CONSERVATIVE TICKET FOR THE CONVENTION IN WAKE

HON. DANIEL G. FOWLE,
REV. BENNET T. BLAKE,
PRIESTLY H. MANGUM,
JESSE A. NORRIS.

PROPOSED STATE CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

It will be remembered that, when the suggestion of a State Convention of the Conservative, Constitutional Union men of the State was made, some time since, for the 16th of October, meetings were held in several Counties and delegates appointed thereto. It was generally considered, however, that the time intervening between the date of the suggestion and that recommended for the holding of the Convention was too short, and, consequently, the project was abandoned. Meetings have been held in several Counties since, and delegates appointed to such a Convention, whenever it should be deemed advisable for one to assemble. The opinion, therefore, seems to have been almost universal among our friends, that there was a necessity for such a Convention, within some reasonable period, for purposes of consultation and mutual advisement.

In view of these facts, the County Convention, which assembled in this city, on Thursday, composed, as it was, of a large number of our best citizens from every section of the county, resolved to take the initiative in this matter, and have recommended to their brethren throughout the State the holding of a State Convention, in this city, on Wednesday, the 11th. day of December. If, therefore, the Conservative people of the State shall think proper to adopt the recommendation, ample time is afforded for action looking to a full representation of all the counties of the State.—The delegates heretofore selected will, of course, be considered as delegates to the proposed Convention, without involving the necessity of new meetings in the counties from which they have been appointed.

For ourselves, we heartily approve the suggestion that has been made. We thought, in the beginning, after giving the subject some reflection, that it would be preferable to hold the Convention after, rather than before, the elections in this State, for the reason that sentiment is so divided among our friends as to the proper policy to be observed in the elections, that it would have been impossible, probably, to have secured unity of action. By the time proposed, the elections in this State will have been held, and the result ascertained, and it will be necessary to arrive at harmony of opinion and combination of purpose, among all men in the State who are opposed to the spirit and purposes of Radicalism, in view of whatever exigency may then present itself.

What say our friends, then? Let us have the voice of the Press, and of the people in every county. Whatever is done must be done promptly.

THE PEOPLE'S TICKET.

We have not heard so general satisfaction expressed at the nomination of a ticket in this County, for years, as we have in regard to the nominations made on Thursday last, by the Conservative County Convention. Usually, no matter under what circumstances, when a ticket has been brought out heretofore, intimations have been thrown out that it was the work of the "Raleigh clique." In this instance, the Conservatives of Raleigh forbore an expression of opinion, until the meeting of the Convention and until the views and wishes of the people of the County were consulted. Whatever might have been the personal wishes of individuals, they were all merged in the general desire to get the best ticket possible.

On a very short notice, the people of the County, from sixteen precincts, were here to express their views fully, and the singular unanimity with which they spontaneously concentrated, without any previous interchange of view, is highly gratifying. The unanimous call upon Judge Fowle from every precinct, after it was known that he had publicly declined to run, exhibits the strong hold he has upon the feelings of the people of Wake, and the unanimity with which the whole ticket was chosen ought to inspire each one of them with the disposition to forego personal considerations, and to go to work in earnest to secure the election of the ticket.

There is no time for delay, no time to select others, with any hope of success, even if those chosen are disinclined to serve. We hope, therefore, that every man in the County, interested in the success of the cause of Conservatism over Radicalism, will put his shoulder to the wheel to elect the whole ticket. We hope that every man, especially, who has heretofore addressed the people, will make appointments to do so at once.

THE NORTHERN ELECTIONS.

On Tuesday next, the States of New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Delaware, Maryland, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Missouri, Kansas, and perhaps others, vote for State and Municipal officers.—The recent successes of the Democratic party in Connecticut, California, Maine, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, and Iowa, afford good ground for hope that the reaction, which has so happily been begun, will go on, increasing in power and magnitude, until our glorious Constitution and the Union shall be restored and harmonized from Maine to Texas, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific,—until all discord and anarchy shall be quelched, and peace and prosperity again visit as united and happy people. God grant it hasten the day!

