THE IMPEACHMENT FARCE.

ABSTRACT OF THE REPORTS.

The majority report of the Committee on the Judiciary which was submitted to the House of Representatives on Monday is, perhaps, the most important document that has ever challenged the attention of the people of this country. Its meaning should be deliberately weighed and its spirit dispassionately considered. It presents the inquiry whether Andrew Johnson, as President, "has been guilty of acts which were designed or calculated to overthrow or corrupt the Government of the United States, or any department or officer thereof, and whether the said Andrew Johnson has been guilty of any act or has conspired with others to do acts, which, in the contemplation of the Constitution, are high crimes and misdemeanors, requiring the interposition of the Constitutional powers of this House." The report is signed by five of the nine members of the Committee. It professes to present the results of "a comprehensive scrutiny running over a two years' administration of the affairs" of the Government. The charges preferred by the signers of this report against the President are thus generally and vaguely stated:

"It will be observed that the great salient point of accusation standing out in the foreground and challenging the attention of the country is usurpation of power, which involves, of course, a violation of law, and here it may be remarked that perhaps every great abuse, every flagrant departure from the well settled principles of the Government which has been brought home to its present Administration, whether discerning itself to special infractions of the statutes or to the profligate use of the high powers conferred by the Constitution on the President, or revealing itself more manifestly in the systematic attempt to seize upon its sovereignty and discharge and supersede the great council to which that sovereignty has been entrusted, in reference to the one great purpose of reconstructing the shattered governments of the rebel States in accordance with his own wishes in the interest of the great criminals who carried them into rebellion, and in such a way as to deprive the people of the loyal States of all chances of indemnity for the past or security for the future, by pardoning their offences, restoring their lands, and bringing them back, their hearts unrepentant and their hands yet red with the blood of our people, into a condition where they could once more embarrass and defy, if not absolutely rule, the Government which they had vainly endeavored to destroy."

After descanting in the same loose and discursive way upon the condition of the country at the end of the "rebellion," the report proceeds to condemn the President for not having called Congress together on his accession to office; for having—Congress not being in session—declared that the State Governments in the South had been destroyed; for having as Commander-in-Chief, and as President, nominated Provisional Governors; for having appointed to office men "who were notoriously disqualified by reason of their participation in the rebellion from holding any office under this Government;" for having called Conventions to form State Constitutions and having accepted and ratified these Constitutions; for having authorized taxes to be collected; for having assume l to "proclaim the restoration" of the Southern States to the Union; for having "vetoed various bills passed by Congress for the pacification of and government of the South;" recently in pardoning and "for having pardoned deserters from the army for the sole purpose of enabling them to vote, in the hope that they would sustain his unconstitutional proceedings; for having, by his messages to the House of Representatives and by other private and public means, attempted to prevent the ratification of an amendment to the Constitution; for having made "official and other public declarations calculated and designed to impair the credit of the United States," and to encourage persons to "resist the reorganization of the rebel States so called, upon a republican basis;" for having given up railway property and cotton, and abandoned property of various kinds, and for having used the Federal troops "for the dispersion of a peaceful and lawful assembly of citizens of Louisiana." Such is, in brief, the sum and substance of what may be called the bill of impeachment against Andrew Johnson. Of the arbitrary acts charged against him, most were done at the solicitation or with the concurrence of the men who now denounce him. The accusation that he has sought to exercise more than kingly power," is preferred by the very party which, when it was supposed he would be its subservient agent, strove to clothe him with more absolute and despotic authority than is wielded by Czar or Sultan.

Two members of the Radical party submitted a report dissenting from the conclusions of the majority. Messrs. Wilson and Woodbridge show by reference to legal authorities that an impeachment cannot be supported by any act which falls short of an indictable crime or misdemeanor. English precedents are referred to at length, and copious extracts are made from the testimony of the committee, in order to refute the reasoning and conclusion of the majority.

"We look down upon the real evidence in the case, that which will establish, in view of the attending circumstances, a substantial crime, by making plain the elements which constitute it, and the case, in many respects, dwarfs into a political contest."

"Impeachable crimes and misdemeanors, they say, do not bring him by having disappointed the hopes and expectations of the political party which placed him in power. They ignore "that he has been blind to the necessities of the times and the demands of a progressive civilization," and that he remains "enveloped in the darkness of the past and seems not to have directed the dawning brightness of the future."

