VOL. II. RALEIGH, N. C., TUESDAY EVENING, MARCH 26, 1867. NO. 194.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

THE PEABODY FUND—THE BANQUET.

The New York World gives an interesting account of the entertainment given by Mr. Peabody to the Trustees of his Educational Fund. We condense:

THE FESTIVE BOARD.

consisted of two long tables united by a kind of belt at the east end, leaving the sides and centre open for the servants. Mr. Peabody sat at the centre of the table on the north side of the room, and the Hon. R. C. Winthrop occupied a seat vis a vis at the centre of the table on the south side. The company were disposed of in an admirable manner by Mr. Peabody himself, who assigned seats to the ladies and gentlemen with rare taste, according to the most approved counsels regarding such kind of etiquette. The service of the table were superb in the extreme. They consisted of two magnificent sets, the one of gold and the other of silver, recently imported from France. They cost $12,000. It was all of the Louis XV. and Louis XVI. style, and comprised about fifty pieces of the most rich and elegant designs and workmanship. These pieces are exact copies of those used by Napoleon III. on State occasions.

LIST OF THE GUESTS.

Among the invited guests were the following named ladies and gentlemen, at the north table: Mr. Peabody in the centre; Admiral Farragut, Mrs. Gen. Grant, Bishop McIlvaine, Mrs. Burgh, Mr. Evarts, Mrs. Pierrepont, Governor Clifford, Mrs. Bancroft, Mrs. Astor, Mr. Brooks, Mr. Jennings, correspondent of the London Times, Mme. Botta, see Lynch, General Porter, Miss. Clifford, General Anderson, Mrs. Wetmore, Governor Graham, Miss Williams.

At the south table sat General Grant, Miss Weed, Mr. Stewart, Mrs. Rives, Mr. Astor, Miss Fish, Mr. Winthrop, Mrs. Farragut, Mr. Rives, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Bancroft, Mrs. Stewart, Mr. Wetmore, Mrs. Forbes, Miss McIlvaine, Judge Pierrepont, Mrs. Tiffany, Dr. Sears, H. J. Raymond, Mrs. Anderson, and Mr. Weed.

At the table at the upper end of the hall were seated Governor Aiken, South Carolina, Mrs. Brooks, Governor Fish, Mrs. Evarts, Judge Roosevelt, Mrs. McGregor, and General Butterfield.

Covers were laid for seventy-three persons, and that number were present.

ADDRESS OF MR. WINTHROP.

After the company had feasted on the viands and delicacies the cloth was removed, and the orations of the evening commenced.

Mr. Robert C. Winthrop made the opening speech. He said:

MR. PEABODY, LADIES, AND GENTLEMEN: I trust I shall be pardoned for claiming your attention for a single moment. The hour is at hand when this distinguished company is to separate and when the brilliant occasion which we have so much enjoyed will exist only in those grateful remembrances of the past which can never be effaced from our hearts. It is, I am aware, and was intended to be, a purely social occasion, where anything of formal speech-making would be quite out of place. But as the Chairman of the Board of Trustees, to whom, in company with our illustrious associate General Grant, this banquet has been given, a duty has been imposed on me which I must not omit to discharge.

I hold in my hand a brief series of resolutions which were unanimously adopted by the trustees of the Peabody Education Fund at the close of their proceedings a few hours ago. They were moved by the Hon. William Aiken, of South Carolina, seconded by the Hon. William A. Graham, of North Carolina, and, after eloquent and impressive remarks, by Bishop McIlvaine, of Ohio, and by the Hon. William C. Rives of Virginia, every member of the Board rose in his place in attestation of their adoption.

And let me say in passing, that it is not among the least welcome circumstances of this occasion that our noble host, by the magic of his munificence, more powerful than that of any Midas, of old, has brought together around a common board, Virginia and New York, North Carolina and Ohio, South Carolina and Massachusetts, Maryland and Pennsylvania, in the persons of so many of their distinguished sons, once more to consult together on subjects relating to the highest interests of the whole American people; and once more to interchange those assurances of mutual regard and respect which are the best and only pledges of permanent and perpetual Union.

If Mr. Peabody had accomplished no other object but this, he would have entitled himself to the heart-felt homage of every lover of his country. * * * *

"And now, my friends," (continued the speaker,) "I will attempt no eulogy of Mr. Peabody. Distant, far distant be the day when his eulogy shall be pronounced as it hereafter will be. I feel, too, that his deeds of munificence are far above the reach of any praise which it is in my power to utter.

