DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. E. PELL, Proprietor.

[From the National Intelligencer.]

THE CONSTITUTION VINDICATED.

For more than seventy years it was the custom of all our public men to speak reverently of the Constitution. The statesmen who framed it were held in especial honor. Each of the two great parties claimed that it most strictly and faithfully adhered to the provisions of the instrument. It was our national boast abroad and at home that America was the only land possessing a written organic law, which seemed to embody the highest human wisdom, a law to serve as a guide and a check in seasons of difficulty, and within the limits of which the country might advance in its grand career of progress, power and rational liberty.

Statesmen, representing, however imperfectly, the legislative branch of the Government, deliberately and shamelessly avowing their contempt for this instrument, and insolently claiming a right to act outside of its provisions.

The organs of this Congress have abounded in essays to show how our noble Constitution was obsolete, unsuited to the times, and ridiculing the very idea of setting it up any longer as a standard and a limitation. It was arrogantly claimed by these revolutionists that the American people themselves were prepared, and even anxious, for this abandonment. And we have seen a body of statutes framed in such utter and palpable disregard of this Constitution, that the leader of the House of Representatives has expressly stated that it was agreed by his party to act outside of the Constitution; that that instrument had been "repudiated" by them, otherwise their proceedings, as he says, would have been a sheer usurpation. This broad and emphatic statement has been suffered to pass hitherto unchallenged by the co-actors in this business as a true exposition of the principles and aims by which the whole of them were guided in framing the reconstruction laws.

And yet these very Congressmen, thus avowedly "repudiating" the Constitution, had one and all of them taken a solemn oath to "support" it when they took their seats. It was, therefore, a false oath which they took; and yet, in other statutes, these same menjwere well pleased to consider perjury as a crime, and to affix penalties upon those who practised it.

The only pretence of respect for the Constitution on the part of these men, that we now recall, is their claim to impeach the President upon the assumption that in his proceedings, with respect to reconstruction, he had acted outside of the Constitution, although it is perfectly obvious that if the Constitution bound him it bound them also, and no less firmly. These men have no patent of nobility, either from God or from man. They have no more right to trample on or "repudiate" the Constitution than the humblest citizen in the land.—When they do this they become criminals, and are liable to punishment as such.

But they did not thus reason. Bloated with pride and arrogance, they choose to assume that the people of the Country were willing to surrender the charter of their liberties in order to invest them with unlimited powers, so that their sovereign will and pleasure should stand for law. From this pleasant dream of unlicensed and unbridled power, we imagine they have been somewhat rudely awakened. The great re action at the polls must now give pause, and the elections which are to follow must sternly admonish them that it is the determination of the people that the Constitution shall be obeyed as the "supreme law of the land," and interpreted, not by the sword, but by the judicial tribunals. If they listen to this instruction, and heed it, they will do well. If they do not they will be ground to powder. Appealing to violence, dethroning law, they may find "the poisoned chalice" commended to their own lips. Past crimes may be passed over, for as the nation moves on its march the dead may well be left to bury the dead; but a persistence in such high crime will not and ought not to go unpunished. The individuals who have been concerned in open and avowed violation of the Constitution would do well not to provoke a generous people too far.

The people having pronounced for a return to the reign of a written Constitution and laws, as interpreted by the judicial tribunals, it remains for every officer of the Government, whether of the Legislative or Executive branch, both soldiers and civilians, to give effect to this great principle on which the institutions of the country rest. In the place of expositions by military officers not versed in legal niceties, or even elementary principles, it is for the courts to say who are and who are not entitled to suffrage under the Constitution and laws.—Any election where this privilege is denied is a farce and a mockery; the people of the whole country will refuse to allow it to stand. And before any further elections in the South are held, it is fit and proper that the judicial tribunals should pronounce upon the rights of large bodies of persons now excluded upon a bare fiat of an unskilled individual, without opportunity of appeal or review by persons really competent to decide on the legality and constitutionality of this exclusion from suffrage. Action upon this basis is emphatically demanded by public opinion, by a just regard for law, and for those sacred principles of justice and liberty which are a necessary and inherent part of our institutions.

THE MARYLAND MILITIA.