The two Democratic members of the Committee, Messrs. Marshall and Eldridge, in their minority report concur with Messrs. Wilson and Woodbridge in their view of the evidence taken by the Committee. Speaking of its bearing upon the acts of the President, they say:

"We do not, however, believe the unbiased, the unprejudiced mind will be able in the testimony to discover any just or reasonable cause for condemning or impugning the motives by which he was actuated. Indeed, differing with him in opinion, as we have, as to the policy and propriety of many things he has done, and many more he has left undone, we feel compelled to declare that the proofs before us will not warrant a charge that he was in any instance controlled by motives, other than those pure and patriotic."

Messrs. Marshall and Eldridge insist that the whole movement against Mr. Johnson is a political impeachment, and speak thus of some of its features:

"With all due respect to the majority of the Committee, we cannot regard the charges made against the President as a serious attempt to procure his impeachment. Without dwelling upon their utter failure to point to the commission of single act that is recognized by the laws of our country as a high crime or misdemeanor, the inconsistency of the majority cannot fail to challenge the attention of the country. Acts for which Mr. Lincoln was clamorously applauded are deemed high crimes in Mr. Johnson. For every act so gravely condemned, the President had the sanction and approval of his Cabinet, and yet, while he is arraigned before the world as a criminal of the deepest dye, they are not only not impeached, but are recognized as special favorites of the party for impeachment. The latter have even gone so far as to unite in the passage of an extraordinary and unprecedented law to prevent the President from removing these officers from the places which they hold. Mr. Stanton, the late Secretary of War, gave his emphatic approval of the acts for which the President is arraigned, and yet the ex-Secretary is a favorite and popular martyr, and the whole country is vexed with clamors for his restoration to power and place. The President is held criminally responsible for the acts of subordinates of which he did not even have the slightest notice or knowledge, and yet those bringing him to trial enact a statute depriving him of all control over all these same subordinates, and they are deemed worthy of the especial protection of Congress. The President has used every means within his power to bring the great State prisoner, Jefferson Davis, to a speedy trial, and yet he has been denounced throughout the land for procrastinating and preventing the trial, while the judges and prosecuting officers, having the entire control of the matter, have been deemed worthy of the most honored plaudits."

On the impeachment case as how presented to the country, it is not difficult to anticipate the verdict of every honest and intelligent man. That Mr. Johnson and his advisers have, since the conclusion of the war, assumed powers and committed acts not warranted by the Constitution or in direct violation thereof, is not to be denied. How far all these acts are to be excused in view of the extraordinary and unforeseen circumstances in which he found himself and the country, we leave to be enlarged upon by those who argue that political measures are justified by the political necessities of the times. That all the acts for which Mr. Johnson is arraigned were infringements upon the Constitution is preposterously false, and it is ridiculous and absurd to pretend that the testimony brought forward in support of the majority report affords a shadow of foundation for the accusation that the President has, since the close of the war, been endeavoring to usurp the legitimate powers of Congress, or to "overthrow or corrupt the Government of the United States." We cannot undertake at this moment to elaborate these points. Nor do we think the intelligent people of the country will care to discuss them, for their attention is riveted on the one dark and appalling which forms the background to this impeachment drama. They know that the whole proceeding is a mockery and a sham, conceived in iniquity and supported by trickery and fraud. They know that for eighteen months past the President has been struggling for the restoration of the Union and the Constitution, and that Congress has been persistently adopting measure after measure which rendered the rehabilitation of the Union or the Constitution impossible. It is obvious to all men, that to secure a further lease of power the Radical party has sacrificed the prosperity of the South and the interests of its white population, and to that same end it is ready to sacrifice the North, and all that is left there of Constitutional law and civil liberty.—The whole impeachment business means revolution—a revolution which is to depose Mr. Johnson and to seat Benjamin Wade in the Presidential Chair—and to confirm the political ascendancy of the Radical party at the Presidential election through the agency of negro suffrage in the South and military terrorism and Treasury influences in the North. This is the terrible meaning of this impeachment proceeding, and the people of the country, leaving all minor questions for the time unheeded, should give it instant and earnest consideration.

