DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. B. PELL, Proprietor.

THE ADDRESS OF THE MODERATE REPUBLICANS.

The appearance of the first document from the moderate Republicans, demonstrates, we think, that it would have been wise in the Conservative party to have held a State Convention in Raleigh, early in the present month, as was at first designed. The address referred to, we think, falls far short of the occasion, and is not conceived in a spirit calculated to combine the Conservative elements in the State. It seems to be, in the main, a lecture to the Republican party, upon the impropriety of putting forward Northern men, at the expense of the native Republicans in this State. There is too much regard to men, and too little to measures. There is, we think, too much self-sufficiency and blind party pride to accomplish what the condition of the country required, and what we think a Conservative Convention could have brought about—a coalition of the Conservative men of all parties. It does not recommend, or even invite a combination for temporary purposes, which it might have done without sacrifice of principle. On the contrary, it simply advises the "people to meet in their respective Counties, and put forward men true to the Union, and trustworthy as Republicans, and by supporting such, manifest to the nation, that in North Carolina there exists such a prevailing sentiment of nationality, and such voluntary obedience to the laws of the land, that our restoration to rights and powers in the government, so far from being dangerous to the peace and welfare of the Republic, will add strength to the edifice of Union liberty and equality." Is it absolutely necessary that the people should, under all circumstances vote for a Republican, in order to manifest a spirit of nationality and voluntary obedience to the laws? Might not the moderate Republicans manifest this spirit by voting for the next best man they could find, in counties where it is simply impossible to elect their candidate? Are they to nominate their man in every county and trust to the chance of dragooning the Conservatives into their support, as an only hope of beating the Radicals?

The thing in a nut shell is simply this: The Conservative party at this time, under the pressure, of impending danger, is quite as patriotic as political parties' ever are and are not eager after seats in the Convention. They will, in order to beat the proscriptionists, vote for the man who is most available—whose past life is such as to give reasonable assurance of his patriotism; it matters not what his party predilections may be. But they desire to have a voice in the selection of candidates, especially in counties where they constitute a majority of the Conservative voters. The only plan which can be devised that will unite the whole Conservative strength is to call County Conventions of the Conservative voters, and when the Conservative party proper is in the majority, nominate a man from its ranks, because of his availability; when the moderate Republicans predominate let them have the nomination, and where the county is entitled to two members, let them select a man from each party. In this way the whole Conservatism of the country can be concentrated upon the Radical front, and can crush it to atoms. Without this, there is danger of distraction and defeat. The principles involved in the contest are few, and both parties are in accord upon them. The minor points of State policy should be left to future Legislatures and future party combinations. At present let us discard the dictation of narrow-minded politicians, who like locomotives are constructed for moving upon a certain track, and are worthless if you but widen or narrow the gauge by an inch.

They see small things in their immediate vicinity, but they cannot discern any great things in the future. Let Mr. Pool grumble at the Northern interlopers and Mr. Goodloe, in his weak way at the "copperhead victories" North, but the patriotism of the State has a higher duty; the preservation of its liberties, and it will discharge this duty regardless of these cumberous party engines.

LEVI SILLIMAN IVES, D. D. LL. D.

Levi Silliman Ives, formerly Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of North Carolina, and widely known for his religious writings, philanthropic works and conversion to the Roman Catholic faith, died at his residence at Manhattanville, at two o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the seventy-first year of his age.

