Gov. Worth's Message.

The very general favor with which the late essage of Gov. Worth has been received, both in and out of the State, very fully shields him means object.

We have beretofore stated, that the severe to his ald the graces of rhetoric or to sugar over his honest convictions to make them the more palatable. But we did not suppose that the most fetid prejudice would find aught upon which to tase an objection to its "loyalty."

It remains for the asture editor of the Wifmington Berald, who would feign set himself up as an authorized defender of the government. to pick a flaw or ventilate the charge of "dis loyalty" against Jonathan Worth !

Gov. Worth could not avaid, of course, allu ding to the continuance of the military and the Freadmen's Bureau in the State, in order to point not to the Legislature the necessity of notion, on its part, as would render their continuance in the State no longer ne cemary. The Herald says, that in the Governor's " allusions to the exercise of authority in mands of a stringent law, to promote the genthis State by the United States, Lis language and been characterized as untimely, and luters perate." Forther, it says, that the Governor, in da message, " uses language that dopties that the government of the United States is treating us unjustly." It would have been quite as well the U.S. Treasury, and preserve the grain for a for the Result to have quoted the "untimely better use. and intemperate" language of the Governor, that its readers might be the judges of its temper It would have been equally just, for it to have shown by a quotation from the message, that the Governor has even intimated " that the government of the United States is treating us unjust ly." But that does not suit its captious habit. nor its purpose to treat unjustly one against whom it would excite prejudice.

We have carefully read the message. Knowing that the U. S. government has no truer friend in the State, and that no one respects its authority more, either in civil or military matters, than Gov. Worth, we did not look for any exhibition of "untimely of intemperate" lancuace from ldm, nor for the accusation that the overnment was treating us unkindly. Nor ave we found either upon a review of it,

It would have been out of place for the Government or its conduct towards the State, which were fully as well known to the Legislature as to direct the artention of the Legislature to the future.

The past and the present were not points then to be considered. His business was to direct the a tention of the Legislature to the future.

The present surroundings were anomalous and consequence is required by the future.

The present surroundings were anomalous and consequence is that in a short time, unless this evil is stopoil, there will be an unprecedented amount. The present surroundings were anomalous and consequently not desirable, and therefore, looking to the better day when the State should be restored to all her civil functions, his duty was to arge promptly upon the Legislature to perform its part in order thereto. Does he speak ankindly of the government? Does he intimate that the existence of the military or of the Bursan had never been necessary, or that their administration had been illegitimate and tyran nical? Not a word of it. He very plainly shows nical ? Not a word of it. He very plainly shows that he does not desire their continuance longer than is absolutely necessary. In this, he expresses the universal desire not only of the people but of the authorities themselves. The "internperate, language, and the charge of injustice, were all in the eye of the Hevald, and no where

John A. Stanly. Esq.

From a letter received from this gentleman, that Mr. Stanly has removed to California, just passed by the Legislature: We trust the change will greatly enter to the An Acr to Extend the Time for Collect efit of our esteemed friend. Dear to us as the Old North State b—loth as we would be to expatriate ourselves from our native acil, we cannot doubt the wisdom of those who seek a home which is more inviting. If the cvil dentity five, it is made the duty of the Sheriffs of this state for collect twan in their collects the collect twan in their collects. dens of the ultra radicals of the North against the South, now treasured up in their hearts, are executed, we have no doubt we shall wish ourselves among the savages of the Sandwich Isands or of New Zealand, We rejoice that we have, however, a noble breakwater against the waves of Rudicalism in the person and policy of President Johnson.

Torn or Worn Bills.

We warn our friends not to take worn or torn green baths or small currency, that is much defaced, as they are not current and are heavily discounted. Don't send us such bill's or they will be returned. By the way, the bubic our'st to be protected in this matter. Is there no place where U. S. currency is redeemed Distillation of Grain.

We did not intend by our remarks on yester day, to indicate the slightest opposition to the bill passed in the House; so far from it, we sppreciste entirely the motives and objects of its supporters, and believe that the plan proposed by the till, the only effective method of warding off the cyils anticipated. The Legislature con attain no higher position, than when it rises above the clamors of personal interest, to guard society against a positive evil, and to protect the masses of the people from absolute want and suffering.

