The Daily Sentinel.

VOL. III. RALEIGH, N. C., MONDAY, JUNE 22, 1868. NO. 270.

DAILY SENTINEL,

WM. E. PELL, Proprietor.

From the Washington Journal.

A Northern friend, at present a resident of this State, but, who evidently has some familiarity with Northern politics, narrated us a few days since with the inquiry as to the prospects of certain individuals for the Senatorship from this State. After giving our views and demonstrating the evident uncertainty of the chances, he remarked very confidently, but interrogatively, "It will require considerable money to secure the office?" For the moment we forgot the "situation" and recollected only old North Carolina and the eminent statesmen who had represented her in the Senate of the United States, and our disposition was to remonstrate with our friend at the insult to the memory of Macon, Mangum, Badger and their distinguished compeers, but immediately the humiliating recollection forced itself upon us, and, bowing our head in very shame, we stammered out an awkward confession of the force of the question, coupled with an apology for the disgraceful admission in the changed character of our General Assembly. The insult of yesterday was indeed but a shrewd calculation to-day.

While Northern strangers are casting lots among themselves, in friendly rivalry, or contending with growing acrimony for the spoils in North Carolina, it is refreshing to read the following letter from General Charles R. Stone, formerly from Massachusetts, but now a citizen of Virginia, in response to a nomination by the Conservatives of his district for State Senator. We commend it to others similarly situated, who have yet left any self-respect to save:

GENTLEMEN:—I received your letter informing me that, in a Convention of delegates, duly appointed from the counties of Goochland, Powhatan and Fluvanna, I was unanimously chosen as the candidate to represent this Senatorial district in the General Assembly of Virginia, should the Constitution now before the people be ratified. While expressing my thanks to the Convention for this expression of confidence, and to you, gentlemen, for your flattering communication of its action, I must respectfully decline the nomination for reasons which will surely be satisfactory to you and to the Convention.

When perilous times come upon a people it is a proud position for a man to find himself selected as their free choice from among all his fellow citizens as their representative in the public councils—the defender of their rights—the protector of their interests. Being so selected, any man is bound to answer the call, and, leaving all thoughts of private interests behind, to devote himself to the duties thus imposed upon him. The knowledge that tens of thousands of his fellow-men so clearly select him for such duty ought to excite to action every thing of noble, everything of ability which a man may possess. But to become thus inspired one must know that the choice is perfectly free, the confidence entire and unreserved.

It is not to be supposed that it can have been a perfectly free choice in this case. I is not to be supposed that in a Virginia Senatorial District, comprising three large counties, a free choice should set aside all the gentlemen who were born and bred in the District, and who have lived honored in it from youth up, and select one, who, while yielding to no one in a sincere and earnest devotion to the welfare, and in a desire to protect the rights, and advance the interest of the people of the district, yet has been a resident in it only two and a half years; one who was born a Yankee in Yankee land, and who looks back to five generations of Yankee ancestors, glorying in the lineage. Public duty demands of a man that he shall, if necessary for the public good, sacrifice everything that is his, save his self-respect. That can never be required, and if required cannot be yielded.

I should lose mine did I accept a public trust not freely offered, and climb to office by reason of the present peculiar condition of public affairs.

While, by its Constitution, our country claims to be a free Republic, resting upon the consent of all the whole people, no voluntary act of mine shall appear to admit that it is not one—and it would be apparent, should I now be selected from among my peers for the trust in question, that one strong point governing the choice is my mere ability to freely take an abominable test oath, which disgraces the proposed Constitution of the State, rendering ineligible large numbers of the most honorable and most trustworthy voters and tax-payers within its limits.

I can never accept office under such conditions.

I have the honor to be, gentlemen, with great respect, your obedient servant,

(Signed) CHARLES F. STONE.

COMETS IN THE SOUTH.

Occasionally there strays into our hands a periodical called The American Freedman, published in New York and Philadelphia, under the auspices of "The American Freedmen's Union Commission." The June number is now before us, and contains some startling revelations. Let us before remarking specifically to the, ..., that this is emphatically, a feminine ..., that is, the organ of the "sche..." The association which issues it is entirely under the control. It has eighty ... Philadelphia, and sixty ... "Committees and Secretaries." All the ... are from adventurous ..., but lively enough, she subjects ... they write have a feminine ... June number, we regret to say, ... a decided reaction in favor of ..., and that, too, on a subject of intensely ... interest. These ladies who have gone South are enlarging the limits of development mental and physical. They think, and rightly too, that neither the human mind, black or white, nor the human body, should be subject to artificial restraints. Forcibly, they glory in the Venus of Milo or Medici, unhampered by dress, or Hottentot beauties developed in other directions. Judge, therefore, their surprise, when they discovered, in South Carolina, that the free leaders of the freedmen manifested a disposition to check the exuberant development natural to the race, and to put on corsets and lace tights. To [illegible] we are literal quotations, the italics not being ours:

"Miss Laura M. Towne, depicting the ignorance and superstition in St. Helena [illegible], S. C., writes: 'The need of mental cultivation is not great; but all other needs seem of less importance.' The vices of domestic tyranny, recklessness, card playing, smoking, drinking, and tight lacing! against which slavery guarded, from the self-interest of the owner, can now only be overcome by education."

In a letter of a late date Miss Laura writes: "The women and girls are just taking the idea of tight lacing," and then she adds:

"In short, we are to keep constantly on the alert by some aspect of the old enemy, generally in such matters as were before regulated by the old slave owners, the people having no intelligent reason given them for the necessity of the order they had to obey. Instruction must now remedy this."

Now, such a report must present a startling and perplexing problem to the Philadelphia ladies to whom it is made, every one of whom is at this moment encased in that feminine garment composed of muslin and whalebone, known as a corset, and laced up to the full extent of the elasticity of the female form. Are not the freed women entitled to the same privilege? If white Mrs. A. or Mrs. B. or Miss P. can lace tightly, why shall not Topsy do the same thing? They, we mean the white women, have all been to school—learned their catechism and their commandments, which Miss Goubt (another marm) says he is gross learn with difficulty, especially the eighth, and yet they all wear corsets. How, then, is it that "education" and "instruction," according to Miss Laura, can prevent the negroes from lacing themselves up? But how is it, we venture to ask, that the women of South Carolina are able to get corsets? A pair of corsets, we are credibly informed, costs at least three or four dollars. This is a large outlay for a poor negro woman. Is it possible they are furnished gratis by the Freedmen's Bureau? We should not be at all surprised.—Philadelphia Age.

NORTH CAROLINA

ALL STATE

RAILWAY LINES, (THAT USED TO BE!)

THE OLD RALEIGH & GASTON RAIL ROAD,
THE SHORTEST, QUICKEST, SAFEST AND BEST LINE, NORTH AND SOUTH, TO BE LEFT OUT IN THE COLD, UN-LESS SHIPPERS SEND ALL

WAY VIA. R. & G. R. R.!!

WE inaugurated and are now fully prepared to meet the Great Through Inland Air Line Route to all the Southern Markets, and have successfully worked the Line to the entire satisfaction of shippers, North and South, for the last two years, as the ten Thousand Shippers North and South Carolina will testify. We feed the three new Steam Hundred Thousand Dollars for her interest in this Road—thereby saving the people from Taxation for all time to come and cheaper rates, and we unhesitatingly declare that we can and will give more dispatch to all points, North and South, than any other Line.

NOTICE!

The Great Inland Air Line Freight
