"I WOULD RATHER BE RIGHT THAN BE PRESIDENT."—HENRY CLAY.

VOL. I. RALEIGH, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1866. NO. 153.

DAILY SENTINEL. Thursday, January 8, 1866.

Washington Correspondence. (SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF RICHMOND TIMES)

The Council of Generals—Organization of the Army, Militia, &c.—Passage of Senator Trumbull's Civil Rights bill doubtful—Tennessee delegation—The President showing his hand—Southern manufactures to be taxed, &c.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4, 1866. The Council of Generals, composed of General Grant, Sherman, Meade and Thomas, has been in session here during the past week, was broken up last evening, and the result of their deliberations has been submitted to the Senate Military Committee, and will be considered by that body to-morrow morning.

The only subjects considered and discussed by this Council were those immediately connected with the organization of the army, and, notwithstanding the statement to the contrary, no reference was made to the matter of reconstruction or the political status of the South, except in so far as it became necessary to allude to the subject with reference to the number of men required to do garrison duty in the Southern States.

The Council specially and critically considered the militia, West Point and army bills, now before the Senate Military Committee. The militia bill was warmly approved, and the only material alteration suggested by the Council was that the commander-in-chief have authority to order an inspection at such a time as he may deem proper, thus bringing the militia directly under the command of the army.

The only amendment of any importance suggested in the West Point bill, is that the superintendent be selected from the army at large, instead of from the engineers' corps alone, as heretofore. In the bill to reorganize the army, the Council concur with the Senate bill as to the number of men required for the regular military peace establishment, namely 57,000. In addition to the officers named in the bill, they recommended the increase of five major-generals and ten brigadier-generals and four assistant-adjudant-generals, all to be selected from the volunteer forces, and these several officers to expire with the decease, resignation or removal of the incumbent. They recommended that the eight regiments of veteran reserves named in the organization be stricken out of the bill.

Some of the Radical members of the House announced their determination to oppose the Trumbull civil rights bill passed in the Senate on Friday last. If they do, the bill will most likely fall, on a vote of the Conservative Republicans and the Democrats generally expect to oppose it. But we have yet to hear from Thad. Stevens, who, if he approves the bill, will straightway proceed to stiffen the enfeebled Republican spinal column, and drive the timid Conservatives into the universal suffrage bill, and other Radical pet measures.

The resolution to admit the Tennessee Congressional delegation to their seats, with the adoption of which we were threatened last week, is now proposed to be tested the coming week, and its friends feel assured that it will pass, irrespective of the action of the Committee on Reconstruction. I think its passage is doubtful, for I find that the John of the House, and his energetic rule or ruin followers, are busy at work converting or trying to convert the stubborn Conservatives into the belief that it will entirely defeat the plan of reconstruction to be proposed by the committee, and that nothing should be done with the Tennessee delegation until the final report of the committee shall have been presented and disposed of by Congress.

The Radicals are the more anxious to defeat the resolution and keep the Tennesseans out in the cold, because to admit them would be, in part, endorse the President's policy of reconstruction; and beside, the President has not concealed his desire and opinion that the delegation should be at once admitted. To oppose and defeat the wishes and policy of the administration, is to divorce the Republican party from Mr. Johnson, and that is exactly what Stevens & Co. desire to bring about. Their darling object will no doubt be soon accomplished, for, as matters appear to us here, a severance of that kind is inevitable.

As an evidence that the President does not intend to give office to those Radicals who openly oppose him, I may mention that the postmaster of this city, Mr. Bowen, a violent Radical, who has been one of the commissioners of the Levy Court, was appointed yesterday by order of the President by a good and true supporter of Mr. Johnson's policy. It is said that Mr. Bowen has also had a slight hint that his place as postmaster will soon be filled by a true friend of the administration.

Some time ago the Secretary of the Treasury issued a circular which directed that manufactured articles and certain of the products of the South, which were on hand when the rebellion ceased, should be exempt from the onerous tax indicated by the law. A new circular is now being prepared, rescinding the former, and directing that on and after the first of March next, such manufactures shall be subjected to the tax. QUID NUNC.

The Sack of Bagdad—Demolition, Pillage and Outlawry. The Matamoros Revolt, of the 9th, thus fastens the responsibility of a war between Maximilian and the United States on the latter country.

