ADDRESS OF

HON. HORATIO SEYMOUR,

The Democratic Nominee for the Presidency,

IN THE NATIONAL COVENTION.

Mr. Seymour took his stand at the rostrum, when the cheers and plaudits of the whole assemblage—the galleries joining in—were renewed. The Chairman spoke as follows:—

MR. SEYMOUR'S SPEECH.

GENTLEMEN OF THE CONVENTION—I thank you for the honor you have done me in making me your presiding officer. (Cheers.) This Convention is made up of a large number of delegates from all parts of our broad land. To a great degree we are strangers to each other and view the subjects which agitate our country from different standpoints. We cannot at once learn each other's modes of thought or grasp all the facts which bear upon the minds of others. Yet our session must be brief, and we are forced to act without delay upon questions of an exciting character and of deep import to our country. To maintain order, to restrain all exhibition of passion, to drive out of our minds all unkind suspicions, is at this time a great duty. (Cheers.) I rely upon your sense of this duty and not upon my own ability to sustain me in the station in which I am placed by your kind partiality. Men never met under greater responsibilities than those which now weigh upon us. (Applause.) It is not a mere party triumph we seek. We are trying to save our country from the dangers which overhang it. We wish to lift off the perplexities and shackles which in the shape of bad laws and of crushing taxation now paralyze the business and labor of our land. (Loud cheers.) We hope, too, that we can give order, prosperity, and happiness to those sections of our country which suffer so deeply to-day in their homes and in all the fields of their industry from the unhappy events of the last eight years. I trust actions will show that we are governed by earnest purposes to help all classes of our citizens. Avoiding harsh invectives against men, we should keep the public mind fixed upon the questions which must now be met and solved. (Cheers.) Let us leave the past to the calm judgment of the future and confront the perils of the day. (Cheers.) We are forced to meet the assertions in the resolutions put forth by the late Republican Convention. I aver there is not in this body one man who has it in his heart to excite so much of angry feeling against the Republican party as must be stirred up in the minds of those who read these declarations in the light of recent events and in view of the condition of our country. In the first place they congratulate the perplexed man of business, the burdened tax-payer, the laborer, whose hours of toil are heightened out by the growing cost of the necessaries of life, upon the success of that reconstruction policy which has brought all these evils upon them by the cost of its military despotism and the corruption of its bureau agencies. In one resolution they denounce all forms of repudiation as a national crime. Then why did they put upon the statute books of the nation the laws which invite the citizens who borrowed coin to force their creditor to take debased paper and thus wrong him out of a large share of his claim, in violation of the most solemn compact?—(Loud cheering.) If repudiation is a national crime, it is a crime to invite all the citizens of this country thus to repudiate their individual promises. (Applause.)—Was it not a crime to force the creditors of this and other States to take a currency at times worth no more than forty cents on the dollar in repayment for the sterling coin they gave to build roads and canals, which yield such ample returns of wealth and prosperity? (Applause.) Again they say, it is due to the laborers of the nation that taxation should be equalized. Then why did they make taxation unequal? Beyond the injustice of making one class of citizens pay for another the states of the costs of schools, of roads and of the local laws, which protected their lives and property, it was an unwise and hurtful thing. (Cheers.) It sunk the credit of the country as unusual terms always hurtful to the credit of the borrower, do. They also declare the best policy to diminish our burden of debt is so to improve our credit that capitalists will seek to loan us money at lower rates of interest than we now pay, and must continue to pay so long as repudiation—partial, total open or covert—is threatened or suspected.—Then why have they used fully $500,000,000 of the taxes drawn from the people of this country to squander a despotic military authority and to crush out the liberties of the States, when if this money had been used to pay our debts capitalists would now seek to lend us money at lower rates of interest? But for this covert repudiation our national credit would not be tainted in the markets of the world. (Applause.)—Again, they declare of all who were faithful to the trials of the late war there were none entitled to more especial honor than the brave soldiers and seamen, who endured the hardships of campaign and cruise and imperilled their lives in the service of the country. The bounties and pensions provided by the laws are obligations never to be forgotten. The widows and orphans of the gallant dead are the wards of the people—a sacred trust bequeathed to the nation's care. How have these sacred trusts been performed? They pay to the maimed man, to the widow or to the orphan, a currency which they have sunk one quarter below its rightful value by their policy of hate, of waste and of military despotism; the pittances paid to the wounded soldiers are pinched down twenty-five per cent below the value of that coin which he had a right to expect. (Loud cheering.) Is there no covert repudiation in this? (Applause.) Again, they say foreign immigration, which in the past has added so much to the wealth, development and resources and increase of power to this republic—the asylum of the oppressed of all nations—should be fostered and encouraged by a liberal and just policy. Is this foreign immigration fostered by a policy which is in cruel mockery of laws just passed declaring eight hours to be a legal day's labor? But the cost of government and of swarms of officials so swells the cost of living that men must toil on to meet these exactions.