The Maryland Militia wear gray. This is indicative of oligarchic tendencies. The Austrians wear gray, and Austria is an effete despotism. Storm clouds are gray, and storms do a great deal of damage to American shipping. Gray, also, was the rebel hue, and in its proper shades, this point inquiry should be made as to whether the wearing of gray cassett and breeches is compatible with the continued existence of a republican form of government. Congress must look to it. Such statements as that, under congressional direction, the government of maryland is half black and half white, and that, therefore, its militia uniform is appropriately a resultant gray, are not to be heeded for a moment. The loyal sentiment of the country is not to be trifled with in this matter. Its attention has lately been called to the subject of clothes, and it has ideas on that subject that must be heeded. Congress must look into this matter of treason as incipiently developed in the military tailoring of Maryland. But for his unfortunate obliquities valuable assistance might be received from Mr. Johnson, but, as it is, Congress must do its best and place A. J.'s denial of his professional requirements to the account of impeachment. No truly loyal man will conceal his sartorial knowledge from his country in time of need.

The Maryland militia, too, have purchased guns. This is entirely inadmissible.—Equal rights are only calculated for the meridian of loyal men. There is no force in the pies of State defence. If these men loved their country they would rest for security on the broad ægis of American liberty. Congress must therefore investigate these purchases without delay. A committee for that purpose, with pay and mileage, must be at once appointed; and it would be in accordance with a moral idea if the most improved pieces were turned over to the executive of some loyal State.—The less perfect guns might be cast into a bronze statue of the American Carnot.

The Maryland Militia is officered, in part, by ex-rebels, and this must be seen to. The theory of returning allegiance is [illegible] loyal sentiment. There must be no compromise with traitors. Magnanimity is the synonym of national weakness, and fraternity is a moral idea whose nature here is black. The colored troops fought nobly, and to these saviours of the Union should the command of the Maryland militia be given. Let Congress look to the matter at once. The life of the nation is in danger and the great popular heart beats responsive to its peril.—N. Y. World.

THIS COMPANY ISSUES TEN YEAR NON-FORFEITING ENDOWMENT POLICIES, contracting to pay the amount insured at death or the specified time.

An endowment policy presents the double attraction of providing for one's family or other dependents, in case he should be cut off before a specified age, or of securing to himself independence, in case he attains the age. Thus maturing for ten years, a note for one half of the cost will be taken by paying six per cent interest.

This plan gives, in addition to all the advantages of life insurance, a safe and convenient INVESTMENT for one's savings, till they have accumulated to a definite amount; which he receives in one sum at the specified time.

RAILROADS.

IMPORTANT TO

CAROLINA SHIPPERS.

THE NEW

Baltimore and Carolina Grand Trunk

FREIGHT LINE,

VIA PETERSBURG, VA.,

Comprising the following great Freight Routes:

THE POWHATAN

Steamboat Company's Freight Line of Steamers,

BETWEEN BALTIMORE AND NORFOLK,

NORTH CAROLINA,

WESTERN NORTH CAROLINA,

WILMINGTON AND WELDON,

ATLANTIC AND NORTH CAROLINA,

WILMINGTON AND MANCHESTER,

CHARLOTTE AND SOUTH CAROLINA R. R.,

And their connections.

Time Quick and Rates Low.

THIS NEW TRUNK LINE FORMS A GREAT FREIGHT ROUTE between Baltimore and Weldon, Warrenton, Raleigh, Hillsboro', Lexington, Salisbury, Morganton, Charlotte, Lincolnton, Goldsboro', Newbern, Beaufort, Wilmington, Chesterville, Winnsboro', Columbia, Summerville, Manchester, and all intermediate points on and near these great Railways and their connections.

The Powhatan Steamers connect at Petersburg with Petersburg Railway for all points in the Carolinas. Cars are run alongside of Steamers' Wharf and goods transferred with careful handling. Cars are run through without breaking bulk between Petersburg and Raleigh, Charlotte, Goldsboro', Wilmington, &c., &c. This Inland Line possesses many advantages over a Sea Route. Marine risk is small and insurance is comparatively nothing. The Wharf of the Powhatan Steamers being situated in the very centre of the great shipping district of Baltimore, renders it convenient to shippers, and drayage is very small.

Great attention paid to consignments of Cotton, Corn, Wheat, Rosin, &c. &c. All produce forwarded at the lowest possible rates.

☞ To insure transportation over this Inland Fast Line, mark all goods, whether Northward or Southward bound, "VIA PETERSBURG."

☞ Freight landed in Baltimore day following delivery to the Steamers.

Through Receipts are given and fixed rate per 100 pounds guaranteed both ways

☞ Rates in every case same as via Bay Line and Portsmouth to and from Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

N. B.—With regard to last named points, freight is forwarded to and from Petersburg by Philadelphia and N. Y. Steamers.
