WM. B. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

SLAVE SONGS OF THE SOUTH.

The men and women of the South, who lost so much Moog with the Lost Cause, lost nothing so utterly as the domestic peculiarities which were associated with the system of negro slavery. The recollection of the old life on the plantations, of the once familiar faces, and faithful servitude, and grotesque gambols and inimitable dances and songs of the race who dwelt in humble quarters hard by the now ruined homes of the great Southern land-owners, must always be blended with a certain pathos in the minds of those who were reared in the South while yet the "institution" flourished.

That was the time when neither Sambo thought of a "vote," nor Dinah—impersonated in SOJOURNER TRUTH—of "woman's rights." That was the careless, happy time wherein both Sambo and Dinah, after their honest day's work was over, used to disport themselves, naturally and joyously, like the light hearted, merry-go-round creatures that they really were. Nay, that they really are whenever their lot is cast so that they can relapse into their normal condition; wherever they have found repose, under a kind and judicious direction, from the independent strife against superior odds for which they are evill adapted, and which tends to foster into amusing but painful prominence those worst follies of their nature, vanity and conceit. That was the time when the banjo was in all its glory.—A glory of vivid turbans and parti-colored scarfs and yellow draperies surrounded it; an intricate shuffling of heels and tossing of arms and a clamorous patting of many bronzed and calloused palms together were its accompaniments, until the blood of the dancing throng of darkeys rose to fever heat; when the spirit of song descended upon the multitude, and reascended from their throats in such staves and ditties as never were heard in all the world beside:

"I'm gwine to Alabamy,—Oh-h-h
For to see my mammy,—Ah-h-h.

'She went from Ole Virginny,—Oh.
And I'm her pickaninny.—Ah.

"She lives on the Tombigbee,—Oh.
I wish I had her wid me.—Ah.

"Now I'm a good big nigger,—Oh.
Reckon I won't be bigger,—Ah.

"But I'd like to see my mamm—,—Oh.
Who lives in Alabamy,—Ah."

Nobody who ever heard a distich like this, chanted by a band of negroes about a lurid fire of faggots in the night, can forget the impression produced by its strange barbaric cadences. Later, when the dance was done, there were always a few who remained clustered in front of the cabin doorways or on the adjacent fences, and joined in singing or wailing all sorts of fantastic dolgerel until the lights in the master's house were out, and it was no longer prudent to make a noise. The last song that was sung was very likely to be a hymn—something with a "go-to-meeting" or "go-to-heaven" in it, and abounding in deer loss notes:

"I know member, know Lord,
I know I yedde de bell da ring.

"Want to go to meetin' Society, better, praise house, (Base.) Bell da ring."

The false and degenerate negro-minstrel troupes who have established themselves in the Northern cities, give us nothing of this kind, and therefore nothing like the truly characteristic melodies that used to ring out of real African mouths on the plantations and decks of river steamers in the Southern States before the rebellion. The ballads—simple and beautiful as they are—that were written and set to music by song-writers in the North and sung by the old-fashioned minstrels years ago as the songs of Virginia and Alabama slaves, are rarely sung by the opera bawling minstrels of to-day. Yet even these would not suffice to represent the slave songs proper, and would convey a one sided estimate of the negro nature from which sprung the inefficient idess, the double-and-twisted yearnings after indefinite things, the cloudy conceptions, the weak pathetic plaints, that are, if not expressed, spasmodically intimated in rhymes like those we have quoted. These endemical lays are in fact chief among the signs and evidences of the normal African character. They disclose its perturbations, its unbalanced superstition and credulity, its disposition to accept and idealize, albeit in rough ways, whatever is set before it as good. The two ideas of the power of Christ and the strength of Faith, for instance, could not have been presented by any being save a Southern negro, as they are in these stanzas of a strain often chanted in the South before the war:

"King Jesus, he was so strong (ter.) my Lord,
That he jarred down the walls of hell.

"Don't you hear what de chariot say? (bis.)
De fore wheels run by de grace of God,
An' de hind wheels dey run by faith."

The turmoil of "reconstruction" has sadly interfered with the songful proclivities of those who originated and made the semi-tropical Southern nights vocal with such hymns. The darkey's aptitude for devotion to the Lord is at least temporarily superseded by the aptitude that the Radical priesthood has cultivated in him for devotion to what the gullible fellow yet believes to be liberty! When he shall have worn the chains that his new masters have fastened about him long enough to feel, resent, and cast them off, he may, perhaps, with all his emancipated brethren, be jubilant enough to recall some of the old melodies, and sing them as he used to sing them when the moonlight glistened among the sugar canes of the plantation where he was born, whose crumbling cabins are dark and still.—N. Y. World.

SOME OF THE SECRETS OF THE WHITE HOUSE MANAGEMENT.

"When Lord Lyons represented England at the Court of the Republic, his wife had a waiting-maid who took the fancy of a certain lady in the White House. By promises of preferment and increased wages, this waiting-maid was induced to transfer her services from Lady Lyons to another lady whose name had the same initial. She thought, poor thing, that she would have nothing to do but exhibit herself about the White House; but this delusion was very speedily dispelled; for it was only a few days when she was set to making drawers out of the linen sheets of the establishment. This wounded her feelings so much that she soon "gave notice" to her employer, and when she spoke of her sorrows to her friends, she said that the extraordinary length of the drawers she was employed on left no doubt on her mind as to the person who was to have the comfort of wearing them.

