WM. E. PELL, PROPRIETOR.

From the National Intelligencer.

AN UNEXPECTED CONFESSION.

When the bill introduced by Mr. Edmunds, of Vermont, for manipulating the votes of the Southern States in the electoral college, was under consideration in the Senate, Mr. Williams, of Oregon, made some admissions which we hardly expected from that quarter, in view of the extreme course that he has hitherto pursued. But the revolutionary march of Radicalism, sweeping away in its destructive progress every time-honored principle and tradition, and uprooting all the accepted doctrines of the Constitution, begins to alarm even those who have heretofore lent themselves to these violent measures, and who now feel, that like Robespierre and others, they may become the victims of that desperate policy which they had once so recklessly urged.—They have set a ball in motion which cannot be arrested until its race has been run; and if those who would now check its wild and furious career pay a part of the penalty which it involved, they will escape with less punishment than might be justly claimed from an outraged and disturbed country.

The confession of Mr. Williams is worthy of notice, and we commend it to the candid judgment of all who have been deluded or carried away by Radical teachings:

"It there is any objection that has been urged with force against the present Congress, it is the assumption of power over the States of the Union; the disregard of the rights of the States. I do not, of course, fully sympathize with that objection; but, at the same time, this proposition assumes that whenever a party majority in Congress chooses not to recognize a State government, at that moment that State ceases to have any right of representation in the electoral college. It will be said, as it seems to me, by those who are opposed to the policy of the present Congress, but the majority here have assumed the power to say that any State in the Union shall not be entitled to have representation in the electoral college. Is that a power which can safely at this time be exercised by this Congress? I ask if we have not burdens enough to carry at this time, derived from the legislation that has taken place in reference to the reconstruction of the rebel States? Is it necessary now that we should adopt this abstraction relating to all the States of the Union, by which we put ourselves in the position before the country of saying that at any time, whenever it suits the views or interests of a party majority in Congress, any State of this Union may be deprived of its right to vote for President or Vice President of the United States? I say we expose ourselves to this criticism at the hands of our political opponents, and it is a criticism that it will be difficult to answer."

Every syllable of this is true. The whole legislation of Congress has been a flagrant "assumption of power over the States of the Union, and a disregard of the rights of the States." The effort has been to destroy the federal system upon which this Government was founded, and to build up a centralized and consolidated form, with Congress as the governing power. Hence all the schemes for crippling the Executive and destroying his constitutional functions, as well as the open and outrageous shackles imposed upon the judiciary to prevent its free utterance, and the discharge of those just duties for which the Supreme Court was specially constituted.

In this work of subversion and destruction it was necessary to cast the Constitution aside, because its recognition in any shape imposed a check which would necessarily defeat the revolutionists. Hence Mr. Stevens and his followers boldly avowed that all their legislation was "outside the Constitution." In the face of that declaration, made by the foremost chief of Radicalism, and accepted by his party, it may well be asked, What value has all such legislation? To what respect is it entitled?—Where is its validity? Any caucus would have as much authority to pass laws, which are proclaimed by their own authors to be in disregard of the Constitution. If they may thus trample under foot the supreme law of the land, which commands the first obedience, and which these Destructives swore to support, with what propriety can it be claimed that their vindictive bills and persecuting proclamations shall receive respect?

Mr. Williams asked his colleagues, with much force and reason: "If we have not burdens enough to carry at this time, derived from the legislation that has taken place in reference to the reconstruction of the rebel States?" They did not find it convenient to answer that pertinent question; but the people will answer for them at the ballot-box next November. In the whole history of representative government, we doubt if so many outrages were ever perpetrated against the liberties and rights of the people as this Radical Congress and its predecessor have committed. They have abused the power of members to strike down every vestige of free institutions, to subordinate every great interest to their political supremacy, to follow with vengeance every individual who condemned their policy, and to convert the legislative department into a mere machine for party purposes.

THE EDMUNDS ELECTORAL COLLEGE BILL.—The most significant act of the present session of Congress was the passage the other day of the joint resolution, introduced in the Senate by Mr. Edmunds, to regulate the counting of the electoral vote cast in November for President and Vice President of the United States. Notwithstanding the boasts of the Radicals that Seymour and Blair can easily be defeated, it is evident that they do not believe their own statement; hence, the passage of the resolution above referred to, which in effect virtually places in the power of the majority of the two Houses in joint convention to throw out the electoral votes of Southern States, if they should happen to be cast for the Democratic candidates, and count them if they should be given for the Radical nominees. This is clearly the meaning of the recent legislation of the Rump; and, as there is no doubt of its enactment, the question is, will the people of the country submit to it? If Mr. Seymour shall be elected, will they allow a Rump Congress to defraud him of his right to hold the Chief Executive office of this Republic?

