REVOLUTION IN FRANCE.

The late excitement in political and financial circles in London and New York, occasioned by rumors of revolutionary outbreaks in Paris, and the fabricated reports of the death of Louis Napoleon, connected with the threatening discontent lately evinced in various ways by the enemies of the Emperor, naturally cause the mind to recur to the similar disturbances which, since the allies imposed Louis XVIII upon France, has been the process by which France has changed her rulers.

Charles X, who succeeded his brother, Louis XVIII, in 1824, was never able to make it an forget that he belonged to that Bourbon family whom they had twice hurled from the throne, and the nation was all the time restive under the yoke. The king appointed known opponents of liberal principles to every place in the ministry, and it was the remonstrance of the press which at last, fifteen years after the overthrow of the first empire, brought the hostile elements into collision. By the advice of his ministers the king issued a decree prohibiting the publication of any such journals or pamphlets but such as were authorized by the government. This was on the 25th of July, 1830. On the 26th the obnoxious ordinances were placarded on the walls of Paris; that night barricades were formed in the streets; on the 27th the people and the royal troops came in collision in various places; on the 28th there was more and terrible fighting; on the 29th the king fled from the city, abdicating in favor of his grandson, the Duke of Bordeaux, who was to be recognized under the title of Henry V. But the people only answered with the cry of "Down with the Bourbons." This prince is now living, and is still regarded by the old Bourbon party as the legitimate sovereign of France, under the title of Henry V. It may be well to remember that in the contest by which Charles X was dethroned the armed force in Paris upon which the king could rely did not number 10,000 soldiers, and that Paris, in insurrection, can furnish 200,000 fighting men.

The revolution of 1830 was consummated by the establishment of a constitutional monarchy, under the new dynasty of Orleans, by calling Louis Philippe to a throne by a small minority, not exceeding a third of either the Chamber of Deputies or that of Peers, which, in the language of the historian Alison, "at the dictation of a clique in the ante-chambers of the Duke of Orleans, disposed of the crown to a stranger to the legitimate line, without either consulting the nation or knowing what form of government it desired." It was on the narrow base of these votes in the chamber that Louis Philippe was content to found his monarchy. In 1848 he met the fate of Charles X. The prohibition of public gatherings of the people to discuss political affairs led to the introduction of banquets, to evade the prohibition, and the prohibition of them, in turn, led to the uprising of the people. Although Louis Philippe held Paris with a thoroughly armed force of 100,000 men, with a similar purpose in 1840, but was again made a captive and sentenced to perpetual imprisonment in the fortress of Ham. From this prison he escaped after six years and took refuge in England. When the French revolution of 1848 drove Louis Philippe from his throne, Louis Napoleon repaired to Paris, and was chosen a deputy to the national assembly, and, after a stormy debate, was admitted to his seat, taking the oath of fidelity to the republic. In May, 1850, he was chosen President. In 1851, the legislative assembly, which refused to pass several bills urged by him, was denounced as factious, and on the night of the 2d of December he executed his famous coup d'etat, dissolving the assembly, and sending the leading members to prison, while, at the same time, a decree was put forth ordering the establishment of universal suffrage and the election of a President for ten years. Under this decree he was again elected, and he then began to prepare for the restoration of the empire. In November, 1852, the people voted to revive the imperial dignity in his person, and he was declared Emperor under the title of Napoleon III. In January, 1853, he married Eugenie, Countess de Teba, a Spanish lady, by whom he had a son born March 16th, 1856.

The death of Louis Napoleon would deprive France of the wisest and most practical of its rulers for many centuries, and Europe of the only one of its kings who has been endowed by the Creator with the faculties of royalty. The immediate consequence might be another revolution, with consequences to France and the rest of the continent which no one can foresee. Under his reign France has made greater progress in material development than any nation in Europe.—Baltimore Sun.

TERRIBLE AND FATAL ACCIDENT.—This morning, about 2 o'clock, fire was discovered in Mr. Clendening's restaurant, on Taylor Street, rear of Gregg's Hall, which in a short time communicated to the main building, and in a few minutes the entire structure was wrapped in flames. The fire had obtained such headway before the alarm was given, that the firemen were unable to save the immense building; but by almost superhuman exertions, prevented communication with Major Thos. Davis' splendid row of houses adjacent—but mournful to relate, not without a terrible loss of life and limbs. A squad from the Independent Fire Company, assisted by several citizens, were endeavoring to get a stream in the rear of the burning building, when the South wall of Wearn & Hix's picture gallery fell, completely crushing the life out of two of the men, and severely, if not fatally, injuring several others. The following is a list of the casualties:

Killed—D. A. Carrington, Fraser B. Squier.

Severely Wounded—F. B. Beckham—legs broken and badly cut in head and body. Chas. F. Ryan—compound fracture of left leg and cut and bruised in body. Richard Toxer—right leg dislocated, and severely cut in head and body.—Columbia Phonix, (Extra,) Dec. 14, P. M.

A Most Wonderful and Successful Invention!
NEW METHOD OF WASHING CLOTHES WITHOUT LABOR.
THE AUTOMATIC CLOTHES WASHER AND BOILER.
Awarded the highest Testimonial wherever Exhibited.
Rev. M. W. STAPLES, Inventor and Patentee.
THIS BOILER is self-acting, and dispenses entirely with labor and the wear of clothes. The hot suds and steam by the action of fire, are driven up through tubes, poured upon the clothes, and forced through the fabric with astonishing rapidity, cleansing it perfectly without any rubbing. It has been thoroughly tested, and pronounced unequalled as a Clothes Washer, by those who have used it.
All fabrics, from the finest laces to the bed-blanket, can be washed perfectly and with ease and without the aid of the rubbing-board. For Flannels it is invaluable, as the rubbing, rolling, and pressing process must necessarily full them more or less.
It is truly a labor and clothes saving invention. Washing will no longer be a hardship, and washing day no longer a terror and a dread to housewives.
The invention can be used in any boiler, and the low price of the article places it within the reach of every family.
The saving in the wear of clothes will soon pay for the outlay.
It is estimated that 200 to 300 gallons of boiled suds pass through the clothes in thirty minutes; this being the longest time required for cleansing a boiler full of clothes.
Hundreds of these Boilers are being sold each week, giving perfect satisfaction.
Every Boiler sold guaranteed to do all we claim, or money refunded.
Can be seen in full operation at Longee & Brother's.
We are selling COUNTY RIGHTS rapidly.

MY STOCK IS LARGE AND VERY COMplete. Allow me to say that you see some very strange advertisements. Some say they bought goods before the rise—some after the decline—some just in time—some in luck again—some buy goods cheaper than anybody else—some selling goods at unprecedentedly low prices—some controlling the trade &c., &c., and all such stuff. What a lucky set of individuals!
Now just let me tell you, that there is more humbug than poetry in all this. Don't every man, woman and child know that it is humbug—large enough to be seen even with one eye shut? So let them talk, puff and blow, but stop. LOOK OUT! HANDS OFF! and show your good judgment by
