THE VOTE IN THE APRIL ELECTION.

We publish below, for the sake of reference, the official tabular statement of the vote in the April election in this State.—The 20,774, who did not vote, were men who were registered, and entitled to vote, at the time of the election. In addition to this, it may be safely estimated that 15,000 men in the State are now enfranchised, who could not vote before.

LET US HAVE PEACE.

"Martial law," says General Grant in an official communication on Southern affairs, bearing date January 29, 1867; "martial law would give security, or comparatively so, to all classes of citizens, without regard to race, color, or political opinions, and could be continued until society was capable of protecting itself, or until the States returned to its full relations to the Union. The application of martial law to one of these States would be a warning to all, and, if necessary, could be extended to others."

How trippingly this reads does it not?—And what a light it throws on the manner in which, if General Grant be elected, we are to have peace. You will notice that this declaration of martial law being a panacea for civil ills bears date January 29, 1867, or prior to the passage of the first reconstruction act, whereby, in the language of said act, these Southern States were "divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States." Military rule was not set up in the South by Congress till March, 1867, and yet in January of that year General Grant favors martial law, and says, as though it were quite a matter of course, that the application thereof is one "would be a warning to all, and, if necessary, could be extended to others."

In the light of this revelation it is easy to see what is meant. "Let us have peace," says Grant. How? say we. "Martial law would give security" is his response.—N. Y. World.

Rev. Thomas H. Stockton, for several terms chaplain to the House of Representatives at Washington, and well known as a minister of the Methodist Protestant church, died recently in Philadelphia, aged sixty years.

IRON TIES vs. HOPE.

FOR BALING COTTON.

The New Orleans "Annual Statement and Prices Current" of 31st August, 1868, says:

"The marked success of iron ties, for baling Cotton, has so completely superseded the use of bale rope, that the supplies of the latter have been hardly sufficient to constitute a market, the receipts comprising only 2,310 coils against 25,-198 last year."