COMPANY SHOPS, N. C.,

Nov. 9th, 1867.

MOST OF YOU HAVING AGREED WITH MY predecessor, Mr. Webb, to take now for your old bonds, I take this method of informing you we are now ready for the exchange.

To capitalists I would say, we will sell $300,000 of eight per cent. coupon bonds, secured by mortgage on the Road, and payable in five, ten, or twenty years, as the purchaser may desire, interest payable semi-annually.

The debt of the Company is about $700,000. Bonds to fund this debt will be issued.

The property mortgaged to secure the payment of these bonds is worth in currency seven millions of dollars. There can be no better security.

The bonds will be sold only at par.

The Powhatan Steamers connect at Petersburg with Petersburg Railway for all points in the Carolinas. Cars are run alongside of Steamers' Wharf and goods transferred with careful handling. Cars are run through without breaking bulk between Petersburg and Raleigh, Charlotte, Goldsboro', Wilmington, &c., &c. This Inland Line possesses many advantages over a Sea Route. Marine risk is small and insurance is comparatively nothing. The Wharf of the Powhatan Steamers being situated in the very centre of the great shipping district of Baltimore, renders it convenient to shippers, and drayage is very small.

Great attention paid to consignments of Cotton, Corn, Wheat, Rosin, &c., &c. All produce forwarded at the lowest possible rates.

☞ To insure transportation over this Inland Fast Line, mark all goods, whether Northward or Southward bound, "Via Petersburg."

☞ Freight landed in Baltimore day following delivery to the Steamers.

SAUNDERS'

CATHARTIC AND ALTERATIVE PILLS.

RECOMMENDED BY THE BEST PHYSICIANS. Purely Vegetable. No Calomel in them. Nerve Origin being Combined with Gum Tolu are perfectly harmless.

For regulating the Bowels and for the cure of Bilious Fever, Bilious Headache, Constipation or Costiveness, Jaundice, Indigestion, Piles, Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Disorders, loss of Appetite, Sick Headache, and all diseases where a Reliable Cathartic is required.

Dr. W. F. Saunders, who has had experience as a Physician in North Carolina, has examined the formula by which these pills are made and highly recommends them.

Col. W. J. Sarth, the distinguished Patriot and Professor of Chemistry in this University of North Carolina, has analyzed them, and certifies that they contain no Mercury or any other mineral constituent whatever.

THE

AMERICAN BITTERS.

The Great Southern Tonic,

AND THE MOST PALATABLE STOMACH MACHINE EVER USED.

FOR THE CURE OF DYSPEPSIA, DISORDERED Digestion, Sedentary, Irregular Circulation of the Blood, Bilious Complaints arising from a morbid condition of the Stomach and Bowels. An Elegant Tonic to counteract effects of the Digestive Organs, or of the system generally. For the loss of appetite it is the most delicious and effectual Tonic in existence. It strengthens nature and enables the system to triumph over disease and restores health and vigor to the nerves. For nervous Ladies and Children it is invaluable—and in fact wherever a pleasant and agreeable Tonic is wanted, this cannot be used.

Dr. Johnston Redmond, one of the most scientific and well known Physicians in the Southern States, testifies to the great merits of this and many others who have been greatly benefited by the use of these Bitters.

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA, } WARREN COUNTY.

In Equity.

Thomas L. Jones and others, vs. Petition for Sale of Land.

By virtue of a decree made in the above cause, at Fall Term, 1867, I shall offer for sale at public Auction, at the court House door, in Warrenton, on the 1st day of January next, a certain tract of Land belonging to the estate of Rev. Eli Alexander S. Jones, deceased, adjoining the lands of Wm. K. Kearney, J. J. Hall, Dr. Wm. Field and Mrs. Mary E. Williamson, containing about two thousand one hundred and seventy-six acres.

The tract of land is divided into a superior one, in view of its being in a well improved neighborhood, and is very convenient to market. The tract will be sold in two parcels for the convenience of purchasers, or in such manner as will be most for the interest of the parties. The purchaser will be required to pay one-third of the purchase money in cash or its equivalent, and the residue in two equal annual payments, with interest from the day of sale, to be secured by bond with approved security. Possession and a good title will be given on the first day of January next. The purchase money is payable in gold or its equivalent.
