VOL. II. RALEIGH, N. C., TUESDAY, JULY 16, 1867. NO. 289.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

From the National Intelligencer.

TO STATESMEN.

In anger—no; but in sorrow—statesmen of the Republic, we would consult together, like just and reasonable men; we would review the condition of our suffering country, the methods proposed for its amelioration, and the deplorable calamities which must attend a mistaken remedy.

Which of you will admit, that unless the country shall be restored on the basis of his own ideas of what is best for all, he does not desire the restoration? Not one. Which of you will admit, that unless the resentments, natural or unnatural, which he and his neighbors feel are first satisfied, he does not desire restoration? Not one.—Which of you will admit, that unless he and those who think with him shall have the control of those who differ from him, he does not desire restoration? Not one. In a word, who will acknowledge, that unless he can save his party he will not save his country? Who dares confess it? And yet it is mournfully true, and we solemnly appeal to every conscience in public life for a frightful, though secret verification of this great charge—that this, which none dare confess, is true of so many able and eminent statesmen that it is the sole obstacle to universal good-will, prosperity and happiness, in our common country.

Is this so? Perhaps not yet, generally. When it shall have become altogether prevalent, free institutions will be forever gone, or to be saved only by an immediate and general outburst of popular astonishment and indignation, sufficient to sweep from the exalted stage of public service the whole present race of statesmen. It it is really the fact that the unnatural and disturbed condition of the country, so far from drowning all partisan enterprise, is actually promoted by the great leaders of the people, choosing rather to keep it up permanently than to risk party advantages by healing the affliction, the only security of liberty is already gone, and nothing remains but to realize our fallen state, to make a new constitution as well as we may, and to train our children to Roman military glory, to Roman clientage, to Roman corruption, and to Roman shame. We cannot solemnly charge the partisan leaders of the day with the full measure of this hardened infamy, the full development of this Plutonian principle—this solvent of the State. When it becomes general it will not be proclaimed, for there will survive no free voice to denounce and no free tongue to applaud. But it is the controlling principle in the bosoms of most of the leaders of all parties, and they know that this it so. Enough. Civil liberty is in peril when men chosen to serve the country deliberately sacrifice it to their party. The struggle for the despicable spoils of office once disgusted peaceable and orderly men with the grossness of party contention. But this is not a dispute for spoils of office. It is a struggle for the dominion of a people; not a game for the places in which men may serve the Government and the Constitution, but a desperate and terrific contest among men for the power of swallowing up all government in themselves. The stake is the sovereignty of this great Republic, and the true issue is whether the people shall keep it or lose it.

What is the condition of this once blessed land? Be the crime or the folly what and whose they may, is not our actual situation deplorable in the extreme? Ten of the sovereign circle of starry States lie dishonored and prostrate, or hang by the bleeding shreds of their mangled organisms upon the whirling orbit of the Union. Under your beautiful figure of sisters, behold, orators of the country, ten of the lovely and stately virgins of the sisterhood, stripped of their habiliments, soiled with dust and gore, fallen to earth, and a ruthless soldier's iron heel pressing their still palpitating breasts. Do those who stand beside, erect, not inaculate from the recent struggle, but rich in the robes of honor, the hues of health, and the purple of empire, feel no pity?—Are their fair bosoms the laboratories of hate, the workshops of cruelty, the pillows of murder? Away with the figure. Fancy recoils with abhorrence from associating the form of loveliness and of purity with the abominable attributes which the authors of oppression impute to the respective States whose people they represent. But rather do those people allow themselves to be exhibited to heaven and earth in the fabled furies with which Pagan malevolence was compelled by common human nature to figure, for aversion and disgust, the very passions which energize our legislation toward the Southern people. If the Northern States are to be typified in their attitude toward the Southern, the daughters of cannibals would be too womanly to bear the comparison or sustain the character which Northern politicians give to their constituents.

