Laws Regulating Interest.

Under this head the Governor of Georgia, in his recent message, takes the ground that is sustained by reason and policy. He sets out with the truism, which none can deny, that "undue interference with an individual's use of his property, or with transactions between individuals, wherein each seeks, without covinous practices, to advance his own interest, always affects injuriously the general welfare." "Hence, adds the Governor, good governments do not seek to fix the prices of articles, either of necessity or of luxury; nor do they attempt to fix the compensation to be paid by one man for the temporary use of another man's property." These opinions are altogether orthodox and indisputable. And the wonder is, how the law-makers of this day should so far forget their force as to interfere in the matter of the interest for the use of money. They had much better regulate the price of bread and of bacon; for those articles enter into the consumption of the poor, and are necessary for the very existence of mankind.

The Governor's further remarks on the subject are so very good that we copy them, and commend them to the consideration of the Virginia Legislators:

"Money, or rather the use of it, is as distinctly a subject of value, and its value is as fluctuating, as the use or occupation of a tenement, or the hire of a horse, or other chattel. Yet, while rent and hire are left to be regulated by contracting parties, interest on money is fixed by law, and that law enforced by vindicatory sanctions. I am unable to perceive on what principle this difference rests. The usual pretext is, that the restraint is a necessary protection to the needy against the usurer. But does he require it more than another child of want, who can procure no sheltering roof for his family by reason of the occasional appreciation of rents? Does he require it more than another unfortunate, who, at times, cannot give his family bread by reason of the high prices of provisions? Sound political economy and right reason are against all such interferences with prices and value in commercial transactions. There are times when the use of money is worth much more than others. With us it is rarely worth less than the legal rate of interest, but it is often worth more. The policy of usury laws generally is to place the legal rate of interest at the lowest point to which, in a series of years, it would go if untrammelled, and to keep it there, despite the varying relations of demand and supply. Hence, law-abiding capitalists usually prefer other modes of employing money. Active capital, like running water, will always leave an obstruction for an unobstructed channel open to it. But experience proves that usury laws, as a general rule, are only obstructions, in money-lending, to conscientious or to cautious men. Their withdrawal leaves a more open field to the unscrupulous and the daring, enabling them to extort from the borrowing class higher rates than, with free competition, could be maintained. Thus it appears to me the restraint imposed on this branch of business is not only wrong in principle, but fails to afford the intented protection. There is at this time in Georgia a great want of money. Some need it to revive a suspended business—others to commence a new, in place of an old enterprise, utterly broken up. The capitalist abroad would bring his money here if he were allowed to charge for its use what it is worth without incurring forfeiture."

Governor Jenkins considers, however, that it is best, in making modifications of old customs and laws, to do so cautiously. He therefore advises that seven per cent. be made the legal interest, where no rate is agreed upon; and that any rate of interest not exceeding ten per cent. may be established by, and collected under, a contract for the payment of money. The Governor considers that this advance will be sufficient to test practically the proposed change and that it will be easy to recede or to advance further, as experience may dictate.

The ten per cent. limitation is a concession of the Governor to the prejudices of the day.—We doubt not, that pursuing his own argument to its logical deductions, he would prefer that there should be no limit to the rate of interest under contract. We believe it would be best to leave the rate, under contract, unrestricted. The danger is that the limit will be set up as the regular interest, whereas, if left to be governed entirely by the only true and just law of supply and demand, interest would be seldom above ten per cen., and would be generally much below it. In the case of the interest of the Bank of England we have known it to be at three and a half per cent., while it rises occasionally to ten per cent. It is now eight per cent. It would be infinitely the wisest policy to leave the lending of money just where the selling of land, or horses, or flour, is—to be sold at whatever the parties concerned agree upon as the price.—Richmond Dispatch.

Bring Back the Plate.

Rev. C. C. Pinckney, of Charleston, S. C., makes through the Journal the following appeal, which we leave to speak for itself:

CHARLESTON, Jan. 4, 1866.

Among the calamities which have befallen many of our churches in the past year, is the entire or partial loss of our church plate. My own church (Grace church) had a full and handsome communion service, which was sent to Columbia for safety. It was lost on the sack of that city by Sherman's army on February 16th last. The communion plate of St. Michael's, Charleston, the gift of Queen Anne, and that of Trinity Church, Columbia, was all stolen or destroyed by the fire on that occasion.

It has occurred to me that you might do something to aid us in the recovery of some, at least, of these sacred vessels, endeared to us by use and by so many religious associations. They have probably been offered for sale in the North. They may have fallen into the hands of some who are willing to restore them on just terms, to their rightful owners. Each piece of plate of my own church was distinctly marked "Grace Church, Charleston." The others were, I presume, in like manner engraved with the names of their churches.

The Record-book of St. Michael's church, more than 100 years old, was carried off. It was seen in the hands of parties going North from Charleston. It is a very valuable book. The members of the church will be under obligations to you, if you assist them to recover it.

Very respectfully,

C. C. PINCKNEY.

The United States cotton and license taxes in Galveston, for the last four months, amounted to $680,814.47.

Dissolution of Copartnership.

THE firm heretofore known as that of Baker, Cowper & Co has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. The duties devolving on one of the partners as Cashier of the Bank of Cape Fear, and the removal of the other to Norfolk (his residence before the war) for the purpose of practicing law, have caused this dissolution. The business will be continued by Mr. Pulaski Cowper and Mr James A. We most cheerfully endorse it as an article worthy of the confidence of the public, and the purchaser may rely upon securing an article honestly and carefully manufactured.

HAMPSHIRE COAL.

CARGO OF 275 TONS HAMPSHIRE COAL DAily expected from Baltimore.

This coal is bituminous, and perhaps the best coal known for steam purposes, whether for locomotives or steamboats. It is used almost exclusively by Northern railroad companies and the Cunard Steamers. It is also represented as the best blacksmith's coal in the country, and is very extensively used in iron works for forging, etc. It is soft and friable, the fine coal being as good for use as the lump.

The attention of railroad companies, iron works and machine shops, is particularly invited to the importance of a trial of this coal.

The undersigned having been appointed agent for the Hampshire and Baltimore Coal Company, will be prepared to furnish any quantity required, at a reasonable price.

Desirable Location for a Physician.

HAVING DETERMINED TO ENGAGE IN OTher business, which will require all my time and attention, I offer an excellent location in the village of Clemmonsville, Davidson Co., N. C., with a large practice, to any respectable physician who is not now permanently located. The location can be secured by the purchase of an elegantly arranged brick office with two rooms, and the lot upon which it is located, which I will sell for $600 cash. I have, also, a stock of medicines on hand which I will dispose of. A good dwelling-house can be purchased convenient to the office if desired. The village has a flourishing school, affords a pleasant residence, and is situated in a fine agricultural region, two miles from the Yadkin river, 11 miles west of Salem, and 18 north of Lexington. For further particulars, address

COOKE'S HOTEL

IS open, and those who are travelling and wish comfortable quarters and good eating, stop at Cooke's. My terms will be as moderate as possible for the times. You will always find conveyance at the depot to take you to either of the Hotels in this City; but be sure to inquire for Cooke's, where you will get good lodging, good eating, mineral water to drink, and a pipe to smoke if you wish it.

I will be prepared to accommodate 15 or 20 members of the approaching Convention.