Landing, as he did, here at New York, after a long absence in England, where he had already performed acts of charity without a precedent in the annals of the world, and which gave a new lustre to the American name wherever that name is known; landing here, I say, on the 1st day of May last, his visit to his native country has been one continued May-day of benevolence and beneficence. There has been no winter in his bounty. The storms and snows of New England, which have raged around him with more than their wonted severity, have not been able to repress or chill—have stimulated, rather—the genial currents of his soul. His pathway through our land has been a perfect Milky Way, leaving a radiance on the historic page as enduring as that of the stars above us. And this last, best, largest, noblest crowning gift for aiding the work of education in the desolated South, has, above all others, touched and thrilled every heart in the land; and there is at least one of the trustees—I think I can speak of them all—who regards his association with that gift the highest honor of his life. It was once said on some occasion, by my illustrious friend, the late Daniel Webster, in that terse and impressive language, in which he excelled almost all other men—that if an inquiry was made as to what America has ever contributed to the world, it was enough to say that she had contributed the character of George Washington. And we, of this day and generation, may now answer to that enquiry, that she has not only contributed the character of George Washington, but also the example of George Peabody. And, let me add, that if some American Thackeray should hereafter spring up to compose a series of Essays on the American Georges, he will be able to trace in them elements of true nobility, of real royalty, such as have rarely adorned the lives of those who have wielded the sceptre of earthly sovereignty in any land or age. But I beg pardon of Mr. Peabody for such personalities. I must not say more, I could not say less. Let me only assure him, in conclusion, that everything has gone on most harmoniously in the proceedings of our Board, and that measures have been adopted which will soon be communicated to the public, and which, as we all believe, will secure the entire success of his noble design. Nor is the day distant, we trust, when thousands and thousands of young children of every class of the population in the Southern and South Western States will have substantial cause to bless his name as their greatest benefactor. God grant that he may live long to witness the fruits of his beneficence; to visit the States which his bounty will have helped to restore, we hope, to more than their former prosperity and happiness; to be hailed by them, as he is by us here to-night, as the great philanthropist of his age.

Ladies and gentlemen: I ask you to unite with the Trustees in drinking the health of our loved and honored friend, Mr. Peabody. (Applause.)

Mr. Peabody replied in an appropriate and feeling manner.

THE APPROPRIATIONS DECIDED UPON.

The meetings have been strictly private; but the public will be gratified to know that the discussions had resulted, prior to the interesting event last night, in decisions which will be made known on Monday or Tuesday next, through the report emanating from the trustees themselves. The party has been entertained during their stay in the city at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and all the resources of that splendid house have been used to give character to Mr. Peabody's hospitality.

NOTICE!

TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN!

There will be a vessel to sail from the port of Wilmington, on or about the third of April, to sundad Bolivia, Venezuela, for the purpose of taking out any emigrants that may go to look or locate. Passage 50 in coin or its equivalent.

I have land titles to give to all Confederate soldiers, (1280 acres,) who will go, and passage for the above fee. I have reserved stock to sell to any other person for $100, including passage out. I will say, for the information of parties that have been writing for information since November last; the rate of $100 emigrants.

Dr. H. M. Price, and some of the Directors, are now on their way out to hold elections and frame the government.

There have been 10,000 shares of stock in this Company sold to a Banking-house in England, which will soon enable the Company to carry into effect their design of putting on a line of Steamers from the Southern States to Bolivia. This town has about 7,000 inhabitants, one half of whom are English. Mules and oxen can be purchased very low.

For further information, write me at Raleigh.

WE OFFER TO THE PUBLIC THIS CELEbrated Oil, and in doing so we unhesitatingly pronounce it SUPERIOR TO ANY BURNING OIL now in use. It is Non-Explosive. Free from Grease. It will not grease the hands. It will not soil or grease the clothing. It is more brilliant than Gas. It produces a soft and beautiful light. It is not so trying to the eyes. It can be used in any Kerosene Lamp by adopting our LIGHT HOUSE OR RACTCHET BURNERS.

It has been most favorably received, and pronounced by judges to be the

THE BEST AND MOST RELIABLE OIL now in the market and in consequence of the many serious accidents arising from the EXPLOSION OF KEROSENE, this Oil is extensively known and used in preference.

We are now prepared to furnish the trade with this valuable Oil, and we solicit from the public an examination and trial.

We have on hand a large stock of

LAMPS, BURNERS, CHIMNEYS,

WICKS, &c.,

and can supply the trade on liberal terms.

First Premium Awarded at the Louisiana State Fair held in New Orleans, from Nov. 20 to 27th, 1866, against all Competitors.