Does any person dare to rejoice at the situation of the country? All, then, must profess, as nearly all really must feel, the calamity. Whatever is done, is professedly done for relief from the calamity. For this the names of Southern representatives of unimpeachable loyalty were refused record by the Clerk of the House from all Southern States in 1865. For this the ever infamous bargain was publicly made between the majority of the two Houses, that the National Legislature should no longer exist but for the purpose of giving its solemn forms to the secret revolutionary decrees of a party conclave. This was done for the "relief of the country." This colossal falsehood is the pivot of the revolution, and with its public enactment and the fatal toleration of the loyal Executive and consequent illusory and mistaken indulgence of the sovereign people, the legislative branch of the Republic fell, and still lies fallen, through the treason of its own members. We mean, of course, the concurrent resolutions of December, 1865, upon the passage of which the Capitol should have tumbled its prostituted pillars and domes upon the heads of the traitors and dastards who then and there dedicated it and have ever since used it as the temple of an impious and blasphemous political idolatry. The Freedmen's Bureau bill was passed next to "give peace ot the country." Did peace come? People applauded it, for it was to "restore the Union." The civil rights bill passed.—Many a soldier who had bled for "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable," waved his crutch, for he knew that "civil rights" was but another name for the same thing. But where is yet the Union? The President must be impeached for the sake of the Union. The most unprincipled and hardened among a score of degraded politicians were stimulated by every incentive to contrive, if by so much as the shadow of a pretext, to put the President on trial. The very servants of his person and the sanctities of the domestic chamber were interrogated and ransacked without effect; and after a year's disgraceful persecution the committee is ashamed to report. This, too, was to assuage the anguish of the country. Next came the bold and palpable revolutionary measures of what was called "reconstruction." At last people hoped an end would be put to national affliction. The President charged that there was danger of the commanding officers of the so-called districts usurping powers hateful to all American instinct, fatal to all the objects of such legislation, and fearfully perilous to liberty in the North. For this he was loudly denounced, and all the spokesmen of the measure solemnly declared, in their Houses of Congress, that the object was to save, and not to destroy; that the military satraps would have no power but that of policemen; that the measure was redolent of mildness and love, and was hostile to oppression or martial government.—With such interpretations, the people were willing to tolerate it for the sake of having an end of agitation. So was the President. He accepted the infamous engine, and defied even the Supreme Court to dislodge him from it; for he, too, wished and must have hoped—how delusively in our opinion at the time, our columns for two years back bear ample witness—to reach repose for the country. And what next? As soon as it became probable that quiet would, to the destruction of an ascendancy which exists only in tumult, actually force its blessed way, the very authors of the measure come here to repudiate it in the very sense in which they forced the country to accept it, and now, after more than two years of total cessation of all manner of hostility or controversy against the authority of the United States thoughout the land, the Union is to be kept in a state of dissolution, and every interest, material and moral, in the country exposed to still new peril by unheard of concoctions, distilling, as we write, in the bad hearts of these unconscionable demagogues, and about to pour their corroding poison into the already polluted statute book.

How is this amazing record to be accounted for? Will any person in his senses believe that what we have mentioned were measures intended for the restoration of the Union? Yet, is there any one so listless or so forgetful that he does not know or recollect that every one of them was upheld against distinct and otherwise irresistible public sentiment by not one thing in the world but the repeated, earnest, passionately solemn declarations, resounding from every stump in the land, that they were necessary for the early salvation of the Union, or, at least, conducive to a settlement? Would any of them have been tolerated by the people? Was any attempt ever made to procure the tolerance of a single citizen on any other but the paramount and all-sufficing hope, dearer than light to the popular soul, that they would shorten the road to repose?

Thus far we have come. We would gladly shut the book, turn our back to the past, and open the volume of the future. But what is to come? If this progress goes on, its tendency can only be reckoned by recourse to its astonishing history during the past two years. We are rushing to something. The time must soon come when the gigantic selfishness of leaders may give way, as a criterion of tendency, to the hideous madness of followers. Already the legislature of a revolution has virtually possessed itself of the potential substance of the legislature of the Union under the Constitution, preserving all its forms. In its former character it establishes a tacit relation with subordinates of the Executive of the United States, which is exclusive of the latter, by solemnly passing through Congress a resolution of thanks to officers of the army for disobedience to the constitutional authority of the United States, acting through its appropriate organ. The next step is directly to enact such a formal division of the Executive power, so that the Presidency shall devolve, according to locality, upon the constitutional or upon the revolutionary Executive.

The historian records that when the earth was trembling with the gathering hosts of fierce and gloomy collision between Pompey and Cæsar; when Brundusium and Pharsalia were nigh; when Actium was coming, and when the last long convulsion with its Augustan interval only, which shook Roman society with the national death-agony, prolonged for five hundred years, was about to set in, the people of Italy were in a state of apathy and incredulous indifference.

People of the United States! is this your will? Speak, for it is your country, and if you will that civil liberty shall perish, be it so. But we implore you to open your eyes in time to make your choice, and not put yourselves and your children over the brink, and swiftly falling in the dark abyss before knowing your danger. We can do no more.