Mr. Ives was born in Meriden, Conn., on the 16th of September, 1797. At an early age he removed, with his parents, to Lewis County, N. Y.; where he lived until he attained his fifteenth year, when he was sent to the academy at Lowville. During the last months of the war with Great Britain he served in the army, but upon the return of peace went back to school, entering Hamilton College in 1816. At first he studied for the ministry of the Presbyterian Church; but before he was ordained illness compelled him to leave the college, and upon his recovery to health his religious views became changed and he allied himself with the Protestant Episcopal denomination.—In 1819 he removed to New York, where he studied theology under Bishop Hobart, who ordained him in August, 1822. Three years later (1825) he married Rebecca, a daughter of the Bishop. After his ordination his first mission was to Batavia, Genesee County; subsequently he took charge of Trinity Church, in Philadelphia, where he was ordained to the priesthood by Bishop White, and in 1827 removed to Lancaster, Pa., and officiated at Christ Church. During the next year he returned to New York and served as assistant minister at Christ Church for about six months, when he became rector of St. Luke's, in this city. Here he remained until he was consecrated Bishop of North Carolina in 1831. While in North Carolina he became quite popular for his efforts in behalf of education and his success in providing for the spiritual welfare of the slaves. He also became widely known as a theological author from his works on the "Apostles' Doctrine and Fellowship" and the "Obedience of Faith," published in New York in 1840. When the excitement on the Oxford tracts broke out in the Episcopal church he strongly sided with the tractarike movement, and this position caused his alienation from his diocese. The fact was that he had doubted the truth of the Protestant faith for a long time, and in 1852 while on a visit to Rome openly renounced his faith and was admitted to the Catholic Church. This conversion on his part was severely denounced by the Protestant religious papers in the United States, and upon his return he defended the act in a work entitled. "The Trials of a Mind in its Progress to Catholicism" (London and Boston, 1854). After his return to America he became Professor of Rhetoric in St. Joseph Theological Seminary, and lectured in the convents of the Sacred Heart and the Sisters of Charity. He also occasionally lectured in public and served as an active President of a conference of St. Vincent de Paul. About ten years ago he conceived the idea of founding a home in this city for vagrant and orphan children of Catholic parentage, and having obtained the approval of Archbishop Hughes, set energetically to work to carry out his design. The result of his philanthropic labors was the establishment of the Catholic Male Protectory and the House of the Holy Angels, two of the most deserving charitable institutions in this State. They were first located in New York, but were afterwards removed to Westchester county, where they are now in operation. Both were under the charge and direction of the Society for the Protection of Destitute Catholic Children, of which the deceased was President from its incorporation to his death. Dr. Ives was a very able gentlemen and eloquent speaker, and his death will be much lamented by our Catholic community and by the public in general.

THIS COMPANY ISSUES TEN YEAR NON-FORFEITING ENDOWMENT POLICIES, contracting to pay the amount insured at death or the specified time.

An endowment policy presents the double attraction of providing for one's family or other dependents, in case he should be cut off before a specified age, or of securing to himself independence, in case he attains the age. Thus insuring for ten years, a note for one half of the cost will be taken by paying six per cent interest.

This plan gives, in addition to all the advantages of life insurance, a safe and convenient INVESTMENT for one's savings, till they have accumulated to a definite amount; which he receives in one sum at the specified time.

THIS NEW TRUNK LINE FORMS A GREAT FREIGHT ROUTE between Baltimore and Weldon, Warrenton, Raleigh, Hillsboro', Lexington, Salisbury, Morganton, Charlotte, Lincolnton, Gulfsboro', Newbern, Beaufort, Wilmington, Chesterville, Winnsboro', Columbia, Sumterville, Manchester, and all intermediate points on the most direct great Railways and their connections.

The Virginia Steamers connect at Petersburg with Petersburg Railway for all points in the Carolinas. Cars are run alongside of Steamers' Wharf and goods transferred with careful handling. Cars are run through without breaking bulk between Petersburg and Raleigh, Charlotte, Goldsboro', Wilmington, &c. &c. This Inland Line possesses many advantages over a Sea Route. Marketing is small and insurance is comparatively nothing. The Wharf of the Powhatan steamers is situated in the very centre of the great shipping district of Baltimore, ready to be approached by shippers, and drayage is very small.

Great attention paid to consignments of Cotton, Corn, Wheat, Flour, &c. &c. All produce forwarded at the lowest possible rates.

☞ To insure transportation over this Inland Fast Line, mark all goods, whether Northward or Southward bound, "VIA PETERSBURG."

☞ Freight landed in Baltimore day following delivery by the steamers.

Through receipts are given and fixed rate per 100 pounds guaranteed both ways.