THE LEAGUES AND COLORED VOTERS.

Months ago, while the furor for joining the Leagues among our colored population was in its incipiency, we suggested that employers would do well to enquire into the character of these Leagues, and at once adopt the plan of refusing to employ any person connected with them, whether white or black. We regarded this as legitimate action. The Leagues were at least known to be secret political organizations, and, whatever might be the character of their written or printed formulæ, it was even then known that, in some of the Leagues, which were under the control of bad men, very pernicious and dangerous doctrines and principles were being inculcated, among the blacks particularly, either in the League meetings or by members of them outside. Many good men, innocent as to any evil design, both white and colored, were drawn into them. They were told various stories about them—that there was no danger in them—that they were only secret, like Masonry. But it is well known what Masonry is, though its secrets are not known. But who knows, except the Leaguers themselves, what is taught in these Leagues? Masonry has given to the world its ripe good fruits from time immemorial, but where are the good fruits of the Leagues? Who has been benefitted but the lazy, worthless white and black men, who have been sent through the country to form them? Are they not known to have done immense harm? Are not the Leagues so many slumbering volcanoes to convulse the whole nation and to bring upon it death and ruin?

What man knows, when he employs a Leaguer, that he is not nursing a scorpion in his bosom? Who knows that he is not paying a spy to watch over his whole conduct, to report it to his enemies? It may be said, "that our Constitutions and printed or written formulæ are approved by the great men of the land." What of that?—Nobody is afraid of what is written or printed. Masonry does not confine itself to what is written. Its secrets are only to be found in the unwritten traditions of the Order, and yet the world has never seen any evil in Masonry. It is the unwritten teachings and the secret principles and acts of these Leagues, controlled and managed by bad men, that contain the mischief. Good men and wise men of this country, at every period of this nation's history, have condemned and put down every secret political organization which has been formed, as pernicious and destructive to free institutions, after their evil tendencies have been discovered. We believe every friend of liberty and of the Constitution and the Union should rally to put down these Leagues, by all legitimate means.

THE BEST evidence that the moving and active spirit of the Radicals in this State is enmity to the white race, is the fact that prominent Republicans, like Mr. Goodloe, Mr. Dick, Mr. Settle, and others, have been abused by them, because they were not bitter enough against the white race. Worthless demagogues and adventurers, and Northern negroes, reign supreme with the ultra Radicals of the South.

A STATE CONVENTION of the Conservative men of South Carolina is to assemble at Columbia, on Wednesday, the 6th. of November, for the purpose of embodying the views of the people upon the political issues of the day.

THE CONSERVATIVES of Robeson county have nominated Col. John Leach and Rev. Mr. Chaffin for the State Convention, if held. The Radical candidates are O. S. Hays and Joshua S. Nance. The Wilmington Journal says that Hays was one of Sherman's bummers.

MR. WILLIAM MURPHY, one of the most estimable citizens of Salisbury, died on Tuesday last, in the 55th. year of his age. He was an enterprising Merchant and public-spirited gentleman.

A SINGULAR CLAIM.—It will be remembered that Secretary McCulloch some weeks ago received a package containing $19,000, a greater portion of which was in 7-30 bonds, with the numbers cut out, and the remainder in national currency. No letter or signature accompanied the money, but the envelope was marked Urbana, Ohio. The money was placed to the credit of the conscience fund, there being nothing to show from whom it came, and the fact that the numbers were cut out of the bonds proved that the former owner of them did not want to be known. On Wednesday last a letter was received from a party in Wisconsin, the post mark being Honey Creek. The writer claimed that he sent the money to be converted into other securities, such as the Secretary might think proper to send, and gave as his reason for sending no communication or signature with the money, that he was very sick at the time and not able to write. The officers of the Treasury are of the opinion that the letter is from some party who saw the publication that $19,000 had been received, and thinks he can claim the same. Detectives of the Treasury will look into the matter.—Wash. Star.

