THE SENTINEL. WHE E. PRIS. Editors SEATON GALES. Friday Evening, Nov. 23, 1866.

Oar Western Counties.

The great impediment to the rapid increase of wealth in our Western counties is their inaccessibility tomarket. The Eastern and middie counties of the State, annually import hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of nessaries and Infories from the North, which our own Western counties could supply in the greatest abundance, equal in quality and at a much cheaperrate, if they had quick and reasonably champ, transportation. Railroads are the only possible means which can be furnished them for this purpose,

Butter, cheese, beaf, tallow, hides, honey, apples, Irish potatoes, onions, cabbages, chesnuts, flour and a variety of other articles hre now produced in very great abundance. A little at-tention to the culture and manufacture of these articles, will enable our people in the West, to produce and keep them in as good style and preservation as they are now produced at the North. It is, therefore, of the highest importance, that railroad facilities should be afforded them as soon as possible.

But railroad transportation is not all. It is important if they have rallroads, in order for them to compete with others in the markets, that the roads should so regulate their tariffs of freights, as that the cost of transportation shall not entirely put, a stop to production.

It appears to us that many of our railroad ers do not sufficiently discriminate betwom the value and weight of articles. The second of articles, of course, must as a general principle regulate the price of freight, but besides this general principle, regard should be had always, we think, to the aslue of the article. For instance, the charge on 100 lbs. of cotton, at present price, ought not to be less, indeed ought to be much greater than on / 100 lbs. of onlines, potatoes or apples; otherwise, the culture of these uccessary articles would be discoursgad and prevented,

A commission house in this city called our attention to the following fact which illustrates our position : A gentleman in Catawba county aving raised a large quantity of fine onlons, forwarded fifteen bushels of this article to a meniation house in this city to sell for him .-On their arrival, the railroad freight bill was presented and paid. The 15 bushels of onions aill hardly bring more than $1,50 per bashel. or $12,50 for the whole. Now on these 15 hele of onions, the freight from Newton, Catawbs county to Sallabury, was only $1,90 .--This we call a moderate charge, But the treight from Salisbury to Raleigh was $5,08 !-We beg leave to ask the proper officers of the N. C. R. R. if this latter charge is not an error. If not, we can harvily hope to get any more on-long from Catawba.

The Bertie Meeting.

We take pleasure to-day in laying before our aders, the proceedings of a meeting held recently in the County of Bertle, by the citizens cemerally, in order to invito agriculturalists from abroad to settle smong them. The sentiments expressed by that meeting are similar to those of the people of every portion of the State. We have utiered this opinion time and again, and wears glad that the people make nilar utterances throughout the State. No map, white or black, is liable to suffer in North Carolina for his political sentiments, or for his war. Men holding adverse sentiments to the great majority of our people, who on set puran feelings among us, are not so much esteemed we admit; but any quiet, ingenuous good cit'ten, no matter what his opinions, or where he came from, who pursues a respectable recation, shares in the good foelings and courtesies of We repeat what we have often said, that Northern men pursuing an honest vocation, mong us, are as safe in any portion of this State as in the North. Our laws protect all slike, and where men prove themselves to be worthy, good citizens, they are respected.

Our Washington Letter,

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20, 1866. Mgasana. EDITORS :- One of those periodical simoons which sweep over nations, seems to have burst in its full fury upon the Northern seems to section of this Union. France has had its Mis sissippi scheme, its revolution of '92; England its South Sea bubble; Germany its secret societies and Materialism, and the events of the passing year have shown, that the great North American Republic is not exempt from the national spidemics of the old world, which tor time overcome all principles and precedents, and leave right and wrong involved in inextricable confusion.

The recent elections have spoken to the world in a manner not to be misunderstood, and should the spirit of those elections and the principles they enunciate be taken as the settled policy of the people, we might well despair of republican institutions. True, however, to the Republican faith of our ancestors, we cannot but believe that the most of the people mean well. They may be mistaken, they may be deceived, they may be misled by designing and unprincipled leaders; but sconer or later, the popular mind will discover the trath, and the great popular heart will throb in unison to the true pri at liberty and right. For the present, however, the will of the prodominating section, and with that the policy of the Government, has been nomistakably settled. The only resource then for the South, is to develop her resources, encour-age immigration and bide her time. Even should the Constitutional amendment be unlawfully find themselves shorn of those State rights which they are so willing now to ignore. They are treading on dangerous ground, for precedents in politics, as in law, are terrible things. It is on did that an agreement with the Juarez government has been made by which the States of Sonora, Chihuahua and Lower California are to be turned over to the United States for annexation. It is said that the mission of Gen, Sherman is for the purpose of settling preliminaries and merely precedes an army of occupa-tion. Certain it is, that unusual movements of troops have lately taken place in that direction The following committees were asnounced. COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIART. Messrs. McKay, Dargan, Davis, Kenan, More-head, Perry of Carteret, Richardson, Everett, Logan, Whitfield, Jordan, Durham, and Pee-hand over stimulated by the war and particu-blas larly its successful termination, is active, mor-bidly active, and must have something to feed upon. Any thing tending to the aggrandize-ment of the Republic is emphatically popular. Annexation of the Northern States of Mexico, Annexation of the Northern States of meaner, while it would bring popularity to the admin-istration, by turning public attention from is-sues on which it has already dwelt too long, sues on which it has already dwelt too long. would probably ensure the speedy admission of the excluded States. Viewed in this light, the the excl measure would be a fine stroke of policy, but the ultimate effect of this vast increa ritory, on the destinies of the Republic, is a question for the mature deliberation of the statesman and for time, which at last settles all questions from the minutest to the greatest. The acquisition would indeed give us a shorter and more practicable route than any we now possess, to the Pacific. The shrick of the steam whiatle which annihilates time and space may he allowed to compensate, in some degree, for the argument of those, if any, who may feel disposed to imitate the now annexationists of Polks administration.

