of apt significance, formed by transposing the letters of another word or sentence. Thus the letters in the word "Astronomer"—transposed make him a Moon Starer."

"Telegraph"—Great Help."

A great many such anagrams are on record.

Sometimes several anagrams may be made from a single word, thus—

"Live, Vile and Evil have the self same letters. They live but vile whom evil holds in fetters.

Dr. Muhlemberg has made the following beautiful anagram of the word "Protestantism."

Prote stant I (esu) S(alvator) M(undi.)

This Latin sentence translated reads—They (the principles of Protestantism) stand for Thee, Jesus, Saviour of the world.

Again we have "Quid est Veritas"—"Est vir qui adest."

This is the most extraordinary anagram yet made. Pilate asked the Saviour "What is truth?" or in Latin, "Quid est veritas?" These letters, changed about, give the answer above, meaning, "It is the man before you."—Pat. Index.

All "well known thieves" are to be arrested in Boston during "Jubilee week," and the people there think it would be well to consider every week a Jubilee week.

MARRIED.

The Age of Progress.
We publish to-day, the first scheme in the way of Real and Personal Estate ever chartered by the last Legislature, with a capital of one hundred and thirty thousand dollars, and with power to increase that amount to five hundred thousand dollars. An examination of the charter satisfies us that the Company is pursuing a legitimate business; they are empowered to "buy one of Real and Personal Estate