We only intended to guard the body against the adoption of such a bill as would be rendered null by the decision of the Courts. Our confidence in the merits and constitutionality of this bill have been 'greatly strengthened, by the strong views of one of the ablest jurists of this or of any other State, in a conversation, sus taining entirely its constitutionality, since we penned our article.

There is no limit to the powers of a State Legislature but the Constitution of the State from invitious and captions criticism. To kind and the Constitution of the United States, and and just criticism, the Governor would by no the laws passed by Congress. Whatsoever these do not inhibit postively or by fair construction the Legislature of a State may do fearlessly, and essure apon him, after his brief assumption of in nothing are it's powers so happily and prophis duries, left him but little upportunity to only exercised, as when they are exerted for draw up a message, and none, whatever, to call the preservation of the public peace and morals, and the protection of the masses signings want and suffering.

The securing the greatest good to the greatest number, is not only a wise policy, entirely consonant with our republican institutions, but is dictated by humanity and duty. Many honorable and worthy persons, prempted by the pressing emergencies of the times, have doubtless engaged in distillation, and there may be among them some who may feel aggrieved at what they may deem the harshness of the bill, hat this class of persons will readily yield to the laims of humanity and to the convictions of their own consciences, and recognise the necessity for the bill.

Penal laws are not made for the good, but for the cvil. Good citizens will yield to the deand welfare, while nothing short of a rigid severity will restrain the vicious and the lawless

The suppression of distillation in the State, will check the present large drain upon the circulation of the State in the shape of taxes for

GENERAL ASSEMBLY. SENATE.

THURSDAY Jan. 25. The Senate was called to order at 10 o'clock

Prayer by Rev. Dr. Mason, of the Episcopa Church. The Journal of yesterday was read and approved. Bynum, from the Committee on Judiciary reported back the bill, on the continuation of Provisional Officers in office until successors are appointed, with a recommendation that it do pass, and on motion of the same, the rules were C. Felts. suspended and the bill passed its final reading. This bill elicited considerable discussion, in which Messra, Morehead and Bynum; took part in support of it, and Mesers. Wilson and Leitch against, chiefly however as to its necessity.

Mr. Bynum, from the same Committee, ported back the bill to attach the county of Mitchell to the 8th. Judicial cricuit and recomfinal reading.

Mr. Leach of Davidson, from the Committee on finance, to whom was referred the resolution on Banks, asked to be discharged from its further consideration and moved its reference to the Committee on Banks. Agreed to, Mr. Harris of Rutherford, offered the follow ing resolution :

Resolved, Tast in order to devise some pla to raise revenue in some way that will be equitable, and the least burdensome to the people, that the Committee on Finance be, and, are hereby requested to consider the expediency of adopting a "Stamp law," and that they report by bill or otherwise in connection with other report, that they may have to make on the subject, which was read and adopted.

Mr. Covington, introduced a bill in relation to constables, and other officers, requiring, that from and after the passage of the act, all con-stables and other officers collecting debts upon judgments and executions issued by a Justice of the Peace, shall credit said judgment, and sign the same for the amount received at the time of payment, &c. The bill was read and referred to the Committee on Judiciary.

A message from the House transmitting sun dry engrossed bills and resolutions, passed their several readings and were referred to appropriate committees.

An engrossed bill from the House empower ing the Justices of the county of Carteret to collect taxes in said county for the benefit of collect taxes in said county the poor, came up, and on motion of Mr. Arendell the rules were suspended and the bill passed its final reading.

Also, a bill to incorporate the Clarendon

Bridge Company, came up, and on motion, was The bill to prohibit for a limited time the dis tillation of spirituous liquors from grain, came up on its first reading, and on motion was re-ferred to the Committee on Judiciary, and orlered to be printed. The special order for the hour of 12, the apment of magistrates for Burke county, came up; and on motion of Mr. Shober, it was postponed on account of the absence of the Senstor from that county, and to avoid the difficulty which occurred on yesterday, relative to the appoint ments for Yadkin county.