If the people are not allowed to choose their own President, the sooner the fact is definitely ascertained the better. The Democrats, from Maine to California, are in earnest; and if they elect their candidates on the 3d of November, they will inaugurate them on the 4th of March—peaceably if they can, forcibly if they must.—Wash. (Evening) Express.

SEYMOUR AND BLAIR.

Immense meetings, ratifying the nomination of Seymour and Blair, are being held in the principal cities of the Union.

The meeting in St. Louis was large and enthusiastic, and prominent gentlemen, heretofore hostile to the Democratic party, announced their determination to support Seymour and Blair. Missouri will give a rousing Democratic majority.

A spontaneous meeting was held in Louisville, Kentucky, on Thursday night, immediately after the reception of the news of the nomination. Speeches were made by Governor Bramlette, Geo. D. Prentice, and other prominent gentlemen. Geo. D. Prentice closed his speech as follows: "It is fitting that we rejoice. It is proper that we thank God and our own indomitable Democratic souls for our prospective deliverance. That we are to be delivered I know and feel as well as if the spirit of prophecy were upon me. I see victory upon us as plainly as I ever saw a star in heaven. But victory presupposes battle. To win it we must fight. And are we not prepared for the strife? Our country has long been filled with gloom and desolation and woe. A Government as horrid as a nightmare or an earth-devil or a hell-devil sits upon her bosom. The most beautiful portion of our broad land is swept by a sea of tyranny worse than a lake of fire and brimstone.—Let us, then, all of us, go forth to our work. If by our own fault we fail in the mighty cause in which we are now engaged, God's curses and mankind's and our own will rest upon us."

In Cleveland, Detroit, Omaha, Milwaukie, and, in fact, in nearly all the leading cities, impromptu demonstrations have been held, or arrangements are in progress for suitable demonstrations in honor of the ticket.

The Radical nominees have failed to inspire enthusiasm. Their names have disappeared. No one appears to think of them or speak of them. The revolution in public sentiment which commenced last summer is going forward, and it will not stop until there is a change effected in the administration of the Government.

A NEGRO PROPHET IN HANOVER COUNTY, VA.—A correspondent of the Alexandria Gazette thus writes from Hanover County, under date of 6th of July: "Early yesterday morning every road and by-path of our lovely land was filled with hurrying crowds of men, women, and children of the colored race, wending their way to the home of Baylor the prophet. Baylor is an old negro who has seen the Almighty face to face, and talked with him as man talks with man. He knows all things, present, past and future. He has wooden angels, good and bad, which he keeps chained in his domicil, who perform at his bidding the most extraordinary feats, and over whom he keeps vigils night and day. He gives to all who ask it the body and blood of the Saviour. He has constructed a chariot, in which he sits, and from which he discloses his wonderful visions and astounding revelations, and in which he designs to ride triumphantly to Heaven, like Elijah of old. To this strange being hundreds of the sons and daughters of Africa, for miles and miles around, were speeding their way, puffing, blowing, fanning, seething and sweltering beneath the melting rays of the July sun, to drink in the streams of supernatural wisdom which flow from his Heaven inspired lips."

[From the Port Gibson (Miss.) Standard.]

SPOONS FOR BUTLER—PORRIS FOR GRANT.—We read in a Mobile paper that a little son of General Grant rides about in the city of Washington on a pony, followed by a soldier in the uniform of the United States army. We think the occupation of the soldier might be more aptly filled by an eunuch of the Eastern Hemisphere. But to the pony there hangs a tale: If it is a Shetland pony it belongs to James W. Watson, of this county. After the surrender of Vicksburg, Grant's little boy rode a pony about the streets of that city attended by a negro. The little boy used to say that Pa captured him from the rebs. But the rebs thought his Pa had stolen him from the owner; and that stealing ponies for his children was not leading them in the way they should go. People in this region talk freely about the thefts of Butler and Washburn; but in our ethics there is little or no difference between stealing spoons and stealing ponies—since neither should be taken for public military use, or accounted for in the quartermaster's department. If there is truth in history, General Scott would have had all three of the foregoing Generals arrested, tried and punished by court-martial.
