The Late Hon. George E. Badger.

AT A MERTING of the Judges of the Supres Court, and the members of the bar in attendauce thereon, held at the Court room of the Court, on Thursday, the 20th, inst., the following proceedings were had:

On motion of B. F. Moore, Esq., Chief Jus-tice Pearson was chosen to preside over the meeting, and Thomas Bragg was appointed Secretary.

Mr. Moore stated that the object of the meeting was to pay some tribute of respect to the memory of the Hon. George E. Badger, late a practitioner of this bar, and moved that a committee of three be appointed by the Chairman to report resolutions; which motion was adopted, and the Hon. John H. Bryan, Judge Battle and B. F. Moore were appointed.

The committee retired, and, soon after returning, by Mr. Bryan reported the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we deeply-deplore the loss which our country has sustained in the death of the Hon. George E. Badger.

Resolved, That in the character of the de-

Resolved, That we regard his example in all the various relations of life as of inestimable value to the youth of our country. As a man he was firm, upright and honorable; as a Christain, humble and sincere; as a statesman, pure, able and honest as a lawyer, learned, profound and ingenuous; he enjoyed in an eminent degree the confidence and respect of this Court, where his memory will be long cherished and honored

Resolved. That this affliction, grievops at all times is now greatly enhanced by its occurrence at a time when our country so greatly needs the guidance and advice of her most able, needs the guitance and a sons.

Resolved, That we respectfully tender to his bereaved family our condelence and sympathy, and that the Chairman of this meeting communicate to them a copy of these proceedings.

On motion, the resolutions were unanimously

(From the Petersburg Index) Southern Manufactures-Venable's Snuff and Fine Cut Pactory.

The true "reconstructionists" of the South are not the men who are passing their time in amentations over their poverty and detent; still less the men who are taxing their ingenuity to discover new bonds, guarantees and tests with which to supply the defects of a form of government hitherto proclaimed to be little short of divinely inspired. When a conflagration buries the proceeds of years, of toil in a mass of useless ruins, the wise man is not he who wastes his days in lamentation over the wreck of his fortune, nor he who spends his tortune, nor he who spends his time in criticising the defects of the system by which he attained the wealth and power so suddenly swept from his hands.

It is rather he who at once addresses himself to the task of rebuilding; who, before the embers are cold, begins to clear away the rubbish, and, unappalled by the calamity which has befallen him, plans the restoration of his fortunes on a scale of greater breadth, and by the exercise of greater scal, industry and enterprise than

This is the true restoration, and it applies no This is the true restoration, and it applies no less to national catastrophes than to individual, once. The true triends of the South are the men who, undismayed by the private and public wreck around them, have plunged at once into the labor of reconstructing the prostrated material interests of the country, and have laid material interests of the country, and have had amid the smoking ruins of a wasted land the broad foundations of future prosperity.

Where these men are found they deserve the substantial sympathy and support of their fellow-citizens and of the press, and it becomes a public duty to extend to them every encouragement which lies within the power of the citizen or the lawful province of the State.— Entertaining these views, we propose from time to time to call attention in these columns to the labor of such of our citizens as have ad-dressed themselves to the task of developing the material resources of the State, by the ap-plication of capital and skill to manufacturing

About six months ago, James M. Venable, Esq., of this city, resolved to establish in Petersburg, a large Snuff and Fine Cut Chewing Tobacco Manufactory, superior in the completeness of its machinery and the perfection of its arrangement to anything herotofore seen at the South, and equal to any establishment is or out of it. The progress so far made demonstrates that in this resolve he is destined to succeed. His advantages consist chiefly in the fact that he is in the heart of the market for the choicest abbacco manufactured on the globe; that he is at a point of easy and rapid communication with the great faile of first class recognition. with the great fields of first class production, and at a point of easy access to the foreign and domestic consumer. Able, also, to command an ample force of intelligent white labor, he felt encouraged to supply himself with the most perfect machinery that the ingenuity of inven-tors had applied to the manufacture he proposed to establish, and hoping that now, at least, the Southern people were prepared to do justice to Southern enterprise, he planned an establishment on a scale of cost and completeness which put him at once on a level with

A three story building, 214 by 34, with a wing 70 by 18, turnishes him the room, and a handsome stationary engine of 15 horse power the necessary torce, for the operation of his mill. The machinery consists of a powerful grinder capable of turning out 2000, rounds, of soulf per machinery consists of a powerful grinder capable of turning out 3000 pounds of sauff per day, a cutter chiefly for the preparation of his celebrated Firm Cur Chewise Tobacco, which, with its ponderous arms whirling at the rate of 750 revolutions per minute, will easily cut a thousand pounds of fine cut tobacco per day, and a complete set of the secondary machinery, stem rollers, snuff mulls, packers, &c., &c.

Finding himself embarrassed at the outset in the effort to supply himself promptly and at fair rates with the vast quantity of boxes, boxes both of paper and tin, necessary for his business, he resolved to become his own manufacturer, (Correspondence of the Baltimore Sun.) The Proposed National Union Convention. -- Prospective Adjournment of Congress, Illness of Mr. Washburne.

WASHINGTON, June 20. The call for a National Union Convention, embracing delegations from all the States and this District, is now formally made by the National Union Club, with the endorsement of conservative Republican Senators. That it will be seconded in every State there is their dental and that it will do much towards the object of restoring the interestic towards the object of restoring the interestic towards the object of restoring the integrity and harmony of the Union is confidently believed.

Many of the interests seeking anguer pro-tion against foreign competition are disappoint-ed at Mr. Morrill's bill. It makes some duties almost prohibitory, but does not through the whole list. The principle upon which the bill is founded invokes the ultimate prohibition of the importation of any articles that can compete with domestic production or manufacture.

There is evidence on every hand of the desire of Congress to adjourn. The committees are finishing up their business, and both Houses are clearing their calendars of a number of unimportant bills. The tariff and tax bills, and the bill for reorganizing the army, are the only im-portant measures yet to be disposed of. The military committee of both houses were engaged to-day in perfecting a new army bill which will be acceptable to both houses. Gen. Grant is very anxious for the passage of some bill in reasing the regular army at this session. Representative E. B. Washburne, of Illinois, was taken suddenly ill with congestion of the liver during the proceedings of the House yesterday, He fainted away, and was taken to the residence of Gen. Grant, where he now lies dangerously ill.

A good story is told of Wigfall, who, at the collapse of the rebellion, fell into the vicinity of a party of Union soldiers in Texas.
