THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

PRESIDENTIAL OUTCROPPINGS.

Who shall be next President? This question is rising prominently in all directions. Even the South is awaking to the sense of the urgency and vital importance of this question, and throughout the North, as well as at Albany, it begins to agitate the public mind. One signal proof of the interest which it already excites, is to be found in the eager haste, the violence and folly with which the extreme radicals have initiated systematic opposition to General Grant, whom the popular voice has spontaneously and unanimously nominated as the chosen candidate of the American people for the Presidency. The radicals have whispered slanderous insinuations against the private character of General Grant; they have sneered at his reticence as a cloak for paucity of ideas, and they have described him as a man of few words and fewer ideas.—They dare not and cannot deny his splendid record as a man of action. But they are wilfully blind to the sheer impossibility of his having done so much and gone through such a tremendous ordeal so triumphantly without having had a great many ideas, which his rare genius has translated into action more eloquent than any words.—Grant is head and shoulders above every other Presidential candidate who has yet been named by the press, in popularity, in ability and in weight of personal character.

The efforts of the radicals to forestall public opinion by nominating Chase will only bring out and multiply the friends of Grant, and their name is already legion. As we have more than once predicted, the million of soldiers whom he led to conquest and glory, and the millions with whom these soldiers are individually connected, will make this greatest General and hero of modern times President of the United States. The little game of the radicals has been to keep the name of Grant under a bushel, as it were, until they can nominate Chase. But the people must be on the alert and see to it that intriguers be foiled in their attempt to head off a candidate whose name rises superior to all parties and factions. Now is the time for the politicians thoughout the entire country to move with the people in the matter. The nomination of General Grant—of the man who saved the nation in war, and who can save it again from perils equally serious,—would be an earnest of peace and repose. It would rapidly hasten the process of reconstruction through which the South is passing, with what results the future alone can determine; and the future will largely depend upon the choice of our next Presidential candidate. Let the people primarily put forward their candidate, dispensing with the corrupt convention system, which is unknown to the laws and the constitution, and ought to be abolished. The attempt of the radicals to pack conventions and nominate Chase, Wade or Stanton, will only unite all, democrats and moderate republicans alike, throughout the land on the Grant platform. Among the issues which are to control the next Presidential contest will be an overhauling and cutting down of our present oppressive national bank, credit and taxation systems, internal and external. We cannot believe that the people at large are ready to sacrifice the immense advantages of a full restoration of the Union for the sake of furthering the pet schemes of Stevens, Sumner, Butler and Wendell Phillips for Southern confiscation and for placing the white race of the South in political subjection to the emancipated blacks. It would be far preferable to upset the costly and powerful electioneering machinery of the national banks, even at the risk of spoiling the prospects of Chief Justice Chase as a Presidential candidate. Wendell Phillips might be allowed to empty all the vials of his wrath, if the nation were once to enter fairly upon the era of harmony and prosperity which would date from the inauguration of General Grant as President of the United States of America.—N. Y. Herald.

THE TRIAL OF JOHN H. SURRATT.—The preliminary proceedings in the Surratt trial to day were just as I foreshadowed in yesterday's despatch. District Attorney Carrington moved to set aside the list of jurors prepared by the Register of the District, in conjunction with the Clerk of the Levy Court and Clerk of Georgetown, and the motion was a complete surprise to the defence, who were so taken aback that they were at a loss how to proceed. The point raised is important in more respects than one, for if sustained by the Court, as indeed seems possible and almost inevitable, it may affect the fate of many persons already tried, convicted and sentenced in the District of Columbia. It seems that the selecting of the jurors has been conducted in an illegal manner for years, through the want of information on the part of officers charged with that important duty. Legal gentlemen here say that should Judge Fisher decide that the objection of the prosecution to the present jurors selected is good, that then perhaps all former convictions, under similar circumstances, have been illegal. The effect of this, if logically leading to such a conclusion, would certainly be rather inconvenient. Conover and other noted criminals were convicted under similar circumstances, and it would be a curious result of sharp pleading in the Surratt case should Conover be declared now a lier here once more, or at least not a condemned man in the eye of that uncertain institution, the law. Some lawyers hold that the rigid rules of the statute, as regards the mode of getting a jury, would only apply to cases where the life of a man might be involved. But others take a broader view, and assert that all criminals would get the benefit of such an informality. The motion has caused quite a sensation here, as it has developed a point that escaped the attention of lawyers until the present moment. It is said that the counsel for the defence are so much surprised that they are undecided now what action they will take in the matter. It may be, after all, therefore, that another postponement will occur, though it is extremely doubtful, for the prosecution are now eager to push forward the trial, all their witnesses are on hand, and it might be very difficult to get them together again should they scatter.—Wash. Cor. N. Y. Times, 11th.

Madame H. A. PERRIGO.

She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, calamities, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those long separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives you the name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malefic stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars; in the heavens at the time of birth, she produces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on earth. It costs you but a trifle, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likeness enclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned. The strictest secrecy will be maintained, and all correspondence returned or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, enclosing a small lock of hair.