—(Cheers.) The time was when we could not only invite Europeans to share with us the material blessings of our great country but, more than that, we could tell those who fled from oppression that we lived under a government of laws administered by the judiciary, which kept the bayonet and the sword in due subordination. (Cheers.) We could point to a written constitution which not only marked out the powers of Government, but with anxious care secured to the humblest man the rights of property, of person and of conscience. In immigration encouraged by trampling that constitution in the dust, treating it with contempt, shackling the judiciary, insulting the Executive and giving all the world to understand that the great guarantees of political and social rights are destroyed! (Great applause.) But the crowning indictment against the follies and crimes of those in power, is in these words: "That we recognize the great principles laid down in the immortal Declaration of Independence as the true foundation of democratic government, and we hail with gladness every effort towards making these principles a living reality on every inch of American soil." If, within the limits of ten States of this Union, an American citizen, stung by a sense of his wrongs, should publicly and forcibly denounce the men in power, because, in the very language of this Declaration of Independence, they have erected a multitude of new offices and sent hither a swarm of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance, he would, in all human probability, be dragged to a prison, or, if, in the indignant language of our fathers, he should exclaim, "They have affected to render the military independent of or superior to the civil power, they have abolished the free system of English laws and established there an arbitrary government"—for the offence of asserting these principles he would be tried and punished by a military tribunal. (Great cheering.) Having declared that the principles of the Declaration of Independence should be made a "living reality on every inch of American soil," they put in nomination a military chieftain who stands at the head of that system of despotism that crushed beneath its feet the principle of the Declaration of Independence. (Cheers.) To day, in some States, it is held by military orders to be a crime to speak out the indignation and contempt which burn within the bosoms of patriotic men. If to morrow a military order should be put forth in that State where the ashes of Washington, are entombed that it should be an offence to declare that the military should ever be subordinate to the civil authority, to speak out the sentiment that it was a disgrace to our country to let hordes of officials eat up the substance of the people, he who uttered these words could be dragged to prison from the very grave where lie the remains of the author of the Declaration of Independence. (Loud cheers.) From this outrage there could be no appeal to the courts, and the Republican candidate for the Presidency has accepted a position which makes the rights and liberties of a large share of our people dependent upon his will. (Applause.) In view of these things, can there be one man in this Convention who can let a personal ambition, a passion, a prejudice turn him aside one hair's breadth in his efforts to wipe off the wrongs and outrages which disgrace our country? (Cheers.) Can there be one man whose heart is so dead to all that is great and noble in patriotism, that he will not gladly sacrifice all other things for the sake of his country, its liberties and its greatness? Can we suffer any prejudices growing out of past differences of opinion to hinder us uniting now with all who will act with us to save our country? (Cheers.) We meet to-day to see what measures can be taken to avert the dangers which threaten our country and to relieve it from the evils and burdens resulting from bad government and unwise counsels. I thank God that the strife of arms has ceased, and that once more in the great Conventions of our party we can call through the whole roll of States and find men to answer to each. Time and events in the great cycles have brought us to this spot to renew and reinvigorate that constitutional government which nearly eighty years ago was inaugurated in this city. (Loud cheers.) It was here that George Washington, the first President, swore to "preserve, protect and defend" the Constitution of these United States. (Cheers.) And here, this day, we as solemnly pledge ourselves to uphold the rights and liberties of the American people. Then, as now, a great war which had desolated our land had ceased. Then, as now, there was in every patriotic breast a longing for the blessings of good government, for the protection of laws and for sentiments of fraternal regard and affection among the inhabitants of all the States of this Union. When our government, in 1789, was inaugurated in this city, there were glad processions of men, and those manifestations of great joy which a people show when they feel that an event has happened which is to give lasting blessings to the land. (Cheers.) To-day, in this same spirit, this vast assemblage meets, and the streets of this city throng with men who have come from the utmost borders of our Continent. They are filled with the hope that we are about by our actions and our policy to bring back the blessings of good government. It is among the happiest omens which inspirit us, now, that those who fought bravely in our late civil war are foremost in their demands that there shall be peace in our land. The passions of hate and malice may linger in meaner breasts, but we find ourselves upheld in our generous purposes by those who showed true courage and manhood on the fields of battle. (Cheers.) In the spirit then of George Washington and of the patriots of the revolution, let us take the steps to reinaugurate our government, to start it once again on its course to greatness and prosperity. (Loud cheers.) May Almighty God give us the wisdom to carry out our purpose to give every State of our Union the blessings of peace, good order and fraternal affection!"

On concluding his remarks Mr. Seymour was again greeted with loud applause.

DR. JORDAN,

OF NORFOLK, VA.

TREATS DISEASES OF THE THROAT, WINDPIPE AND LUNGS.

By a modification of the plan of the late Dr. Gibson, of New York, with a success far beyond any other treatment ever quite attained.

He has devoted much time and study to Female Complaints, hitherto considered incurable, with gratifying results. This disease of the most lucrative character, he has had the good fortune to cure in a short time.

Norfolk is one of the best localities for treatments of either class on the American Continent.