There being no further business before the Senate, Mr. Euro moved to take up the unfin-shed business of last session. The speaker ruled it out of ore's a smuch as the Governor's message had declared this to be the beginning of a new session, and that all business must be gin de nero. On motion the Senate adjourned until to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Everett, moved a reconsideration of the rote by which on yesterday, the bill to prohibit the distillation of grain, passed its third read-

Mr. E. said he made this motion, be was convinced that the bill as passed would work great hardship and injustice to people in moderate circumstances. Freedmen, who cannot testify in courts of justice would be emnot tessity in coarts of justice would be employed by men of means, in illicit distilling, who would thus evade the law with impunity, there being but little danger of a conviction under such circumstances. The object of the bill was doubtless a good one, but it would operate unjustly against poor men, who were unable to employ freedmen to still for them.

ounty. Mr. Nicks moved to strike from the list the name of S. S. Arnold, for the reason that he is abnoxious to a large number of has neighbors. He, also, moved to substitute the name of H.

Mr. Waugh opposed the motion. Mr. Arnold, he said, was a gentleman of high standing, and well qualified for the position. He was obnoxious only to those who wished to proscribe and punish any one who had said anything above a thing of the recent way. whisper in favor of the recent war. Mr. Felts, whose name was proposed as a substitute, was not fit to be a Justice of the Peace. He was m nded that the bill do pass, and en motion the the leader of a party who were engaged in hunt-rules were suspended and the bill passed its ing down all honest men—a clique which had rendered necessary the holding a court of Oyer and Terminer in Yadkin county, which sent some of his (Felt's) particular friends to jail for their doings.

Mr. Nicks endorsed Mr. Felts -reiterated the assertion that Mr. Arnold was obnoxious to his eighbors. He was not aware before that any thing Mr. Felts had done had occasioned the holding of the court of Oyer and Terminer. The two men imprisoned were convicted of assault and battery.

The question recurring, the House refused to strike out the name of Mr. Arnold, and also to add the name of Mr Felts.

A message from the Senate also transmitted solutions heretofore published in relation to the cosmition of military rule—the restoration of civil authority, &c.

Artificial Limbs for Our Soldiers.

The following resolutions introduced by Judge Manly in the House, passed both Houses and have become law. The act is alike creditable to the hearts and heads of the Legislature : RESOLUTIONS IN BUILDIES OF DISABLED SOLDIERS.

WHEREAS, A number of officers and soldiers from North Carolina, engaged upon her call, in the late civil war, have lost their limbs in the ervice, and are unable from want of means to supply themselves with artificial ones; and tehereus, it is considered an eminent work of charity and of justice to assist all such with the common funds of the State, to procure necessary limbs, and thus to resto e them, as far as practicable, to the comfortable use of their perons, to the enjoyment of life and to the ability o carn a subsistence; Therefore, it is

Resolved, That His Excellency, the Governor, is hereby empowered and requested to make a contract with some manufacturer of artificial limbs to supply the need of the State at an early day. And to this end, His Excellency is empowered to institute such enquiries and adopt such rules as may be deemed by him most expedient, to ascertain the extent of the seed, and the best mode of supplying it with properly fitted limbs.

And be it further Resolval, That the expenses incurred by His Excellency in executing this purpose of the General Assembly shall be paid, upon his warrant, out of the money in the treas ary not otherwise appropriated.

On returning home, after an absence of seve On returning home, after an absence of several weeks, the improvements now going up in various pertions of the town, strike us most forcibly. Our streets are still crowded with wagons freighted with country produce, and the stores thronged with purchasers. These evidences of prosperity are to us highly gratifying, as most of the citizens here we are proud to number among our friends. Individually and as an Editor, we have manifold respons to be number among our friends. Individually and as an Editor, we have manifold reasons to be grateful to this generous and public spirited community, and the recent manifosiation of sympathy and offer of substantial aid have a thousand fold increased our obligation. Ther President and the Surveage Bill.

There remains little doubt that the President will veto the negro suffrage hill if it reaches him in its present form. So well understood is his intention to day, that some of the Senators her little to pass the bill in that body. Many Republicans who voted for the bill as it passed the House say that they were forced to do it by the factics of the Democrate, who voted against recommitment. They did not wish to be put in a position of suffrage. What effect the veto will have upon the future relations between the President and the Republican party is a matter of interesting speculation.
