CATTLE AND HORSES.

In this department our "Bob Lee" a failure, is very far from being what it ought to be, both in number and quality, and this demonstrates to our people the necessity of taking early steps for improvement in this important branch of husbandry. We notice the cattle of the Bradfords, who we sympathize with the hats.

Sheep and yarns from Beaver Creek Factory.

Plush, badging, coarse, yarns, of superior quality, and very beautiful, from

Woolens—Cotton—Silk—Harrisons—

SMYK—GROWN—HARRIS—John St., N. S. Evans, Cumberland; bay mare, N. A. Ramsey, Chatham; iron stallion, "Plane," Ross, Speed, Franklin; pair horses (match) E. J. Adams, Forsyth; bay mare "Bess," W. H. WILLOW BASKETS.

Willow baskets, exhibited by Mr. Hoge of Forsyth county, equal to any made in the world.

ONE MATTRESS MANUFACTURED BY JOHN HARRISON, MATTER MAKER AND UPHOLSTERER, RALEIGH.

Handmade horseshoes and nails by Mr. Dunkley of Raleigh.

FARMERS' HALE.

After a rapid survey of the above named Hall, we noticed the following: A fine display of honey, Shirts & Hunter, Forsyth; Tomato, Currant, Edinburg, Catawba and Concord wines, by Hoge & Co., Davidson. A fine article of Scuppernong Wine, Burback & Gabber, Corn Whiskey, C. C. Curtis, Alamance. Mrs. Wilson, of Granville, had a number of different family wines, preserves, pickles, jellies, etc. on exhibition. Churchill & West, of Raleigh, exhibited a splendid lot of Delaware and Jersey sweet potatoes. Finsliek, of Duplin, had wines of 12 sorts; Jellies of 15 sorts; 11 different sorts of grapes; 10 varieties of apples; 2 different kinds of quince; and 23 kinds of wines.

The Goldsmith Nurseries were well represented. Mr. G. S. Anthony had 60 varieties of apples.

Mr. G. Wilson of Granville had some 75 varieties of apples.

The new tiered Nurseries, Gresham, J. Lowder & Son, had a fine display. Among the articles exhibited by this enterprising firm we notice the following: Apples, 147 different kinds; 8 varieties of peaches; 10 Quinces; 20 kinds young apple trees; 22 cherry trees; 113 varieties of pear; 7 apricots; 21 plums; 16 blackberries; 4 gooseberries and 10 strawberry varieties.

The above is but an imperfect sketch, but our lack of space and time must excuse us for the want of more particular notices.

Mr. Thompson of the Eagle Foundry, Tyr, Davidson county, had forty-seven entries consisting of mowers, sheafers, plows, and in fact almost every thing in the line of agricultural implements.

James and Wm. Wright of Wilson, exhibited plows.

W. S. Bryant for Child's patent saw mill, exhibited a mill which we look upon as superior to any other we have seen in this country.

Mr. Thompson of the Eagle Foundry, Tyr, Davidson county, had forty-seven entries consisting of mowers, sheafers, plows, and in fact almost every thing in the line of agricultural implements.

James and Wm. Wright of Wilson, exhibited plows.

R. P. Williams had an exhibition from his brass and iron foundry in this city, plows, reaper and mower, sheafers, harrows, cultivators and other articles, among them a grader for common use, plows, the proprietors of which is Mr. J. B. Gaskins of this city, of which we shall speak more particularly hereafter.

Mr. D. W. Williams of this city exhibited his machine for bending follow, and showed the operation of bending.

Mr. Hege of Friedberg, Forsyth exhibited, for himself and as agent had several very useful machines and improvements, among them a thrasher and separator, sugar cane clearer, circular hand saw, cutter, etc.

Mr. Sam Rowland of Wake showed what we may call a native cotton gin, also a model of hay and cotton press.

One of the most useful inventions recently patented is that of a fan blower for blacksmiths, which is destined to supersede the bellows altogether. We shall notice this more at large hereafter.

We doubtless overlooked many articles in this department, as well as others, to which we hope exhibitors will call our attention to day and to-morrow.

ARTS HALL.

In this department we noticed a fine lot of copper and zinc leather by W. S. Morrison, of Winston-Salem.

A lot of cypress shingles from Eastern North Carolina.

A newly patented double action pump, by James S. Purdy, agent. This is an excellent pump; works with metal valves without packing, and may be used in the ordinary way, or with hose.

Tanned buckskins, native parchment, piano stocks, exhibited by Mr. Shultz of Salem.

This gentleman has a great variety of articles at the Fair—hears, furniture, fancy work and other things, to be noticed hereafter.

Mr. S. C. Shelton of Buncombe county exhibited a fine sample of bright, yellow, sun-cured tobacco, the growth of that county. This is something new, Buncombe competing in tobacco with Warren and Gravina.

Samples of manufactured tobacco were exhibited by Walker, Jones & Co., of Newbern and A. Hobgood of Granville, and fine smoking tobacco of the "Tobacco" brand, by E. W. Morris, Franklin; bay mare, Mrs. Kirkham, Raleigh; bay pony (blood) "Hunter," J. B. Shug, Raleigh; black gelding "Morgan," H. L. Burd, Chatham; bay colt (blood) H. L. Burd, Chatham; bay mare, (blood) O. Lewis, Chatham.

Plush, badging, coarse, yarns, of superior quality, and very beautiful, from

SHAW'S COTTON AND SILK.

An iron department our "Bob Lee" a failure, is very far from being what it ought to be, both in number and quality, and this demonstrates to our people the necessity of taking early steps for improvement in this important branch of husbandry. We notice the cattle of the Bradfords, who we sympathize with the hats.

The tents of the spaded negro and learned pig, and other very unnatural curiosities suffered considerably, and at one time it seemed that a free exhibition of monstrosities was inevitable.

The storm, though a great drawback to the Fair, was a godsend to one class—the hucksters and peddlers drivers, who immediately raised their fare from twenty-five to
