The work has been resumed on the Cincinnati, Cumberland Gap and Charleston Rail Road at Morristown, Tenn.

MAJ. WRIGHT, in charge of the Freedman's Bureau at Newbern, has been relieved, and Col. S. Moore, late at Salisbury, takes his place.—From what we have heard, the change will be quite a relief to the people of that section.

MURDER.—Some negroes entered the store of Mr. J. H. Cutchin, at Whitaker's turn-out on the Wilmington and Weldon railroad, on the 9th inst., and brutally murdered him by striking him on the head with a hammer. After the deed was accomplished the door was locked, and no discovery of the affair was made until morning. The object seems to have been plunder, as several hundred dollars were stolen. A negro by the name of Virgil is now under arrest in Weldon, charged with being implicated in this horrible tragedy.

SAD ACCIDENT.—We learn from the Weldon State that a very unfortunate accident occurred at Nag's Head, in this State, during last week. Clayton Richardson and Alonzo Greaves, who were doing business for Mr. Jacobs, Proprietor of the Altria House, at the above named place, were sleeping in the same room in the store-house. During the night Greaves, in his sleep, got up out of his bed, exclaiming, "robbers! robbers!" and, seizing Mr. Richardson, who was asleep, by the throat, choked him vigorously. Mr. Richardson cried out, "Alonzo is that you!" and, receiving no answer, he raised his pistol and fired its contents at the head of the friend, but supposed robber. The ball took effect, and Mr. Greaves fell insensible to the floor, and is now in a critical condition, his life being almost despaired of.

WE are pleased to hear that Rev. J. M. Everhart and another gentleman (name not remembered) have bought the Major J. W. Woodfin's mountain farm, with a view of going into the dairy business thereon. This is an encouraging sign, and we wish the gentlemen great success.—Ashville News.

"QUEEN ERMA."—The New Yorkers are doing their best to entertain the Queen of the Sandwich Islands, now in that city. She was waited on by many of the leading gentlemen and ladies of the city, on Thursday, including Commodore Ringgold, of the navy, Horace Greeley, Rev. Drs. Dix, of Trinity Church, and Vinson, and others. During the day she visited St. Luke's Hospital and other similar institutions. It is said she will set out on Monday for Washington, and on her return spend a few days in Baltimore.

The Memorial Exercises at Jones' Springs. WASHINGTON, N. C. Aug. 11.

DEAR SENTINEL.—Having noticed your call, I will endeavor to give you a brief account of the ceremonies that took place at Jones' Springs on the 8th inst.

At about 9 o'clock in the morning, people began to pour into the hotel yard from all sections, until the crowd became very large. Gen. Curtis and Fitzhugh Lee, having arrived at the Springs early in the day, most of our citizens sought an introduction to them through the Committee. These gentlemen occupied the parlors of the hotel for that purpose, and the greetings which they met from the citizens of the old North State were of such a nature as alone could come from brothers who had suffered in the same cause.

At eleven o'clock, the vast concourse began to move in procession from the hotel to the burial ground, which movement consumed nearly a half an hour. On the ground, by those familiar with gatherings, it was estimated that there were from 1,400 to 1,600 persons present.

The Rev. Dr. Hodges opened the ceremonies by reading an appropriate selection from the Prayer Book, and then offering up prayer to the Most High. The Doctor then introduced James Barron Hope, Esq., Editor of the Norfolk Daily Book, the Poet of the occasion, who arose and delivered one of the most elegant, feeling and soul-stirring poems that ever fell upon any ear, occupying about thirty minutes in its delivery.

The impression upon the vast auditory present was grave indeed. Never were people's sympathies so enkindled and held spell-bound for so long a period; and not a word nor a gesture of the poet was lost by that crowd of eager listeners. In using my weak language to convey my own ideas of Mr. Hope's magnificent effort, I know I can convey to your readers but a faint conception of the reality. The audience were charmed, indeed, and I felt that, to have been present on the occasion, was truly to have enjoyed an oasis in the dull tramp through the desert of life.

After the poem, the Rev. Mr. Solomon closed the ceremonies by prayer, and the procession made its way back to the Hotel. In justice to mine host of the Springs, I cannot omit to make mention of the reception which he gave the large crowd of gentlemen and ladies who lingered at the hotel for the balance of the day. Major Hope, of the Yarborough hotel, in your city, certainly deserves well of the public as a caterer. I consider him a master of his business in that line, and his splendid table and polite and courteous assistants and attentive servants bear me out in the assertion.

By the way, we were much gratified by a conversation with the Major, in which he assured us that, on our next visit to the Capital of our State, we would find his hotel newly triggered off with spanking new furniture and other late and improved "fixes." Major Hope "knows how to keep a hotel" truly, for he keeps up with the times. Success to him, the Yarborough, and the Sentinel. Don't you say so?

DEATH OF A. G. FOSTER, Esq.—It is with feelings of sadness and deep regret that we record the death of this distinguished gentleman, a tribute of respect to whose memory we published in our last. It was our good fortune to have known Mr. Foster long and well, and we can truly say that we have never known a more honest and upright man in our life. Few men possessed a clearer head, and none a more honest heart. We have often thought that he was the most talented man to whom his native country ever gave birth. Bred to the law, he soon rose to eminence at the bar, and if he had not retired early he would undoubtedly have reached the highest distinction of the profession. In personal character he was open, frank, sincere and manly, and none would sooner have scored a mean action. He was a plausible enemy and a strong friend—a high toned and chivalrous gentleman. Faults he probably had, but of us has not. But, in the language of Hayley, in memory of Henry the IV, of France, we would say, "His fallings be they covered o'er by his tomb, And perennal laurels above his ashes bloom."—Old North State.

A SOFT ANSWER TURNETH AWAY WRATH.—It is said that recently, in a sleeping car coming from the West, a man in one of the berths became greatly annoyed by the crying of an infant and the efforts of its father to pacify it.—The irate individual at last shouted out: "What the devil is the matter with that young one?" And soon again: "Where is the mother of that child, that she is not here to pacify it?" At this the poor gentleman in charge of the child stepped up to the berth, and said: "Sir, the mother of that child is in her coffin in the baggage car!" The grumbler immediately arose and compelled the father to retire to his berth, and from that time until morning took the little orphan under his own care.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A GENTLEMAN.—The late Judge Talford, in a case tried at the Bristol (England) Assizes, shortly before his sudden death, thus defined the character of a gentleman: "The evidence proved that the defendant, while in the theatre, had said to the plaintiff, 'Do not speak to me; I am a gentleman, and you are a tradesman.' 'Gentleman,' said the learned judge, 'is a term which does not apply to any station. The man of rank who deports himself with dignity and candor, and the tradesman who discharges the duties of his life with honor and integrity, are alike entitled to it; nay the humblest artisan, who fulfills the obligations cast upon him with virtue and honor, is more entitled to the name of gentleman than the man who would indulge in offensive and ribald remarks, however high his station.'"