In 1844, Wm, G. Brownlow, not then a Gov ernor, was in the city of Raleigh; and, provokes by what we then saw in the standard, published a letter in which he showed his estimation of its editor in tolerably energetic language. — After calling him various hard names—such as "that prince of hypocrites," "the notorinus apo-tate of the Standard"-and characterising his paper as "the putrified sheet through the col-umns of which Billy Holden lies weekly." He thus closes his loving epistle :

"But who is Billy Holden that he should pp ply the epithets of "rowdy," "blackgundd," &c., to honest and decent men ? He is a third rate County Court Lawyer, who some short time ago wrote and spoke the high praises of Mr. Clay, Gov. Morehead and the Whig party generally; with a view to induce the Whigi to give him employment that he might avoid star ortion. He is that same little wavering, breathing putrified monument of his own shame and disgrace, who was repulsed by the proprietor of the Star office, upon his application to become a partner in the concern !

He is that vain-glorious little creature, who, to gain notoriety, and at the same time make his aread and meat, wrote to the Hon. Wm. A. Graham, while a Senator in Congress, asking him to aid him in buying out the Star office, with a view to his starting a more efficient Whig press in Raleigh, and one that would handle the Lo coloco's as they deserved to be handled ! And last, though not least, he is the same depraved little political mendicant, who, making known his price to the Lacofocos at Raleigh, has been bought and paid for, soul and body,-receipts in due form having passed between the "high contracting parties." In this contemptible little reacgade is all want of principle brought to a focus. And if any responsible Whig or Demo-crat has ever known him to look an honest man in the face since his connexion with the Locofoco ja ty and can na'te it appear, why, I will make a public acknowledgement to the man. He has the worst countenance of any man I saw in Raleigh. And if his countenance be a true index to his heart I would as soon suspect him of taking things without leave, as any man I have met with since I left Tennessee. As it regards the self-styled Democratic parsider the mass of the common people as honest, as virtuous, and as patriotic, as those of any other party, and have so expressed myself on all occasions. But the leaders of that party, by whom I mean the Editors, orators and wire-workers, I regard as the most unmitigated association of villains now living, from Van Buren down even to Billy Holden."

> WILLIAM G. BROWNLOW. Editor of the Jonesboro' Whig.

RALEIGH, April 18th. 1864.

"I would not curse a dog so"-quoth mine uncle Toby. But Uncle Toby was wrong. This is not cursing, it is only a pleasant exhibition of those amenities which characterise gentlemen born to be great. It is only enacting the part of the impulsive Emerald Islander, who "Meets with his friend, and for lors knocks him

Some people might suppose that this mode of salutation is a little eccentric. By no means. It is usual among cultivated gentle man, who boast and have always boasted their "social position." They even take liberties with each other which are denied to the baser sort. These seeming curses are blassings in disguise. That "glorious old patriot," and that other one whom he delights to honor, now sleep together. Indeed, there are three delicious X. G's in the same family bed, lying spoonfashion, congratulating each other that they have a "fixed place in history"-and that "it will always be known that Previsional Governors existed at one time in our system of Government, and who those Governors, were." His tory will certainly remember Holden, Jack Hamilton and Brownlow Each shall be called Governor "always"-and longer too. They have "as fixed a place in history as any." Sancho Panza shall never overshadow them-nor that other Governor, Beelzebub (so-called) who rules over a hotter region than San Salvador .-Some Governors there be who have attained a bad eminence, but they shall be all known in history. The question so long debated, in what school our accomplished X. P. G. studied the graces, is now af rest. He has evidently drawn his polished shafts from the quiver of "that glori-ous old patriot." His knightly bearing towards his adversaries could have been acquired in no other school, and taught by no other master.--Both, master and man, are statesmen of refined sensibilities and gentlemanly mice. Both are brave, and were never known to run from danger. Both are models of gratitude and know ger. Both are mouses of gratitude and know experimentally, nothing of the "viper's tooth" or thankless child. Both are true as steal to their friends, who have given them brandy, or done other favors-and to the States who have given them birth and nurture. Both are seru-pulously truthful, and never mistake coarse vituperation for argument. Both are aware that a good cause scorns to admit falsehood in its apport-that like beauty, it
