(From the New York World.) Gigantic Plot of the "Grand Army of the Republic."

Not long since a new organization, called of the Government, it is composed exclusively of veterans who served in the country as the full of a snow-flake. It was not designed that it should take a prominent place before the public till some great necessity for its services should arise. In addition to the main that the forward provide a certainty for loved area. Half note and half cash for mennium and privilegs to services should arise. In addition to the main purpose of supporting the Government, its ob-oct was of a benevolent nature, and by this means it presented special attractions to the soldiers, till, in a short time, its ranks embraced over 300,000 men.

On Thursday, for the first time, the State of New York was divided into military districts by the Adjutant-General of the organization, as will appear from the following "general orders" published in the N. Y. Tribune, of the following

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT, NEW YORK, A. G's Office, New York, Feb. 6, 1867.

General Orders, No. 5.

1. The following named comrades are hereby detailed and announced as members of the provisional staff of this Department, on duty at these Headquarters: Major George T. Stevens, Aid-de-Camp and Assistant Inspector-General, Brovet Lieutenant Francis W. Parsons, Aid-de-Thomas III he represented accordingly and Brovet Lieutenant Francia W. Parsona, Ald-de-Camp. They will be respected accordingly and are hereby authorized to establish and organiza posts in localities not under the jurisdiction of District Commanders, announced in orders from these Headquarters.

2. The following named commades are hereby detailed and aunounced as temporary commanders of their respective districts, which are designated as follows: District of Manhattan, comprising the city and county of New York, with headquarters at the Bible House, Brevet Brigadier General Rush C. Hawkins; District of Oneida, comprising the county of the same name, with headquarters at Ution, Major David F. Ritchie. They will at once assume command, and will be obeyed and respected accordingly.

3. To prevent the informality in the muster-of recruits in this Department, it is hereby nounced, for the information of this comannounced, for the information of this command, that recruits will be mustered only in regularly constituted posts, and by District Commanders in the establishment of posts, except by the Grand Commander, an officer of his staff, or by special authority from these head quarters. The attention of officers is particularly called to articles 5, 9, 11 and 15, of the rules and regulations of the Grand Army of the Republic, and the strict enforcement of its provisions especially enjoined. Staff officers will be carolled as members of posts, and reported by the posts to which they belong as upon detached service.

By order of the Grand Commander.
Official: Frank J. Bramhall.

Official: FRANK J. BRAMHALL., Amistant Adjutant General. D. VAN SCHICK, Aid-de-Camp.

INTERVIEW WITH ONE OF THE COMMANDERS. In order to accertain from an official source, the avowed objects and character of the organization, one of the reporters called last evening at the office of the commander of the forces of the District of Manhattan, in the Bible House, and finding the apartment closed, proceeded to his house in Fifth avenue, when the following distegue, which the leader will find bears out the assertions which form the preface of this article:

article:

Reporter, (handing the Colonel a copy of the above "general orders,") There is a report to the effect that the grand army of the republic, to which reference is made in these orders, has been raised for Radical purposes, and that it is designed to be used against the President and his adherents, should any trouble result from his proposed impeachment.

Commander—If Congress should impeach the President, I have no doubt as to which side the grand army of the republic will take.

Reporter—Will you please tell me what are its objects, and when it was formed?

Commander—It had its origin some time since in portions of the West, where there is no militia. Its objects are of a benesvolent character; its aims to assist all its members who may be in need.

How many men are there enrolled

Reporter—How many men are there enrolled in the organization †

Commander—Over five hundred thousand,—All soldiers honorably discharged are admissible. We have Democrate and Republicans in our ranks; but all the loading officers are Radicals, so you can imagine how the army would be wielded in case of any national necessity. Reporter—Then the army may be said to have a Radical character in the main?

Commander—Yes; it is under the radical officers, and if there should be any necessity for its arvices. I have no doubt they would be rendered for the purpose of supporting Congress, if it impeached the President.

Reporter—Have arms or uniforms been furnished to the men?

shed to the men !

Reporter 20 they more negularly to the commander—Yes, but their meetings are received, they meet in lodges, and only members are admitted; we are particular about our members; all who apply for admission are obliged to furnish papers showing their connection with the army and a henorable discharge.

Such was the interview our reporter had with one of the military leaders of the organization, whose replies show that this new army may be used at any time at the beck of Congress, to sustain its policy by force, and to silence all opposition to the impeachment of the President. When the fact is realized that it is unnecessary to create "military departments" for a "benevolent" organization, the object of the army, in the present crisis of the country, will be found apparent.