The Federal commander upon being apprized of the unbloody and pillage of Bagdad by his own soldiers, left Brownsville for that place. Two days after the pillaging commenced, he crossed into Bagdad a force of three hundred men, with the object, we are told, of protecting the lives of the non-combatant population. But, remarkable to relate, did not restore Imperial authority, but instead, recognized the authority of a pack of highway robbers, who retook the place from his soldiers, and who went into it from the Texas side. Thus he recognizes the right of his soldiers to take and sack a town of the Mexican Empire, and after they had enjoyed two days' pillage, he sends in to it a force and commands the peace, but instead of putting the place in the hands of those from whom his soldiers took it, he virtually turns it over to Liberal robbers and makes himself and government responsible for the whole affair.

His soldiers attack and take a city from the hands of the Imperial Government of Mexico; his soldiers capture the Imperial garrison; assassinate Imperial citizens; shoot Imperial soldiers; sack the city, and turn all over to pillagers and so-called Liberals, who enter the place from the soil of the United States. Such, even, is the picture we are called upon to contemplate; and such is not only a declaration of war on the part of the United States, but the commencement of actual hostilities by the government.

Whether the Federal authorities have committed this awful crime wilfully, or whether they are guilty of the higher crime, inertia, stupidity, ignorance, we leave it for the public to determine. One thing, however, is certain, the course which the Federal commander has taken, fastens, irrevocably fastens, the entire responsibility of the ignoble affair upon his government.

The Assassero of the 10th gives further particulars of the sacking of Bagdad, from which we take some extracts: The pillage of Bagdad continues, but on a small scale in comparison to the first few days' proceedings. The negroes cross boxes of champagne and other wines and liquors, besides packages of merchandise, without molestation from Federal officials, but when the whites attempt to carry on the same work, they are picked up by the Federal custom-house officials and made to pay duties.

All the principal homes of Bagdad have been gutted completely. Some firms in this city inform us of their receiving houses and branches have been robbed of every article worth carrying off, including their safes, which had been taken to the Texas side and blown open. The Federal commander has been at Clarksville, and has sent a force over to this side to keep order, and was holding the place in conjunction with outlaws and filibusters. He had done nothing toward restoring the place to those from whom his soldiers took it. He left yesterday morning for Brownsville, having been and saw, and done nothing.

The Federal commander arrived yesterday from below, and has ascertained that very few of his soldiers had a hand in the taking and sacking of Bagdad. Those few he is going to have arrested. We do not understand that he computes the number of his soldiers who took part in that heinous affair. Let he should arrest too many of them, we would inform him that not more than from five hundred to eight hundred took hand in the work of pillage. Only a few—very few.

We are told that goods taken at Bagdad continue to arrive in Brownsville, and are already collecting at market. The number killed and wounded at Bagdad is so variously estimated, that without something more reliable it would not be worth while to make an estimate.

Could Not Tell. At stout, red-faced Englishman, in white beaver, blue coat and buff vest, offered to wager a ten pound note, that he would close his eyes and, simply by taste, name any kind of liquor in the house. The bet was taken, and the process of winning or losing commenced forthwith. "This is genuine port," said the fat gentleman, tasting from a wine-glass. "And this—this is whiskey," and so through the hotel's "manifest." A wag then pouring a few drops of water into the glass, and handed it to the contestant. "This—ah—ah—this is—(tasting it)—by Jupiter! gentlemen, I lose the bet. I never tasted this liquor before!"

THIS BEAUTIFUL WORLD.—Ah, this beautiful world! Indeed, I know not what to think of it. Sometimes it is all gladness and sunshine, and heaven itself lies not far off. And it changes suddenly, and is dark and sorrowful, and the clouds shut out the sky. In the lives of the saddest of us there are bright days like this, when we feel as if we could take the great world in our arms. Then come the gloomy hours, when the fire will neither burn in our hearts nor on our hearths, and all without and within is dismal, cold, and dark. Every heart has its secret sorrows, and often-times we call a man cold when he is only sad.

THE publication of the "Prospectus" of the North Carolina Presbyterian will be resumed in Fayetteville, on Wednesday, the 2nd of January next. Confidentially relying on the hearty support which we have heretofore received, we shall endeavor to render the paper more attractive, both in appearance and matter, than it has ever been, sparing neither pains or expense in the accomplishment of this purpose.

