RALEIGH, N. C., THURSDAY, AUGUST 8, 1867.

NO. 1.

THE SENTINEL.

WM. R. PELLE, PROPRIETOR.

MRS. SURRATT.

Hon. Mr. Merrick, in the course of his speech for the defense, in the case of John H. Surritt, indulged in the following withering invective:

"Following on Judge Pierpont's declaration, which I have read to you, and these circumstances, comes Mr. Carrington, breaking the elements of the tomb, and demanding your verdict against Mrs. Surritt. In God's name, isn't it enough to try the living? Will you pile the guano, and bring her from the cold, cold earth, and hang her corpse? Bring her in, but there is no occasion for doing so; she is here already. We have felt our blood run cold as the fastening of the garments from the grave swept by us. Her spirit moves about, and the Judge Advocate General, and all those men may understand that it is the eternal law of God—though so far as men are concerned, fresh and innocent blood may apparently vindicate innocent blood previously shed. His spirit shudders before her, because she is with him by day and by night; and he may say: Awful and quit my sight! Let the earth hide these bones; they are unclean; they bleed in cold. But the cold blood of the marrowless bones is still beside him, and her whispering are pressing that great judgment day when all men shall stand equal before the throne of God; and when Mrs. Surritt is called to testify against Joseph Holt, what will be in vindication of her?"

Gen. Merrick of the jury, in my learned brother's going to try her in this case, why he gave us the benefit of her dying declaration? Mr. Carrington, your Honor, has gone outside of it in speaking of the military commission, defending the major general and others. I am glad I returned to it for it reminds me of a statement of his that I desire to correct. He says we accused those honorable men of murder. No, sir; I retract from any expression of opinion on that subject. It is true that the most exact judicial tribunal in the world, vindicating the liberty of American citizens and their constitutional rights against military authority and the supremacy of the courts over the military law, have pronounced that and all other commissions similarly constituted to be illegal; but what I denounce here is not the men who in judgment set there, but the men conducting the trial, and who, with this diary of Booth in their hands, could have proved Mrs. Surritt's innocence and shown the conspiracy to have been organized on the 14th day of April, but who, through producing the diary and the profane touch on Booth, yet never even so much as disclosed the fact that such a diary existed. They never made it known to those men or to the country. Do they not desire to be known to the country? Now that they become known to the country, they come in before this jury to get them, with the diary in evidence before them, to find the same verdict that the military commission found. I put a witness on that stand and asked him, "Did you administer the consolations of religion to Mrs. Surritt on Friday, and prepared her for death?" I asked him, "Did she tell you, as she was marching to the scaffold, that she was an innocent woman?" I told him that to answer the question before directed him to. He nodded his head, but he did not answer the question, because he had no right to. He ought to have said, "No, sir, I am going to try that woman, and she being unable to be here to defend herself, can you not at least have charity enough to let her last words come in her defense?" Will you try one who is not only absent from the court, but who is dead? Will you try one that is dead, will you try to let the poor privilege of having the last words uttered on earth spoken in her vindication? Were you afraid of it? Did you feel that the words would sink deep into the heart of everybody that was here in this room, and in the United States, and came to swell up from that heart a fountain of mercy, rich and pure as the fountain that sprang from the rock at the bidding of the blessed God? Shame on you! Prepared the world to come, and marching to the scaffold, with her God before and the world behind her, and a host of his laid at the feet of Almighty God, and no hope but in that eternal mercy upon which we must all rely, I ask whether she came at such an hour speak for herself. "No," you answer. "Why not?" I asked him, "No, sir, gentlemen, they will not say that. No, they are it? They did not want to hear it. Oh, they must indeed be hardened of heart, reckless of guilt, and indifferent to justice. But, although they had no desire to hear it, they do hear it, and you hear it, for as that voice spoke then, it speaks now, and will continue to be heard, till the last trumpet is heard. It descends upon the head of that boy and breathes upon each of your hearts. Yes, gentlemen, that voice in the nameless grave in your arsenal yard, the ceremonies of which have been broken by the Government, comes here to vindicate her child. A massive grave, did I say? Yes, it is a true one. Yes, sir, it would seem as if the ordinary feelings of humanity and common respect for the dead, to say nothing of regard for the honor of our country and sympathy for the sufferings of a distressed and loving daughter, would suggest to these pressing this prosecution (and who have charge of the matter) to allow this woman that privilege of paying a simple tribute to her mother's love by having her remains removed from a felon's grave. Yes; that mother lies in a nameless grave, where she never was buried, and her daughter has been her daughter, who for the past ten years has been earnestly pleading that she might have the privilege of giving this woman her mother's remains, and that she might have her mother's remains buried in a grave on the tomb."