Dickens will sail for Boston on the 9th of November. Tremont Temple has been engaged for him, and reserved seats will sell for two dollars. The Boston Advertiser understands "that it is Mr. Dickens's invariable custom, when giving public readings, to devote himself entirely to it as a business, and to accept no friendly invitations which would tend to take up his time and distract his attention. It is quite likely that he will feel compelled to pursue the same course in America, and to decline without exception the offers of hospitality which will undoubtedly be extended to him from all sides. This is, perhaps, unfortunate, for—not to speak of private disappointment—Mr. Dickens is an acute observer at all times, and our hotels are not the best places to study American character."

A young Rindoo named Roostumjee Burjorjie, only sixteen years old and son of a doctor in England, lately committed suicide by placing his head on the track of a railroad. Of course, he was instantly killed.—No cause is assigned for this act, except one cold-blooded rascal, that he could not bear the burden of his name. The jury however said that his mind was unsound.

Gen. Milroy made a speech in Winchester recently. The Winchester News asks:

"Wonder if Milroy called to beg Mrs. Logan's pardon for having stolen her elegant silver ware? The fact is incontestible that he did perpetrate such a theft."

The chairman appointed Messrs. Seaton Gales, G. H. Faribault, G. H. Alford, R. C. Badger, W. I. Busbee and R. W. Jeffries.

The Committee, after a short absence, returned and reported verbally through Mr. Gales, its Chairman, that nominations for candidates should be submitted in open meeting; that the delegates from the various districts, after conference among themselves, should, through the respective chairmen of the delegations, vote by ballot for four candidates,—each district being entitled to one vote; and that the four gentlemen having a majority of the whole number should be declared the nominees of the Convention.—The Committee also reported the following resolution for the consideration of the meeting, viz:

Resolved, That all those who are in favor of civil government under the Constitutional Union of our fathers and opposed to military rule; who are in favor of the supremacy of the white man and opposed to the supremacy of the negro, in the government of North Carolina; who are in favor of political equality between white men and opposed to the disfranchisement of any of them by the Constitution of this State; who are in favor of the Constitutional and legal protection of the lives, liberty and property of all the people of this State, without distinction of race or color, and opposed to the oppression of the persons, or the confiscation of the property, of any of them,—are cordially invited to unite with us in the election of truly loyal Constitutional Union men, as delegates to the ensuing State Convention.

The resolution and the verbal report of the Committee were unanimously adopted.

After nominations had been made, a balloting was held with the following result: Whole number of votes 16; necessary to a choice 9. Hon. D. G. Fowle, received 16, P. H. Mangum 15, B. T. Blake 14, J. A. Norris 10, and several other gentlemen 2, 3 and 1 each. When

J. Q. A. DeCarteret moved that the nominations be made unanimous, which was done by acclamation, amid much enthusiasm.

On motion of M. A. Bledsoe, Esq., a Committee of three (on which the Chairman appointed Messrs. Bledsoe, Gales and Badger) was appointed to wait on Mr. Norris,—the only one of the nominees understood to be in the City,—and request his acceptance of the nomination.

Soon thereafter, Mr. Norris appeared and promptly accepted the nomination in a few pertinent remarks.

Loud calls from various parts of the House brought, respectively, to their feet, Messrs. Russ, Bledsoe, and Badger, and Col. G. H. Faribault, all of whom made stirring and eloquent speeches, which elicited rounds of applause.

Mr. Badger offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That a Committee of five be appointed to inform the nominees of their unanimous nomination, and that the same Committee request them, in the name of the Constitutional Union men of Wake county, to accept the same and to canvass the county.