With the passing away of old things, a new spirit of activity, energy and enterprise, has been infused into every department of our country, thought and business. Why should not the Church, also, partake of the progressive advancement? Why should she, of all the agencies brought to bear with such tremendous force upon the civilization of the present time, be inefficient, lagging and almost hopeless in the working out of her own destiny?

To arouse the church to the importance and necessity of work; of unceasing, restless, tireless energy in the service of her Master and Head; to call her to her duty and chiefness in this world of assistance. We are not, alone, sufficient for these things. Our brethren must help us in every way; by contributions from their own stores of thought and study; by zealous co-operation in a common cause, for the benefit of all, by extending our circulation throughout all our borders, and thus giving us the means and the opportunity of performing well the work to which we have consecrated all that we have, and all we hope for on earth.

Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime, BONE MANURE. WARRANTED GENUINE. BEING MADE OF THE BEST MATERIAL AND IN THE MOST APPROVED MANNER, it is recommended to the public as superior to any other in the market. All who have used it speak of it in the highest terms of praise, and those engaged in its manufacture will continue their best endeavors to advance the high reputation which it has acquired.

We guarantee the Phosphate to be well manufactured, and recommend it in preference to any other artificial manure in the market. We consider it nearly equal to the best Peruvian Guano, although furnished at half the price. Messrs. B. H. Allen & Co., the well known manufacturers of agricultural implements, say of it: "We take pleasure in stating that we have sold E. F. Coe's Super-Phosphate of Lime for four years—it has given entire satisfaction to our customers. We most cheerfully endorse it as an article worthy of the confidence of the public, and the purchaser may rely upon securing an article honestly and carefully manufactured." We would state that, after careful examination, we believe this Phosphate has been improved each year since its introduction in this market, and that it will continue to maintain its present high standard. "Very respectfully, B. H. ALLEN & CO., "No. 101 Water street, New York."

E. FRANK COE, Esq., Analyzed please find result of my analysis of sample of your Super Phosphate of Lime left with me. This being such a superior article in every respect, I cannot refrain from congratulating you upon such manufacture, which undoubtedly will meet with great success. Wishing you every success, I am, Respectfully yours, G. A. LEIDIG. BALTIMORE, August 5, 1864.

HAMPSHIRE COAL. CARGO OF 25 TONS HAMPSHIRE COAL DAY by day expected from Baltimore. This coal is distinguished, not perhaps the best coal known for steam purposes, whether for locomotive or steamboats. It is used almost exclusively by Northern railroad companies and the Canada Steamers. It is also represented as the best household coal in the country, and is very extensively used in iron works for forging, etc. It is soft and friable, the coal being as good for use as the lump. The attention of railroad companies, iron works and machine shops, is particularly invited to the importance of a trial of this coal. The undersigned having been appointed Agent for the Hampshire and Baltimore Coal Company, will be pleased to furnish any quantity required, at a reasonable price. Orders respectfully solicited. PROSPECTUS OF THE COSMOPOLITE. ON THE FIRST OF JANUARY WE WILL COMMENCE THE PUBLICATION, in the City of Baltimore, of a monthly Literary Magazine. There is no publication of this character now issued South of New York City, and the closing of the war has left a large portion of the people of the country without a literary representative. The Cosmopolite will be devoted to Literature, Art, Reviews, Scientific Papers and General Reading, and we shall number among its contributors some of the first literary men of the Society, writers from the North and from London and Paris. All matter original will be carefully selected from the nearest and best of the English, French and German publications; and its Editors will spare no effort or expense to make it rank with the very first magazines of the country. As its name imports, we have established the Cosmopolite upon no artificial basis. We hope to make it the organ of general literature above; and will be unshaken by any party or clique whatsoever. It will be mailed to subscribers in any part of the country upon receipt of the following Subscription: Single Copies, for one year, $4 00 Five Copies for one year, 20 00 Ten copies for one year, 32 00 The Cosmopolite will be generally distributed among the Merchants and Planters of the South, and we will send, for their information, a few advertisements at moderate rates. Liberal deductions will be made to book-sellers and newsgirls. Newspapers publishing this prospectus and sending a marked copy to the undersigned, will receive a copy of the magazine. Address P. O.