There cometh glad tidings of joy to all,
To young and to old, to great and to small;
The beauty which once was so precious and rare,
Is free for all, and all may be fair.

By the use of

CHASTELLAR'S

WHITE LIQUID ENAMEL,

For improving and beautifying the complexion. The most valuable and perfect preparation in use, for giving the skin a beautiful pearl-like tint, that is only found in youth. It quickly removes Tan, Freckles, Pimples, Blotches, Moth, Patches, Sallowness, Eruptions, and all impurities of the skin, kindly healing the same, leaving the skin white and clear as alabaster. Its use can not be detected by the closest scrutiny, and being a vegetable preparation, is perfectly harmless. It is the only article of the kind used by the French, and is considered by the Parisian as indispensable to a perfect toilet. Upwards of 30,000 bottles were sold during the past year, a sufficient guarantee of its efficacy. Price only 75 cents. Sent by mail post-paid, on receipt of an order, by

CRISPER COMA.

Oh! she was beautiful and fair,
With starry eyes, and radiant hair.
Whose curling tendrils soft entwined,
Enchained the very heart and mind.

CRISPER COMA.

For Curling the Hair of either Sex into Wavy and Glossy Ringlets or Heavy Massive Curls.

By using this article Ladies and Gentlemen can beautify themselves a thousand fold! It is the only article in the world that will curl straight hair, and at the same time give it a beautiful, glossy appearance. The Crisper Coma not only curls the hair, but invigorates, beautifies and cleanses it; is highly and delightfully perfumed, and is the most complete article of the kind ever offered to the American public. The Crisper Coma will be sent to any address, sealed and post paid for $1.

TO TOBACCONISTS.

It is a well established fact, that TOBACCO well flavored commands a better price and more ready sale than it does when not flavored or but badly so. Such being the case, we did it not be to the interest of Manufacturers to use liberally sure flavoring materials, such as

Oil Aniseed,	Tonka Beans,
" Bergamot,	Gum Styrax,
" Cinnamon,	Mace,
" Citronella,	Nutmegs,
" Cloves,	Angelica Root,
" Geranium,	Orrice "
" Lemon,	Snake "
" Mirbane,	Valerian "
" Nutmegs,	Aniseed "
" Sassafras,	Cardamom Seed,
" Wintergreen,	Coriander "
Allspice,	Fennel,
Cinnamon Bark,	Gum Arabic,
Cloves,	Olive Oil, &c.

We have constantly on hand a large stock of the above articles; also, Branding Brushes and Inks of all kinds, which we sell very low.

MEDICINES, &C.

SAUNDERS'

CATHARTIC AND ALTERATIVE PILLS.

RECOMMENDED BY THE BEST PHYSIcians. Purely Vegetable. No Calomel in them. Never Gripe; being Coated with Gum Tolu are perfectly tasteless.

For regulating the Bowels, and for the cure of Bilious Fever, Bilious Headache, Constipation or Costiveness, Jaundice, Indigestion, Piles, Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Sick Headache, and all diseases where a reliable Cathartic medicine is required.

Dr. W. F. Mallett, who has no superior as a Physician in North Carolina, has examined the formula by which these pills are made and highly recommends them.

Col. W. J. Martin, the distinguished Patriot and Professor of Chemistry in the University of North Carolina, has analyzed them, and certifies that they contain no Mercury or any other mineral constituent whatever.

THE

AMERICAN BITTERS.

The Great Southern Tonic,

AND THE MOST PALATABLE STOMACHIC EVER USED.

FOR THE CURE OF DYSPEPSIA, DISORDERED Digestion, Flatulency, Sluggish Circulation of the Blood, Intermittent Fevers, arising from a morbid condition of the Stomach and Bowels. An Elegant Tonic in debilitated states of the Digestive Organs, or of the system generally.—For the loss of appetite it is the most wholesome and effectual Tonic in the world. It strengthens nature and enables the system to triumph over disease. In wakefulness attended with tremors and general nervous derangements, it is peculiarly adapted, giving strength and tone to the nerves. To delicate Ladies and Children it is invaluable—and to fact wherever a pleasant and agreeable Tonic is wanted, this should be used.

Dr. Johnston B. Jones, one of the most scientific and well known Physicians in the Southern States, testifies to its great value, besides many others who have been greatly benefited by the use of these Bitters.
