We regret to learn that Capt. Plato Durham has been very unwell for the past two weeks.

A late novelty in window dress is a ribbon two inches wide crossed on the back like a gentleman's suspender.

There are 20,000 tons in Spanish, 25,000 in Italian, 20,000 in French, 10,000 in German, 50,000 in Greek, and 80,000 in German.

The New Congressional Paper. We learn from our exchanges that the first bound volume of the Congressional Record, which succeeds the Globe as the official report of the proceedings and debates of Congress, has just made its appearance from the Government Printing office.

The official statement of the Congressional Printer will show a saving to the Government of from thirty to fifty per cent in the cost of publishing the debates of Congress over the old method in the Globe, and it is claimed that instead of $400,000 for this purpose, one-half that amount will be sufficient.

Yesterday Messrs. Praine and Whitaker, two of the newly elected Justices of the Peace, held their first court, having been qualified on Saturday last.

The first case brought before their Worship was that of State and Nan Seeks vs. Kate Graham. Nan accused Kate of stealing a watch and some other articles from her house.

Several persons were up charged with refusing to work the roads. Ned Shepherd and Jack Hazzis were dismissed on the payment of costs.

An English Concession. Gen. Bradley T. Johnston, whose wife is a Raleigh lady, is now in England.

His letter to the Richmond Dispatch states that Lord Palmerston was the friend of the South in the "late unpleasantness."

Excitement at the Jail. The large bull-dog, which for so long a time has been chained near the entrance of the county jail got on a rampage yesterday morning which resulted in his death.

The religious press have now taken in hand Paul, the President, or as much of him as has been left since he passed through the mill of the secular editors.

The lady in question is a regular correspondent of the Presbyterian, and for her superior in the field. The attack upon her was most unmanly and low, and had the object of it was a gentleman instead of a lady, we risk nothing in saying that the braggart outrage would have o-zed out of his finger ends before he had permitted them to hold for an instant the pen that wrote the scurrilous production.

The idea of such a person sitting in the chair once honored by such a gentleman as Gov. Swain? It may be to the end is not yet.

We regret to learn from our exchanges that Hon. James P. Heilmann is dead. He was a gentleman of fine literary attainments, was at one time a Professor of Law at the University of Virginia, and member of the Confederate Congress.

We shall not in this brief notice attempt to review the life or portray the character of the lamented gentleman whose death we report. One of the brightest intellects that illumine the State or country has been quenched in death.

It affords us singular satisfaction to republish the following which we find in the North Carolina Presbyterian. It is from the pen of Mrs. C. P. Spencer. It is encouraging to an editor who endeavors to do his duty amid multiplied hardships to hear such words of commendation from a critic at once so competent and so candid.

The Raleigh Sentinel is assuredly doing a very excellent work in attempting to revive public interest in those days. How many of our young lady readers took any interest in the "Narrative of David Fanning," the notorious story leader, which the Sentinel has been republishing this summer?

I venture to say very few; for in the first place, it is a most dry and unattractive piece of reading as all must admit, and hardly any thing but such a sense of duty as young ladies rarely feel binding on them could sustain any one through its perusal.