The Chairman designated, as the Committee, Messrs. Badger, Faribault, Bledsoe, J. A. Moore and Col. Russ; and on motion, the name of H. D. Bradley, Esq., Chairman of this Convention, was added to the list.

The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the Chairman of this Convention be requested to appoint a Committee of seventeen, who shall constitute an Executive Committee, having in charge the general interests of the cause in this county.

LETTERS OF "ITINERANT."

WAYNESVILLE, N. C., October, 1867.

Leaving Morganton, with a sigh for the departing cushioned seats of the Western Railroad, one has but to resign himself to the jolts of the old fashioned "stagecoaches." There have been but few modern improvements in this land, in this mode of transit. The old coach is as slow as ever. It jolts as bad as ever. The seats are as hard as ever. It seems as though staging had but so far to go in America, and not another inch.—No softer springs can be devised—no smoother roads—no such thing as re-painting. Like Fredericksburg, Va., it is completed and no more can be done to it.

Ah! the thought of Bishop Atkinson's luxuries in England—seventeen passengers to two horses, and ten miles an hour at that—it is quite a contrast to four passengers to two horses, and three miles an hour. However, neither England, nor any other land, yields finer views than Western North Carolina, nor purer water, nor kinder people.

"THE WESTERN TURNPIKE."

To an Eastern man, the idea of a journey from Asheville to the Tennessee line is associated with rocks, up hill pulling, and all sort of hardships. His delusion is dispelled only when he finds himself gliding along over a smooth, hard and well graded road, affording a most delightful journey, a real pleasure drive.

The State caused a road to be constructed from Asheville to the Southwestern limits of the State, running through Haywood, Jackson and Macon. After leaving Murphy, the county seat of Macon, it forks, one branch going to Ducktown, Tenn., the other to the Georgia line. It goes through many a mountain gap, and many a valley, and if there be poetry in the soul of the traveller, the journey over this road will bring it out. It will make him a happier and a better man.

Col. Thomas, of Cherokee renown, wears the laurel of this road. He is said to have engineered it through the Legislature.

"GREENLEE'S."

I told you of Marion, I think, last year; the County seat of McDowell. Last year town lots went begging in Marion. Now there are but few in market. The reason is, plainly, that Marion lies on the route of the unfinished part of the Western N. C. R. R. Then this section was still and motionless. Now it is under contract, and laborers are busily at work cutting and filling. By the perseverance of President Tate, a good sum of money, either green or some other shade, has been put into the hands of the contractors; and hands are wanted, and many have been set to work, and the dirt is flying.—The Railroad fever is up very high in this region.

Just midway between Morganton and Asheville, stands a home for the traveller. Now and then one falls upon a place where travellers have been stopping for many a long year. No stage agent ever thinks of putting his horses anywhere else. There is a place for the hats and coats, for the smoker, and especially the supper table and the snow-white bed, that carry conviction to a tender heart, and make one think of old-fashioned hospitality. Many of your readers will remember Mrs. Barclay's, Mrs. Greenlee's is to the Asheville and Morganton Road, what Mrs. Barclay's was to the Raleigh and Fayetteville Road.

But will it last? As the sound of the steam whistle approaches, is it not strange how the old ways and customs vanish?—In the exit there go many, many things that the world suffers by losing. There comes in place of them a coldness and a stiffness that chill the very soul.

A NOVEL ASCENT.

The Western Extension of the North Carolina Railroad encounters a little mountain on its route to the Blue Ridge. But they get around it this way: The track is made to wind entirely around the mountain, ascending all the while, until, when the circle is made, the track crosses over the track below—only it is itself ages many feet above; then, on it goes with the cry of victory.

I have seen a Railroad in Pennsylvania, probably a hundred miles long, with but one Locomotive on it, and this one only running, say some five miles. A stationary engine is planted on the top of a hill, and the cars are drawn up by wire ropes. When the train gets to the top, it is let down the other side, by its own weight for miles, down hill; then it is drawn up by another stationary planted on the next hill, and on so to the end.