"Mrs. Clarke" made several trips to New York in the war times, and made some extensive purchases each time she came. On one occasion, the proprietor of a leading jewelry and furnishing establishment on Broadway, received (so the story goes) an order for a beautiful chandelier for the White House. The price of the chandelier was $500; but somebody (as I was not present at the time, I will not be positive about names) suggested that the bill should be made out for $1,000, and that the difference should be made up in jewelry.—But the gentleman to whom the proposition was made respectfully declined to entertain it, and thinks his chandelier was not sent to Washington.

On another occasion, a Broadway dealer, well-known throughout the country, was favored with an order for some superfine sets of porcelain and china ware for the national establishment. The value of the sets was 800, but other purchases made at the same time brought the bill up to $2,200. The storekeeper was requested to make the porcelain and china ware cover the amount of the bill, and, to oblige his customer, he did so. The bill went to the Secretary of the Interior, who said to himself: "Twenty two hundred dollars is a very high price for these sets; I must look into it." He did look into it by sending an agent to a large furnishing house in Philadelphia, where the same kind of goods were sold, and the agent went back to Washington with the information that the Philadelphia price of the article was $800. The Secretary of the Interior then wrote to the Broadway dealer to know how he came to charge $2,200 for goods that were sold for $800 in Philadelphia, and the merchant wrote back that he charged only $800 for them, and that the extra $1,400 covered the purchases which had not been specified."

LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY.

ASSETS $7,000,000.

THIS COMPANY ISSUES TEN YEAR NON-FORFEITING ENDOWMENT POLICIES, contracting to pay the amount insured at death or the specified time.

An endowment policy presents the double attraction of providing for one's family or other dependents in case he should be cut off before a specified age, or of securing to himself independence, in case he attains the age. Thus insuring for ten years, a note for one half of the cost will be taken by paying six per cent interest.

This plan gives, in addition to all the advantages of life insurance, a safe and convenient INVESTMENT for one's savings, till they have accumulated to a definite amount; which he receives in one sum at the specified time.

IMPORTANT TO

CAROLINA SHIPPERS.

THE NEW

Baltimore and Carolina Grand Trunk

FREIGHT LINE,

VIA PETERSBURG, VA.,

Comprising the following great Freight Routes:

THE POWHATAN

Steamboat Company's Freight Line of Steamers,

PETERSBURG AND WELDON,

RALEIGH AND GASTON,

NORTH CAROLINA,

WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA,

WILMINGTON AND WELDON,

ATLANTIC AND NORTH CAROLINA,

WILMINGTON AND MANCHESTER,

CHARLOTTE AND SOUTH CAROLINA R. R.,

And their connections.

Time Quick and Rates Low.

THIS NEW TRUNK LINE FORMS A GREAT FREIGHT ROUTE between Baltimore and Weldon, Warrenton, Raleigh, Hillsboro, Lexington, Salisbury, Morganton, Charlotte, Lincolnton, Goldsboro', Newbern, Beaufort, Wilmington, Chesterville, Winnsboro', Columbia, Summerville, Manchester, and all intermediate points on and near these great Railways and their connections.

The Powhatan Steamers connect at Petersburg with Petersburg Railway for all points in the Carolinas. Cars are run alongside of Steamer's Wharf and goods transferred with careful handling. Cars are run through without breaking bulk between Petersburg and Raleigh, Charlotte, Goldsboro', Wilmington, &c. &c. This Inland Line possesses many advantages over a Sea Route. Marine risk is small and insurance is comparatively nothing. The Wharf of the Powhatan Steamers being situated in the very centre of the grain shipping district of Baltimore, renders it convenient to shippers, and drayage is very small.

Great attention paid to consignments of Cotton, Corn, Wheat, Flour, &c. &c. All produce forwarded at the lowest possible rates.

☞ To insure transportation over this Inland Fast Line, mark all goods "either N. via and or Southward bound," "Via Petersburg."

☞ Freight landed in Baltimore day of leaving delivery to the Steamers.

Through Receipts are given and fixed rate per 100 pounds guaranteed both ways.

☞ Rates in every case same as via Bay Line and Portsmouth to and from Baltimore, Philadelphia and N. Y. steamers.

☞ N. B.—With regard to the named points, freight in the vessels to and from Petersburg by Philadelphia and N. Y. steamers.

TO THE MUSICAL WORLD.

THE undersigned begs leave to inform his patrons, and the musical public in general, that he has established

A GENERAL MUSICAL AGENCY

AT HILLSBORO', N. C.

The purpose of which is to assist those who wish to purchase Pianos or any other Musical Instruments, in procuring THE BEST AND CHEAPEST.

All Pianos sold by him are WARRANTED FOR FIVE YEARS.

To those who wish their Pianos tuned or repaired, experienced and reliable workmen will be sent.

Sheet Music will be sold at New York story prices. Orders for such must be accompanied by the money.

Parents and guardians will do well to consult him before purchasing Pianos or Instruments, as his aim is to introduce the VERY BEST INSTRUMENTS in our country, and they will receive no end of being disappointed.

Having been engaged in the Music business in this State and Virginia, for the last fifteen years, he flatters himself with the belief that he has been and always will be able to give entire satisfaction.

Respectfully,

CHARLES O. PAPE,
Prof. of Music, Hillsboro', N. C.