I have also seen another Railroad, in New York, cross a mountain in a novel way. The track runs up the side of the grade, say half a mile or more; then it switches off, and runs back wards, only up a little higher, in a Zig-zag course, until it reaches the summit, and down the other side in the same way. This savis tunnelling, but not trembling.

"ELECTRICITY—WILD BEASTS IN THE BLUE RIDGE."

Those who have crossed the Blue Ridge, at Swannanoa Gap, will remember how very distinct is the point or line of the top of the Ridge just where the road crosses. The ascent from either side is steep, especially from the east. The road is very narrow. There is only a log cabin on the crest, but this is not occupied. It is a wild and lonely spot.

After passing over the Ridge and being absent some days, I had occasion to return to Summit. No little excitement prevailed. News had gone throughout the mountains, that quite a number of furious wild beasts had made their appearance on the Blue Ridge country, and that they were approaching the summit. A crowd had gathered at Swannanoa Gap, and by the time your Correspondent reached the scene, men, women and children had gathered together. Great anxiety was written in each face. The creatures were hourly looked for. What should be done? All stood huddled together, listening anxiously for information relative to the beasts.

The rumor was but too true. "Listen, that's a lion," says one, "sure enough!" It was a lion and no mistake. On they came! A little further and another roar. The hair stands on end. Nearer and nearer the furious creatures come. Flight is useless. What is a mountain but in the arms of a huge bear.

Now and then came first one and then another, at the mountain road, announcing that the news was true. "They will be here in five minutes," said a new comer, at last. The roaring evidently grew nearer and nearer. At last they came within rifle shot. The lion is in front. Behind him two or three dozen other beasts. The bear was foaming at the mouth. We determined to stand our ground and live or die together. On they came. Fortunately they did not see us at first—yet they were coming in a straight line to where we stood. Never saw I women behave better, when such creatures were so near—not a tear—not a shriek. Still all felt the occasion right upon us. On the creatures came. Slowly, but surely, right to us. There was no other road. They could go no other way.

At last they came within ten feet of us—at last the crest is gained—now is the crisis. What shall we do? All kept still as death. Every eye was wild with anxious expressions. At last they are upon us, when it is discovered that they were all in red cages and belonged to John Robinson!

A little male freedmen in those parts made a novel discovery about one of the animals. With eyes wide open and out of breath, he enquired of another of the fraternity: "Ben, did yer see de elephint?"—"No, whar he?" "Dar he go; see him Ben, got two tails, one tail on he head."

ITINERANT.

MARRIED,

Tribute of Respect.

At a special communication of Richland Lodge No. 214, held at their Lodge Room, Oct. 21st. A. D. 1867. A. L. 5867, a Committee was appointed to draft suitable resolutions expressive of the sense of this Lodge on the death of our Past Master, B. W. SHELLY. We therefore submit the following report:

It having pleased Almighty God, in his infinite wisdom to remove our honored and beloved Past Master, B. W. Shelly, from the terrestrial Lodge to the celestial Grand Lodge above where the Supreme Grand Master of the Universe presides, distributing crowns to those who by their skill, virtue, and inflexible fidelity, are found worthy to receive them; and our worthy Past Master having, by the uprightness and integrity which has characterized his short though useful life, and the ardor, zeal and faithfulness with which he has discharged the duties as Master of this Lodge, won all hearts:

Therefore, Resolved, That we bow with humble submission to the will of our Supreme Grand Master in the removing from us one honored and beloved Past Master.

Resolved, That while we sympathize with and tender to his bereaved family our warmest condolence, we no less deeply feel that their loss is his eternal gain.

Resolved, That we will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, as a token of respect to his memory.

Resolved, That this report be spread on the Journal of this Lodge, that a copy be transmitted to the family of the deceased and one to the Raleigh Sentinel, for publication.
